FARM DICTATOR BILL PASSES

PARLEY ON ARMS LIMIT OPPOSED BY ROOSEVELT

Fears World Would View U. S. Weak.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration, from the President down, today threw cold water on a movement in congress for a new international conference looking to a limitation of armament. At the same time the house naval affairs committee was conducting a hearing on the 800 million dollar naval building bill.

Senator William H. King [D., Utah] introduced in the senate a resolution requesting the President to call an arms limitation conference because of the current armament race which is provocative of international conflicts. A similar move is being sponsored in the house by Representative Maury Maverick [D., Tex.].

Concurrently with these events Representative Sam D. McReynolds [D., Tenn.], chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, called at the White House by appointment and discussed foreign policies with Mr. Roosevelt.

"Untimely and Preposterous."

Presumably Mr. McReynolds reflected the presidential viewpoint when, emerging from the conference and being asked his reaction to the arms conference proposals, he said such a proposal at this time would be untimely and preposterous.

The King resolution drew attention to concern of all nations over the provocative increase in world armament, the increasing tax burden and the interruption to trade and commerce. It called upon the President to invite all recognized governments to participate in a conference in Washington for the consideration of reduction and limitation of armaments of war on land, sea, or air.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, joined the administration attack on the proposal, saying it would be a costly sign of weakness on the part of the United States.

"Any such action by the United States senate at the present time would weaken the effect of our government's firm stand in the protection of our rights in China," he said.

"Our government for many years has attempted to fix a definite limitation on the building of naval armaments. All these efforts have been futile.

Failed in 1921 and 1922.

"Our government called and held such a conference in Washington in 1921 and 1922. The result was a failure. It did not result in a limiting of the quantity of naval arms but simply shifted the character of armaments. Other countries took advantage of this large loophole. The chief purpose of limitation of armament is to avoid the use of armament even though the cost of armament may be a factor. The Washington conference went further with limitation of armament. It prohibited carrying of war into China under any excuse.

"Japan wilfully violated that treaty, totally ending the effect of the Washington agreement. Only three governments, the United States, Great Britain, and France, entered the London quantitative agreement for limit on armaments; other great sea powers refused to abide by it.

"The very discussion of such obviously futile efforts would be misinterpreted by Japan and probably make our resistance to her illegal acts much more difficult."

Lewis Predicts Arms Increase.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.] also criticized the arms conference proposal, predicting that such a parley would result in an increase rather than a reduction in arms.

"Why repeat a conference that already has failed six times?" Lewis asked. "Nations will start out by agreeing to anything, but they always end up trying by every maneuver to find ways to increase their armed strength."

The Japanese foreign office spokesman's suggestion that an unofficial approach might be more successful in eliciting from Tokio information on the size of battleships Japan is building provoked only smiles of amusement in official Washington. Such an unofficial inquiry would not be made, it was indicated, for the very reason given by the spokesman himself when he said that the reply thereto would not be legally binding.

SENATE SENDS CROP CZAR ACT TO PRESIDENT

Provides Fines for Selling Surplus.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—By a vote of 56 to 31, the senate this afternoon adopted the conference report on the administration's farm dictatorship bill. The measure combines subsidies with the principle of compulsion to collectivize American agriculture.

The house having already approved the conference report, the bill now goes to President Roosevelt for his signature.

Final legislative approval of the new AAA scheme, which is far more drastic than the act invalidated by the Supreme court in 1936, came just a year after it was first proposed by a conference of farm leaders under the domination of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

First on Must Program.

It was the first item on the must legislative program for which President Roosevelt called congress into special session to meet "an extraordinary situation" last Nov. 15. Passed by both houses during the special session, the measure was submitted to conference on Dec. 21, and it remained there until an agreement was reached on Feb. 4.

Eleven Republicans, 17 Democrats and 3 Radicals voted against the conference report. Voting for it were 53 Democrats, 1 Republican—Arthur Capper of Kansas—and 2 Radicals, George W. Norris of Nebraska, and Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota.

Although supported by the American Farm Bureau federation, the bill was denounced by the National Grange as a scheme which asked the American farmer "to sell his birthright for a mess of federal pottage that he does not even get."

Declaration of Policy.

The purpose of the bill, as asserted by its declaration of policy, is "to regulate interstate and foreign commerce in cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, and rice to the extent necessary to provide an orderly, adequate, and balanced flow of such commodities in interstate and foreign commerce through storage of reserve supplies, loans, marketing quotas, assisting farmers to obtain, in so far as practicable, parity prices for such commodities and parity of income, and assisting consumers to obtain an adequate and steady supply of such commodities at fair prices."

[By parity is meant a price for a farm product which will equalize the farmer's buying power with his average buying power in normally prosperous farm years.]

All of this is what Secretary Wallace calls "balanced abundance . . . an ever normal granary."

Denounced as Suicidal.

Republican and Democratic opponents of the bill contended that it would establish an abnormal granary founded upon an economy of scarcity. Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] denounced as national suicide a policy of restricting production of American farm commodities at a time when one-third of the nation is ill-fed, according to President Roosevelt, and when other countries are increasing their production to take over the foreign markets lost by American farmers.

Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], who supported President Roosevelt both in 1932 and 1936, said the measure would put Secretary Wallace "in the class of Joshua, who commanded the sun to stand still."

"It is legislation that will change the very scheme of government in this country," Senator Johnson said.

Says Farmers Become Vassals.

Republican Leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon, veteran farm spokesman in the senate, said the bill would make every farmer in the United States "a vassal of the secretary of agriculture."

"Mr. Wallace," Senator McNary said, "will be the 'autocrat of the breakfast table.' He will control food prices from fruit juices in the morning to desserts at dinner."

Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] said it was absurd to pass such a legislative monstrosity because "it is manifestly, it is obviously, it is hopelessly unconstitutional." Even the Supreme court as it is now constituted, with an administration majority in control, must hold the measure uncon-

Ex-Wife Tells Escape from Killer-Maniac

The former Mrs. Margaret Harrison, whose ex-husband, Paul Harrison, escaped maniacal hammer killer, is being sought throughout the state, disclosed for the first time last night that she missed by minutes being the first of his murder victims. She is now in hiding, fearful that Harrison might kill her.

Harrison, who beat three men to death with a hammer in Chicago in 1932, and a woman in the forest preserve in 1931, walked out of the Illinois State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Chester Saturday night. To escape Harrison opened a door with a key he is believed to have made himself. Peter Florek, regarded as only a little less dangerous, also escaped. He, too, is being sought.

Never Lived Together.

Harrison's former wife, who will not give even police her address, nor her present name—she had her marriage to Harrison annulled—asserted that Harrison intended to hammer her to death on their wedding night. She added that she never lived with Harrison. They were married in the forenoon, and spent the afternoon finding an apartment. That done, it was time for Harrison, a garage mechanic, to go to work.

She waited late into the night for him to return, and then about 2 a. m. went to a neighborhood restaurant for coffee. During her absence Harrison called and left. But his visit was not one of love.

Carries Threat to Landlady.

"When I returned from the restaurant," related the former Mrs. Harrison last night, "my landlady was waiting for me. She was worried and upset. 'Your husband's been here while you were out, Mrs. Harrison,' she said to me. 'He was carrying a hammer, and he said he came over to kill you.'"

The marriage was ended there so far as the then Mrs. Harrison was concerned. The next she heard of her husband was his confession of four hammer murders. She said of Harrison: "He is plain crazy and should have been electrocuted."

Search Concentrated at Chester.

Meanwhile, the search for Harrison and Florek was concentrated in the vicinity of Chester, although Harrison has been reported seen in Mount Carroll, in northwestern Illinois, and Milwaukee, Wis. Sixty state police and as many prison guards were combing the Chester area late last night, largely because a prison guard and Gilbert Crisler, a filling station attendant, saw him in Chester at midnight, Sunday night. He darted out of sight before the guard could turn his automobile to pursue him.

Harrison and Florek opened the steel door of the Chester hospital with a homemade key, and walked away unnoticed. Warden Joseph E. Ragen said guards could not be charged with negligence, that the escape was "one of those things." Florek had escaped once before, but Harrison had been a model prisoner, he said.

FIREMAN WHO RODE WITH CASEY JONES RIDES AGAIN TODAY

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Sim Webb, now 65 years old, the Negro who was fireman for Casey Jones on his now famous journey to eternity, will mount the cab of a limited at 12:10 a.m. tomorrow for the run from Memphis, to Canton, Miss., that cost Jones his life.

J. J. McDonald, division editor of an Illinois Central magazine, said it would be the first time in 20 years that Webb, now a bricklayer, has been in a locomotive cab. He was 27 when the engine Jones piloted was wrecked near Vaughan, Miss., early the morning of April 30, 1900.

When Casey saw nothing could prevent the crash he applied the breaks, reversed the engine, and cried out to his fireman: "Jump, Sim! Jump!"

Sim jumped, but suffered only minor injuries. Casey stuck to his post and was killed.

KEEPS LIBRARY BOOK 49 YEARS; WAIVE 5C A DAY

Cleveland, O., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Don P. Mills, an attorney, returned a book to the public library today after keeping it 49 years. He took out the book when he was 10. Now 59, he observed:

"I guess I just forgot it. I came across it the other night while I was rummaging around."

He was happy when the library decided not to invoke its 5 cents a day overdue penalty.

The book—"The Whispering Pine," by Elijah Kellogg—is now a rarity, so the library was glad to forgive and forget.

Model Village Wins Buses to Capital; Now Asks Road

Greenbelt, Md., Feb. 14.—(AP)—After much palaver and petitioning, residents of this model government housing settlement obtained a bus line to their Washington jobs. Today they petitioned Prince Georges' county commissioners for a road over which the buses could operate. A road to Washington was maintained by the government during construction of the settlement. But now, the bus operators complain, it is full of washouts and cannot be used. Nothing can be done until the government turns the road back to the county, the commissioners told the delegation.

Chicago Hears How City Cuts Trafic Deaths

Milwaukee, with a population of 578,249, had sixty-five trafic fatilities in 1937. Chicago, whose population is approximately six times as great, had 848 fatalities—thirteen times as many. Milwaukee's trafic deaths averaged one to every 2,400 autos. Chicago's averaged one to every 700.

Milwaukee claims the distinction—and is unchallenged — of being the safest city in the nation. The measures that have helped to bring this about were explained in Chicago yesterday by Howard F. Ilgner, Milwaukee safety engineer, who spoke at a motor salon held at the Edgewater Beach hotel by north side automobile dealers.

Punishment Is Certain.

"Inevitable punishment of trafic law violators, education of motorists, and modern safety engineering are responsible in the order named for our low auto death rate," said Mr. Ilgner. "The inevitability of punishment for Milwaukee violators is shown in the recent annual report of the District Trafic court.

"There were 44,487 trafic arrests in 1937 and only 116 offenders escaped punishment. The violator's chance of evading the law is therefore less than 1 in 400. Milwaukee has had this kind of enforcement for twenty years."

The city's safety commission has a week of trafic school each year, Mr. Ilgner said.

Streets Are Improved.

Finally, said Mr. Ilgner, engineers constantly are improving the physical characteristics of the streets, such as safety islands and illumination. This is chiefly to safeguard pedestrians, who made up 72 per cent of the year's fatalities.

Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the Chicago council's trafic committee, declared however, that it is unfair to compare the two cities' trafic record because Chicago is so much larger than Milwaukee.

Mr. Ilgner agreed that trafic problems increase geometrically with a city's growth, but added: "No city has done anything outstanding in safety. Milwaukee has made progress, however, and this is more than many others have done."

Men to Become Real Block Heads in New Wood Hats

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Wood hats—yes, wood—will be worn by up-to-date men this spring and summer, stylists predicted today at the convention of the Men's Apparel Club of Indiana and the Indiana Clothiers and Furnishers' association. The hats will be of wood pulp, guaranteed—the stylists said—not to warp or splinter.

Cary Grayson Is Dead; Friend of 3 Presidents

Cary T. Grayson.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 15 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the American Red Cross, died early today.

The naval physician, 59 years old, close friend of President Roosevelt and the late President Wilson, had been ill of anemia. An acute respiratory infection had complicated his condition during the last few days. President Roosevelt visited Grayson's home late Monday, but did not see the patient.

Wife and Two Sons at Bedside.

Two of Admiral Grayson's sons—Gordon, a Yale student, and William, a student at St. Albans school here—and his wife were at his bedside. Cary Grayson Jr., a third son, left last month on an expedition to Africa but was notified when his father became critically ill and was returning home.

Grayson gave up an extensive medical practice in the capital to accept President Roosevelt's appointment as chairman of the American Red Cross in March, 1935. He refused the $17,000 a year salary and insisted instead on the income from an endowment fund, which netted about $4,300 a year.

Immediately "The Admiral" threw his tremendous vitality into the far-flung activities of the Red Cross. He applied the "ounce of prevention" philosophy he had used in safeguarding presidential health.

Adds Million Members.

During his administration more than 1,000,000 new members were added. Many millions of dollars were intrusted to Grayson's care as chairman. When the floods hit the Ohio and Mississippi valleys in January, 1937, Grayson was in command of the huge rescue and rehabilitation program of the Red Cross.

Colleagues cited Grayson's organization of disaster relief in the 1936 and 1937 floods as typical of his speed and decision in emergencies. The disaster staf was meeting in his office when first reports came in. "Take an airplane," he told one, while ordering a telephone operator to "get me the White House." Before the conference broke up he had talked to officials at the danger points and to the war department and assigned each worker to his post.

Wilson's Personal Physician.

Grayson's executive ability was called on by President Roosevelt both in 1933 and 1937 when he was made chairman of inaugural activities.

Admiral Grayson was a friend and physician to three Presidents and an adviser to a fourth. He was most widely known as the personal physician of Woodrow Wilson, to whom he was probably closer than any other man.

President Wilson promoted him from lieutenant in the navy to medical director with the rank of rear admiral. But Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft also knew him

MORE EVIDENCE DUG UP IN LABOR TERROR SLAYING

Police Warning on Violence Disclosed.

The labor terrorists who murdered Lloyd Rourke with a ball bat committed the crime less than two hours after eight leaders in attempts to organize hotel employés had been summoned to the state's attorney's office and warned that the violence in the Del Prado hotel strike must cease.

This was disclosed last night by Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's staf, who issued the warning to the organizers on behalf of State's Attorney Courtney.

Among those warned were George McLane and William J. Donovan. McLane, former saloonkeeper, is president of the Trades and Crafts council, whose efforts to organize the hotel's workers are blamed by the police for the Del Prado strike. Donovan, who once operated the Bon Air Country club, has taken an active part in the strike trouble as secretary and treasurer of the Laundry Workers union.

Known to Some of Terrorists.

The killers are known to some of the terrorists mingling with the pickets around the hotel, it was charged by Mal Coghlan, one of the three assistant state's attorneys directing the investigation.

Coghlan said the killers drove past the Del Prado last Thursday and waved to thugs on the sidewalk—presumably after crushing Rourke's skull. Because two Hyde Park policemen saw them and supplied a description, Coghlan has high hopes of tracking down the killers.

The policemen were on duty to protect the hotel's coal deliveries, Coghlan said, when the supposed killers passed in a black sedan without license plates, identical to the car seen by persons who saw the killers flee after striking Rourke down. The policemen did not then know of the attack.

Waving Believed Signal.

Coghlan said he believes the waving was the killers' signal that they had accomplished their mission of beating Rourke as he delivered laundry from the Del Prado at 5307 Hyde Park boulevard to the Fairfax hotel at 1369 Hyde Park boulevard.

The assistant state's attorney said he would locate every picket who was at the Del Prado that afternoon and try to force disclosure of the killers' names.

The six men seized at the Del Prado after the killing were questioned for hours yesterday by the assistant state's attorneys in charge of the investigation, William Crawford, Alexander Napoli, and Coghlan.

The Six Questioned.

These men, released last evening, are Charles Lindgren, 1813 West 63d street, president of the Laundry Workers union, local 46; Maurice Peterson, 3251 Wentworth avenue, business agent of the Laundry and Dyehouse Workers, local 712; George Smith, 835 West 53d place, business agent of the Hotel and Restaurant Employés, local 593; Abe Rosen, 1325 South Central Park avenue, business agent of the Laundry Drivers, local 712; Marshall Dubach, 7037 Eberhardt avenue, a paid picket for the Trades and Crafts council, and Frank Marn, 2308 South Trumbull avenue, a paid picket for the Window Washers union.

As picketing of the Del Prado went on yesterday two business agents were seized and taken to the Hyde Park station for questioning. They are Samuel Deahl, 1640 Van Buren street, of the Inside Laundry Workers, and Henry von Grabow, 7915 Kimbark avenue, of the Elevator Operators.

Capt. Ray Crane charged them with disorderly conduct and released them in bonds of $200 each.

Confers with Union Leaders.

State's Attorney Courtney conferred with men he described as the three most important union leaders of the city, but declined to tell who they were or exactly what was discussed.

Coghlan and Lieut. Charles Egan said the Trades and Crafts council, an American Federation of Labor affiliate is a "vertical" type of union and was organized six months ago in such a way that it can paralyze a hotel's operations. In it is represented every trade and craft serving hotels and apartment buildings. A strike by workers of any craft may bring a sympathy walkout of all the other organized hotel employés.

Trades and crafts in the council, the officials said, are awning hangers, bakers, bartenders and beverage dispensers, carpenters, linoleum workers and floor decorators, checkroom employés and attendants, waiters, cooks, electrical workers, elevator operators, engineers and firemen, miscellaneous restaurant and hotel employés, upholsterers, window decorators and plasterers, and laundry workers.

Start of Strike.

R. E. Langford, manager of the Del Prado, said the council tried to organize his laundry workers and all other nonunion employés. When he refused the organizers permission to enroll his employés in the hotel during working hours, he said, the engineers and firemen—one of his few union groups—were called out on strike although their contract with the hotel was still in force.

The strike, which began Feb. 3, left the hotel with no one to operate the heating plant, and Langford said the strikers put out the fires. Picketing then began, and deliveries of food and coal were hampered. Langford brought in nonunion men to replace the strikers.

While the investigation of the murder and the strike terrorism went on, Capt. Crane took a statement from the man Rourke had hired as a bodyguard, Edward Bergmark, 44 years old, 5466 Kenwood avenue. Bergmark said he accompanied Rourke on the three days before the slugging, but quit to take a WPA job.

Seek Second Bodyguard.

Rourke is believed to have hired another guard the day of the attack. Police are trying to locate him to learn why he was missing when the slugging took place. A few minutes before leaving for the Fairfax, Rourke had told Langford that the bodyguard had gone for cigarets 20 minutes earlier, and had not returned. Langford believes that Rourke tired of waiting and went alone to the hotel, and that the killers took advantage of their opportunity.

Rourke's widow, Lucy, who lives at 5533 Blackstone avenue, said last night that her husband did not tell her of threats he had received from terrorists who were trying to stop him from driving through the picket lines to fulfill the delivery contract he had with the Del Prado.

"He probably didn't want to worry me," she said. "I knew there was trouble and asked him about it, but he said he would be all right. He said he was putting another man on the truck in case of trouble."

Rourke's brother, Policeman John Rourke of the Woodlawn station, took a leave of absence yesterday to help trail the killers.

He will begin the task immediately after the funeral, set for 3 p. m. today in the chapel at 316 West 63d street.

PICK JURY TO TRY 2 AS CLEVELAND RACKET LEADERS

Cleveland, O., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Five women and seven men were seated tentatively as a jury today to hear evidence which authorities declare will show a huge conspiracy by labor union racketeers who extorted millions from business in Cleveland.

On trial are Donald A. Campbell, president of the Painters' District council, and John McGee, president of the Laborers' District council. They are alleged to have made themselves virtual czars of their organizations in extorting funds from business men by sluggings, shootings, and intimidations.

The trial is regarded as important because the prosecution's success in this case probably will determine the future course of authorities in using the mass of racketeering evidence gathered in a six months' investigation.

ACCUSE FACTORY OWNER OF FRAUD AFTER THIRD FIRE

The grand jury yesterday voted a true bill against Forest A. Miles, 1523 East 71st street, owner of the Miles Equipment Manufacturing company at Des Plaines, charging burning to defraud.

The factory at Des Plaines burned Nov. 8. The fire started in three places, investigators said. It was Miles' third fire in six years, the grand jury was told, and Miles has collected more than $36,000 in insurance. He increased the insurance on the Des Plaines factory to $50,000 on Nov. 1, it was learned.

Comparison of Trafic Safety in 2 Cities

This chart shows why increasing motor vehicle registration cannot be offered as a logical reason for increasing auto deaths. Milwaukee's motor vehicle fatalities have been dropping despite increasing registration since 1926, while Chicago's fatalities have been increasing with motor vehicle registration gains.

ELEVATED TOLL ROADS ARE GOAL OF SENATE BILL

Lewis Offers Federal, City, State Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—A bill authorizing joint action by the federal, state, and city governments in constructing elevated highway systems in congested areas was introduced in the senate today by Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.]

The bill would direct the federal government, through appropriate agencies, to make a survey of communities where trafic congestion impedes transportation.

U. S. to Provide Funds.

Following such surveys, the bill provides that the United States, in conjunction with cities or states, shall provide funds and methods to construct overhead or elevated transportation ways sufficient to accommodate vehicle trafic, travel, and trade between the cities and states.

The bill provides that construction costs shall be defrayed through a system of taxation or tolls.

Levy on Cars or Users.

The taxation may take the form of a levy upon the vehicle or the user of the vehicle traveling the proposed elevated highway structures.

The bill further provides that the levy shall be apportioned according to the manner and the nature of the vehicle, the distance traveled on the highways, and only in a proportion justified by the services rendered by the highways.

TWO FLEE AFTER ACCIDENTS; GET TERMS IN JAIL

Three motorists were deprived of driving privileges yesterday in the Safety court of Judge Charles Dougherty. They were:

JOHN KARBOWSKI, 31 years old, 2632 Magnolia avenue; leaving the scene of an accident; five days in jail and thirty days' suspension from driving.

WILLIAM JOHNSON, 40 years old, colored, 3006 Prairie avenue; leaving the scene of an accident; five days in jail and sixty days' suspension.

TRUMAN NELSON, 28 years old, 1846 Addison street; reckless driving; $10 fine and six months' suspension.

David Brown, 25 years old, 530 Millard avenue, won a continuance until Feb. 25 of charges of reckless driving lodged against him after he drove into a crowd waiting for a street car at State and 14th streets early Sunday.

ONE KILLED, ONE HURT AS AUTO RAMS TRUCK UNDER SODIUM LIGHTS

One man was killed and another critically injured last evening when the car in which they were riding crashed against the rear of a truck near Northbrook on the section of Skokie highway illuminated by sodium safety lights. Howard Carpenter, 36 years old, 1853 Greenleaf avenue, died shortly before midnight in Highland Park hospital. His companion was Karl Peterson, 32 years old, of the same address.

The truck had been stopped by county highway policemen, who intended to question the driver, Ben Levin, 4444 Grenshaw avenue, about the truck's license plates. Levin drove the truck off the highway, leaving only two wheels on the concrete, and was directly under one of the sodium lights when the crash occurred, police said.

Two youths were seriously injured yesterday evening when their motorcycle crashed into a loaded coal truck which was turning from Higgins avenue into Nagle avenue. They are Joseph Matyzaski, 15 years old, 4840 Hutchison street, the driver, and Alex Markus, 15, of 5615 Lawrence avenue. Edward Walsh, 7038 Summerdale avenue, was the truck driver.

No deaths from automobile accidents were reported in Cook county for the twenty-four hours ended yesterday at 4 p. m. This left the toll at 136 dead in the county since Jan. 1, of which 114 were killed in Chicago; 2,147 were injured in the same period.

FEDERAL COURT TO HEAR TRANSIT SITUATION TODAY

The impasse in the Chicago transit unification negotiations is scheduled to receive an airing in federal court today when interests representing the surface lines and the elevated railways appear before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to make their first report on the latest series of negotiations which began two months ago. Negotiators representing the two systems apparently have accomplished nothing in the way of a concrete solution of the unification problem since a new approach to the problem was begun Dec. 14.

1938 FACTS BLUR DREAMS OF 1908 ON CONGRESS ST.

Motor Club Objects to Big Real Estate Purchases.

BY HAL FOUST.

The claims of Congress street as a site for superhighway development are mainly historical. There are other possible locations for a new west side arterial where it would not be necessary to spend $17,609,400 for real estate for a right of way. But it was Congress street that the late Daniel H. Burnham named "The Axis of Chicago" in his monumental city plan published in 1908.

Joseph J. Cavanagh, general manager of the Chicago Motor club, yesterday thumbed through a copy of this 1908 report which did much to guide this community in the development of its lake front and its forest preserves. Some visions of the great planner failed to materialize and are no longer within reasonable expectancy.

Opposes Use of Gas Tax for Land.

Mr. Cavanagh, who is opposed to spending gas tax revenue for realty improvements, concluded from his reading of the report that "The Axis of Chicago" is one of the Burnham dreams beyond realization. Mr. Burnham's studies for the Commercial club more than thirty years ago were in an environment foreign to the modern automobile era. His day did not foresee fast motor travel; consequently many of his published statements on trafic are quaint anachronisms.

"The $25,000,000 Congress street proposal now before the city council is a modification, a partial modernization, of the Burnham plan," said Mr. Cavanagh. "The 1908 and the 1938 projects resemble each other in that they both would use Congress street and that they both have as a main objective the enhancement of real estate.

No Help to Nearby Property.

"A generation ago, this worthy aim of bettering neighborhoods would have been attained by constructing a broad boulevard. Today, a pavement for express motor trafic is of no advantage to abutting property. Look at the deteriorated property in widened South Park way or Warren boulevard. Remember the fine residences that once stood in Lake Shore drive north of Oak street.

"On reading the Burnham report it is easy to understand the ambitions of Congress street realty owners to sell their property to the public. It is an ambition thirty years old. When the Burnham plan was published, Congress street land assumed a speculative value, based on the assumption that some day it would be needed for the improvement.

Speculative Values Wane.

"As the years passed and the possibilities became more remote for the opening and development of Congress street, these speculative realty values waned. Organized efforts have been made in the last few years to revive these values by reviving discussion of 'The Axis of Chicago.'

"It is easy to sympathize with property owners who have waited long for some development of Congress street. The motor club does not oppose slum removal projects. It opposes a suggestion that such a project should be financed with gasoline tax revenue that is needed for a west side elevated highway for a maximum in travel safety and convenience."

The axis of Chicago, as Mr. Burnham envisioned it, was a plaisance of carriageways, plazas, monuments, and landscaping between a civic center at Congress and Halsted streets and a cultural center at Congress street east of Michigan avenue. A water color painting shows ladies with hoop skirts and parasols jaywalking fashionably among hansoms and phaetons.

The Field Museum was to be the center of a group of library and art buildings in Grant park facing Congress street. A Supreme court decision prohibiting structures in Grant park destroyed this dream. At Halsted and Congress streets a group of public buildings was to include "the town hall, the engine house with its lookout tower, the police station with its court of justice, and the postoffice." These improvements have been built elsewhere.

This Burnham report will be mentioned during debates on the present Congress street proposal, so let's read a bit further. Here is his description of an ideal boulevard:

". . . the streets from which all heavier trafic is excluded; the streets lined with commodious and even fine dwellings; the streets where grass and shrubs and trees assert themselves, and where they may be continuous playgrounds for the children of the neighborhood. . . .

Parks and Plant Displays.

"The smaller parks may well be adjacent to the boulevards, or may be expansions of them, thus providing larger playgrounds, for places of assembly, and for display of plants and flowers and rare and beautiful trees which appeal to the almost universal love of nature."

Trafic engineers today are trying to keep children's playgrounds remote from boulevards. On Lake Shore drive, fences have been erected to separate the pavement from the park. Fine residences have not sprung up on recently constructed boulevards such as Warren, South Park way and Augusta.

The present promoters of Congress street as a superhighway recognized this change. The plans before the city council call for barriers to close 31 north and south streets. But it's still called the "axis of Chicago" and its advocates contend that it is still a plan that will reconstruct blighted neighborhoods.

LITTLE FAHRNEY HEIR GETS MIXED UP IN A NEW ESTATE LAWSUIT

The matter of young Peter Fahrney's standing in the clan Fahrney was in court again yesterday. This time the action was before Judge John Prystalski and was brought by the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, as trustee for the $2,500,000 estate of Emery Homer Fahrney, son of Dr. Peter Fahrney, founder of the patent medicine fortune.

Emery Fahrney adopted Peter, the son of Merry Fahrney, Emery's capricious daughter, in 1933, and the bank's action seeks an interpretation of his will. The action is similar to one which was heard before Judge Grover C. Niemeyer, who ruled last week that Peter, who is 6 years old, is Dr. Fahrney's great-grandson and not his grandson, in the eyes of the law, and therefore should not share in the estate equally with his mother and her sister Myrtle. Attorneys for Merry Fahrney moved yesterday that the bank's suit be dismissed on the ground that the court has no right to interpret the will. Judge Prystalski will rule on the motion Feb. 23.

U. OF C. MEDICAL CLINIC TO TAKE OVER LYING-IN

Name May Be Changed to Honor Founder.

The Chicago Lying-In hospital, for many years considered one of the country's leading institutions for maternity cases, is to be merged with the medical clinic of the University of Chicago.

Interested officials said the merger was agreed on Thursday, but its completion will require about two months because of legal and financial rearrangements. There will be many mutual benefits, they said. The university will take over the hospital's assets of $2,800,000 and, in return, will strengthen the hospital financially. In honor of the Lying-In's founder, Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, the hospital probably will be renamed after him.

Affiliated Since 1927.

The Lying-In hospital and the university clinic have been affiliated since 1927. Later the university leased the ground occupied by the hospital for $1 a year.

After the merger, it was said, there will be no substantial change in the Lying-In hospital. All its present services, including the stockyards dispensary, will be retained. Dr. Frederick L. Adair is chief of service of the hospital. Dr. William H. Taliaferro is dean of the university medical school. Dr. De Lee is now distinguished service professor emeritus of obstetrics and gynecology at the university.

Founded Forty Years Ago.

The Lying-In hospital was founded more than forty years ago in four rooms of a tenement at Maxwell street and Newberry avenue. Dr. De Lee, then a young physician, was appalled at the conditions prevalent in obstetrics at that time, and he resolved to bring about an improvement.

In the years that followed he built a high reputation for his hospital and moved it to larger quarters as needs required.

LIBERALS TO FORM MAJORITY IN REVISED RUMANIAN CABINET

BUCHAREST, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Pending cabinet changes were expected today to return Rumania to a government similar to the Liberal régime of Premier George Tatarescu, whose ministry was replaced by the short-lived anti-Semitic Octavian Goga cabinet.

Six ministers of the present cabinet headed by Dr. Miron Cristea, patriarch of the Rumanian Orthodox church, are Tatarescu Liberals, and three posts in the cabinet still vacant were expected to be filled by former members of the Tatarescu cabinet.

A constitutional commission, appointed to draft a new Rumanian constitution after the fall of the Goga government, was at work with expectations of forming a two-part cabinet, consisting of a crown council and the full cabinet, to be headed by Cristea and Tatarescu respectively. It was thought this change would be effected this week. It was explained Dr. Cristea's resignation, if and when it comes, would be purely a technical move.

END OF BOSSISM IN ILLINOIS G.O.P. HAILED BY PARTY

County Committee Indorses State Slate.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Cook county Republican central committee yesterday voted unanimous indorsement of the slate of state candidates formulated a week ago at the Urbana conference. The indorsement was carried out with a whoop and a hurrah that continued as five of the six candidates spoke.

Among the most enthusiastic party workers at the session, which was held in the Hotel La Salle, were the ward committeemen of Chicago and the township committeemen from the suburbs in Cook county. They cheered assertions that the fight is now completely in their hands.

A New Order of Things.

"There is a new order of things," said Chairman Edward F. Moore as he opened the meeting. "The management and control of the Republican party is back in the hands of the men elected to manage and control it."

"History is being made in the Republican party of Illinois," said State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield a little later. This is the first of the 102 counties in the state to indorse a ticket picked by the real grass roots workers of Republicanism. This coöperation among the county chairmen is a wonderful thing and it will be a wonderful thing for years to come.

Room for All Republicans.

"None of our party leaders should look askance at the movement. All of them ought to indorse and aid it. We're going to start back to our old glory this year and we'll be all the way back by 1940. Every one downstate is determined to hit this campaign this year as they never have hit before."

"Senator Searcy is right," said Chairman Moore. "None of our leaders has been barred. There is room for all Republicans. The county committee door is open to them all."

"For once," said Charles A. O'Connor, state's attorney and county chairman of Kane county, "the downstate organization and the Cook county organization are in accord, and if we keep that up there is no doubt that we can win."

"Nobody can deny now," said Justus L. Johnson of Aurora, former chairman of the state central committee, "that the Republican party has returned to the ideals of Abraham Lincoln."

Indorsement Is Unanimous.

The indorsement of the slate upon the motion of State Senator William E. King was unanimous, and the five present spoke briefly in reply. State Representative Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, the choice for United States senator, said the extensive speaking he intends to do will be directed to the masses of the voters now paying the bill for governmental extravagances.

State Senator Simon E. Lantz, leader of the farm bloc at Springfield, candidate for congress at large, said that the farmers are worried about "this dumping of money into a hole from which it never comes back."

Other candidates who spoke were Frederick A. Virkus, La Grange, also a candidate for congress at large; former State Senator William R. McAuley of Olney, running for state treasurer, and George E. Lambur Jr., slate candidate for clerk of the Supreme court. The one candidate absent was Wiley B. Garvin, entrant for superintendent of public instruction, who was at home in Mascoutah, St. Clair county.

Confer on Campaign Plan.

After the committee meeting the state candidates conferred about their downstate campaign plan, but postponed until another conference the final decision as to their itinerary and speaking dates.

The principal activity among the Democrats was at Springfield where nominating petitions for Michael L. Igoe for United States senator, for State Treasurer John C. Martin for congressman at large, and for Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski of Chicago for clerk of the State Supreme court were filed. It is expected that all three will be on the state slate to be indorsed by the Cook county central committee whenever its next meeting is called.

FIND DYNAMITE AND POLICE MAKE MYSTERY OF IT

Mystery apparently attached itself last night to a quantity of dynamite found Sunday afternoon in the neighborhood of Homan avenue and Arthington street, where Sears, Roebuck & Co. is located. According to one police report, ten sticks of the explosive and four fuses were found. According to another police report, only one stick was found.

The records at the Fillmore street station show that Martin Saltzman, 1412 South Central Park avenue, found the dynamite in a cardboard box at Homan and Arthington at noon Sunday and turned it over to the station police. The complaint book lists ten sticks and four fuses.

The explosive was later given to Detective Frank Brady of the detective bureau bomb squad. Last night Brady said there was only one stick and no fuses and it was found at Homan avenue and Polk street. Saltzman also told this story.

ALTON LIMITED HITS BEER TRUCK; 1 DEAD, 3 INJURED

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—The northbound Alton Limited, crack passenger train of the Alton railroad en route from St. Louis to Chicago, was wrecked this afternoon in a spectacular collision with a brewery truck at a grade crossing two miles south of here.

A rider on the beer truck was tossed 100 feet and killed. His companion and the two members of the engine crew were critically injured.

Derailed by a steel beer keg which lodged under the front trucks, the engine plowed along the shoulder of the road for 150 feet, then overturned. Six cars left the rails.

The dead man was Tony Sauer of Springfield. Those seriously hurt are Frank Drake of Springfield, the truck driver; Samuel McLaflin of Normal, the engineer, and Edgar Weakly, 47 years old, of Bloomington, the fireman.

SEAT JURY TO TRY GIRL ATHLETE, 19, IN CHILD SLAYING

Veniremen Qualified for Death Penalty Verdict.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 14.—(AP)—A jury of three women and nine men unopposed to capital punishment was drawn today to try Mary K. O'Connor on charges she killed Nancy Glenn, 5 years old.

District Attorney Charles C. Gordon, in the course of a dispute with Defense Attorney William A. Gray while veniremen were being questioned, said he might ask that the girl athlete, who is 19 years old, be sent to the electric chair.

Neighbor of Victim.

Nancy Glenn was found dead last Labor day. An autopsy showed mud and water in her lungs. Miss O'Connor, a neighbor of the Glenn family, was arrested in November at the New Jersey home of her grandparents. She was quoted as saying she struck Nancy in anger when the child begged for a bicycle ride, and then left her for dead, face down in a puddle.

After today's session in the courtroom of Judge Joseph Sloan, Mrs. Marie Phillips, former Olympic women's gymnast, who is under $500 bail as a material witness, tried to talk with Miss O'Connor. A court attaché led her away.

Leaves with Her Parents.

Mrs. Phillips testified at an earlier hearing that Miss O'Connor, her friend, had told her she was responsible for the child's death.

Miss O'Connor left the courtroom in company with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. O'Connor. She is under $5,000 bail. Throughout the day Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Glenn, parents of the dead girl, and their son, Joseph Jr., 7 years old, were in the courtroom.

VAN NUYS WILL TELL POLITICAL AIM TOMORROW

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], who lost favor at the White House by opposing President Roosevelt's court packing scheme, today announced he will issue a statement Wednesday on his future political plans.

The senator would give no hint of what those plans are, but there was much speculation here as to whether he would announce his intention to run for reëlection as an independent candidate if the Democratic state convention fails to nominate him in May.

Van Nuys' action will come on the eve of the return of Paul V. McNutt, former governor of the state, from the Philippine Islands where he is high commissioner. There are reports that he will become a candidate for Van Nuys senate seat, perhaps as a preliminary to trying for the 1940 Democratic presidential nomination.

ROBERT D. LAY, 62, GETS LICENSE TO WED WOMAN OF 29

Mr. Lay is 62 years old and Miss Broughton is 29. Mr. Lay and relatives of his fiancée said last night that wedding arrangements have been made, but declined to say when the ceremony will be held.

Mr. Lay was granted a divorce on Jan. 14 from Mrs. Ida Lay by Judge Philip J. Finnegan. She was reported to have received an out of court settlement of more than a quarter of a million dollars.

SEEK $5,000,000 AS GIFT TO GET ROOSEVELT OUT

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—A movement has been started among Wall street employés and financiers to raise $5,000,000 to present to President Roosevelt on condition that he promise to resign within five months. The inspiration came from Glen N. W. McNaughton, attorney, occasional play producer and owner of 12 race horses. He is quite in earnest about it.

"I was talking with a friend over the telephone," McNaughton said today. "He said to me, 'What's the matter with the country?' I said, 'It's Roosevelt. We ought to get up $5,000,000 and give it to him to get out.'

"Well, sir, within a few minutes I got a telephone call from another friend and he said two of his stenographers already had offered a week's salary each. That's the way it started. There's no money collected yet. Just pledges."

Throughout the financial district, McNaughton said, clerks and financiers were "pledging money with an almost holy zeal."

"We have to do something," he said. "Why, things get going a little bit and then Roosevelt says something and the market goes to pieces."

3 VOTE GETTERS TO OPPOSE EACH OTHER AT POLLS

Three men who are considered to be Lake county's strongest vote getters and who never have opposed one another in a political race in the past will be opponents in the race for county clerk. They are Jay B. Morse of Libertyville, former county treasurer, William J. Stratton of Ingleside, former secretary of state, and Lew A. Hendee of Waukegan, all Republicans. Hendee was county clerk from 1910 to 1935, when he was defeated by the incumbent, Russ Alford, the first Democrat to be elected in Lake county since the civil war.

Morse is a former county treasurer and Stratton formerly was secretary of state.

Wife of Winnetka School Principal Wins Divorce

DEAF AND BLIND CHILD LEARNS TO SPEAK AND HEAR

Evanston Girl, 6, Breaks Through Silence.

Joan Higgins, Evanston's deaf-blind foundling, is beginning to hear. After six years in a world thick with silence, sound has bored through the darkness in which she spends her life, and Joan no longer is completely deaf.

And sound has coaxed the little girl into murmurs of delight and brought her the gift of speech. It is throaty, blurred speech. Usually it is only an articulation of her gesture of outstretched hands, flung-back head, and smiling face that tells her ecstasy at hearing at all. Her words are confused, vague. They run together. Often they do not fit what she is trying to say. But she talks.

Spent 5 Years in Hospital.

After her parents deserted her in infancy, Joan lay for five years in her soundless, meaningless universe, in a crib at Cook county hospital. She was born without eyeballs, and it was at first believed auditory nerves were lacking. Her only reaction was to pain.

Because she was deaf, she could not be accepted at the school for the blind. Because she was blind, she was not admitted to the school for the deaf. Then the state department of public welfare was authorized by Gov. Horner to pay for her board, clothing, and medical fees. Her instruction was undertaken by Prof. Robert Gault, Northwestern university psychologist.

Lists Forty Words.

That was eighteen months ago. Now, Dr. Gault believes, Joan is at last on the verge of using words to express her wants. He has listed forty words that she has at her command. She makes dozens of other sounds that may be half-formed words.

"We have been describing Joan as deaf-blind," he said yesterday. "That she is blind admits of no doubt. But apparently she has some residual hearing—or is it a sensitivity to vibrations impinging upon her skin? We do not know. An infection in her middle ear that has persisted since birth is clearing up under treatment. Perhaps that is the answer. It is only recently that any sound has been able to get through. We still feel safe in saying that she has insufficient hearing to be of service in her speech."

But her guardian, a mother with four children of her own, whom the chubby Joan calls mamma, has no such doubts.

Proud of Little Charge.

"It is wonderful what she can do," says mamma, who might be Joan's mother, so fondly does she praise her. "A year ago she said her first word. Now she knows all our names, what to expect from all of us, what she wants, and how to ask for it. She loves the phonograph.

"Sing, Joan, sing," she pleaded with the little girl, who sat jauntily playing with a color cone. "Mary had—a lit-tle lamb."

The child forgot the cones, leaned closer and clutched Mam's arm. Then she sang the first two words of the childish rhyme.

"You see," exclaimed her guardian, "Joan heard me, and she sang. It is like that with everything else!"

Joan is taking two lessons daily with Dr. Gault's hearing instrument, the phonotactor. She places her fingers on its flat top, which carries vibrations from her teacher's voice to her finger tips so that she can feel them. In this way she develops a sense of accent and inflection similar to that learned through the ear.

Unless her dim hearing improves a great deal the use of the device will be continued to educate her in patterns of vibration that correspond to speech and music.

TWELVE ARE SENT TO PENITENTIARY AS BOOTLEGGERS

Eight Still Operators Get Five Years.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday sentenced twelve men to the penitentiary, in what was considered one of the largest and most severe sentencing of illicit still operators since the prohibition law was repealed.

Eight drew terms of five years and fines of $3,000 each; three were sentenced to two and one-half years and fined $1,600 each; the twelfth received one year and a day, and fines totaling $600.

Assistant District Attorney Daniel Glasser, who presented the evidence with the assistance of agents from the federal alcohol tax unit, said the twelve were members of the largest syndicate of bootleggers operating in the middle west.

Urges Maximum Penalties.

Despite their plea of guilty, Prosecutor Glasser recommended imposition of maximum penalties under each of the many counts in the indictments.

From April, 1936, until the agents made their raid on March 13, 1937, Mr. Glasser told the court, the twelve men had been operating two stills on farms near Woodstock. He estimated they had produced 606,000 gallons of alcohol, defrauding the government of $2,500,000 in taxes.

Equipment confiscated by the raiders was worth $12,000, he said. There was also evidence, he added, that the syndicate paid farmers hush money.

List of Defendants.

Following are the defendants, arranged according to the severity of their punishment:

Five years: Joseph Digirolamo, Beloit, Wis.; Philip Cannella, Rockford; Sam Digaetano, 1523 Taylor street; Joseph Capriola, Rockford; Mike Anzaldo, South Beloit; Frank Brown, Beloit; John Sardo, South Beloit, and George Stasin, Beloit; two and one-half years: Angelo Baiconi, Rockford; Tony Laudicina, St. Louis, Mo., and Genno Andonna, Beloit; one year, Albert Kanzenbach, Waupun, Wis.

PUZZLE: IS TRAIN IN CANADA STILL U.S. TERRITORY?

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Here's an immigration brain twister:

Joseph di Pasquale, an alien legally in this country, was paroled recently from Auburn prison after serving several years of a thirty-six year robbery term. Later he boarded a train at Buffalo and didn't get off until it reached Detroit, but en route the train had been in Canadian territory.

The government seeks to deport Di Pasquale on the ground that he entered this country illegally when the train passed over the international border at Detroit. Counsel seeks a writ of habeas corpus, contending that since Di Pasquale didn't get off the train in Canada, he can't be considered to have been out of the United States.

FINDS MOTHER THROUGH RADIO AFTER 34 YEARS

Johnson City, Tenn., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Short wave radio reached out 9,000 miles and enabled William Bolus of Johnson City to find his mother, whom he had not seen for thirty-four years.

"If it hadn't been for Grover D. Campbell, my postman, I probably never would have found her," Bolus said. Campbell operates a short wave radio station in Johnson City. He and a friend, John F. Stanberg of Okemah, Okla., also a short wave enthusiast, put out calls for my mother, Mrs. M. Nuby. They succeeded in finding her in Sydney, New South Wales."

NEW ARMS LIMIT PARLEY OPPOSED BY ROOSEVELT

Fear Proposal Would Be Counted Weakness.

N. Y.] told the house committee it was not Japan but America and Britain that broke up the 1936 arms conference in which Japan sought naval equality in place of the 5-5-3 ratio.

Fish said President Roosevelt, Secretary Cordell Hull, and former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson all believed the President should have the power to punish an aggressor nation.

"If he had that power we'd be in war today," he said.

Youth Refuses to Fight.

Frank Littell, Mt. Vernon, Ia., student at Union Theological seminary, New York City, attacked President Roosevelt's request for increased military expenditures as anti-social action and said the young men he represented will not bear arms in event of war.

Littell, who described himself as social action chairman of the National Council of Methodist Youth, attacked the administration for having an ambiguous and undeclared foreign policy.

He said the President wanted a bigger navy to protect the American dollar abroad.

He was questioned by Representative James W. Mott [R., Ore.] as to how extensively his views were held by the 100,000 members of his organization. Littell was unable to say, except that such a statement was adopted unanimously by the executive committee.

Wouldn't Defend His Mother.

Mott asked what he would do if Japan attacked the United States.

Littell replied that he would seek to determine whether the attack was provoked by a collision of imperialistic interests. If his country proved to be wrong, he said, he would refuse to fight.

"How old are you?" Representative Frank C. Kniffin asked.

"Twenty years," the witness replied.

"Would you defend your mother and sisters with arms?" asked Representative Alfred N. Phillips [D., Conn.].

"I would not," he said, "and they would not want me to do it."

"Are there many others in your organization who would refuse to bear arms in these circumstances," Phillips asked.

"An appreciable number," replied the witness.

Netherlands Recognizes Italy's Rule of Ethiopia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Feb. 14.—The Dutch government has decided to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, and is sending Dr. J. B. Hubrecht as its new minister to Rome with credentials acknowledging King Victor Emmanuel III. as emperor of Abyssinia. The Netherlands thus becomes the first western European state to take this step. The government's decision was strongly opposed by Dutch Socialist and radical groups, but won the approval of the Christian parties which support the Colijn cabinet and have a majority in parliament.

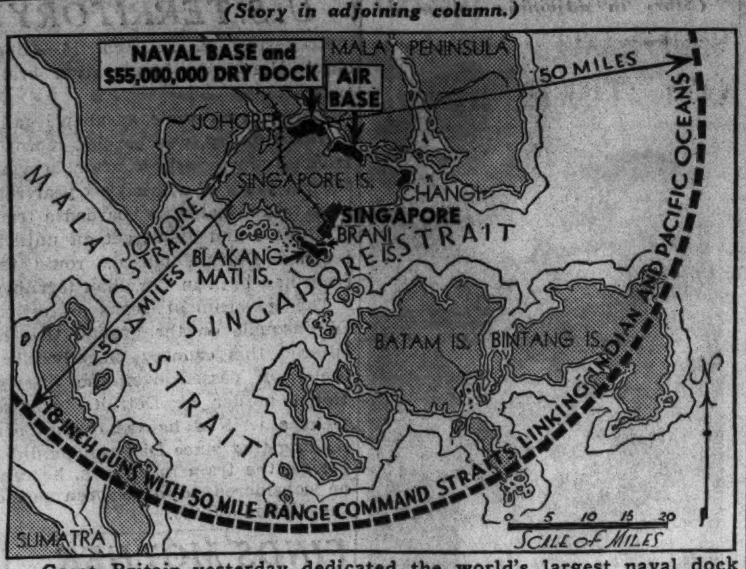
Key to British Defense in Far East

(Story in adjoining column.)



Great Britain yesterday dedicated the world's largest naval dock at the Singapore naval base. Black areas indicate fortified zones at the naval base, the air base, the city of Changi, and the Islands of Brani and Blakang Mati. Guns with a range of fifty miles insure British control of the straits near Singapore, now called the "Gibraltar of the East."

WRIGHT JURORS DEADLOCKED ON INSANITY PLEA

Trial Is Completed in Few Hours.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—The circuit court jury that on Saturday found Paul A. Wright guilty on two counts of manslaughter for the killing of his wife and John B. Kimmel tonight was deadlocked in consideration of his plea of not guilty of the killings by reason of insanity. The manslaughter conviction was reached in 3 hours and 45 minutes. After the jurors deliberated for five hours tonight they went to bed.

Upon the decision of the jury depends whether Wright will go to prison, to an asylum, or be freed. If the four women and eight men decide he was sane at the time of the killings he must serve the sentence for manslaughter, five to ten years. If found insane then and now, he will be confined. If declared insane then and sane now he will be freed.

Defense Rests at Once.

The trial, which was started this morning, took a dramatic turn when Wright's attorney, Jerry Giesler, rested his case without calling a witness. Giesler offered only the transcript and exhibits presented at the first trial.

Then the state rested after reserving the right to call witnesses in rebuttal. Giesler's move had put the burden of proof upon the state and three alienists were called to the stand. Each testified that in his opinion Wright was sane the morning of Nov. 9 when he killed his wife and Kimmel after purportedly finding them in an embrace.

Believe Wright Was Sane.

Two of the alienists who testified, Dr. M. J. Rowe and Dr. Victor Parkin, talked with Wright in jail yesterday. They declared that in their opinion he was sane and knew the difference between right and wrong when he went rushing out of his bedroom and shot his wife and Kimmel. Dr. Gustave Boehme, the third alienist, agreed with their testimony.

On cross-examination Giesler drew the admission from Dr. Parkin that it was possible for a person to become temporarily insane as the result of shock and that Wright's finding his wife and Kimmel together as he did would produce a shock.

Over objections of the prosecutors, Giesler also won the right to make the final argument to the jury, an unusual proceeding.

Giesler assailed testimony of two of the alienists who testified they believed Wright was sane at the time of the killings, but admitted they had testified in other cases that the defendants were temporarily insane because of mental shock.

MAIN FIGHTING UNITS OF U. S. FLEET WORK OUT FOR WAR GAMES

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Main fighting units of the United States fleet moved through squally weather off southern California today for a last major workout before the annual mid-Pacific six weeks war games which start four weeks from today.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch took 86 warships and 300 fighting planes out for secret maneuvers. The time at sea will depend upon weather conditions.

There are eight battleships, twelve heavy cruisers, the mobile target ship Utah which operates by remote radio control, three aircraft carriers, two light cruisers, fifty-two destroyers, and eight long range submarines, recently commissioned, engaged in this week's exercises. A total of 173 ships and 547 airplanes will participate in the maneuvers.

U. S. SHIPS TAKE PART IN OPENING SINGAPORE BASE

Britain Dedicates New Naval Fortress.

SINGAPORE, Feb. 14.—(AP)—With three United States cruisers as the only foreign warships present, Great Britain formally opened the world's largest naval dock today, marking virtual completion of her $100,000,000 "Gibraltar of the east."

Rear Admiral Julius Townsend, commanding the battle cruisers Trenton, Memphis, and Milwaukee, represented the United States at the inauguration of the $55,000,000 drydock which is the major feature of the naval base.

Although two years' work on subsidiary equipment must be done before the base officially is completed, British naval authorities guardedly admitted it is now "ready for use." They said Britain's entire navy could be based here "comfortably."

Dress Ships in Salute.

The United States warships dressed ship in salute as Sir Shenton Thomas, governor of the Straits Settlements, dedicated it and named it "The King George VI. Dock." Twenty-four British naval ships from various bases in the Far East were here for the occasion. Among the 11,000 guests at the ceremony were sultans of the Malay states, including the sultan of Johore, who made a personal gift of $2,500,000 toward the cost of the base.

Hundreds of picked police, guarding against espionage, prevented visitors from entering certain sectors.

Welcomes U. S. Representatives.

Col. J. J. Llewellin, civil lord of the admiralty, welcomed "representatives of the United States whose visit of friendship to these shores so fortunately coincided with the ceremony and whose nation is so closely akin to our own in aspirations and ideals."

"The Singapore base is not a menace or threat to any one," he declared. "We signed the Kellogg pact and we mean to keep it."

The United States cruisers, which arrived yesterday from Australia, will sail for home Feb. 19 or Feb. 21.

ADMIRAL WOODWARD CALLS PREPAREDNESS WAY TO AVOID WAR

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The old tune "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier," was denounced today by Rear Admiral C. H. Woodward as "That abnoxious pacifistic song."

"It was calculated to work on the hearts of fond mothers," he said. "But did the mothers ever stop to consider that unless our country was properly protected by these same soldiers and sailors we might some day have to welcome an invading army?"

He appealed for an end to "pacifist" attempts to thwart the Roosevelt armament program, asserting that "in this age of man where might makes right the god of battle is with the strong."

Speaking at a luncheon of the New York chapter of the Chaplains association of the United States army, Admiral Woodward, commandant of the 3d naval district, said it was a "duty" to help "mold a public opinion that supports preparedness—not for the sake of war but for the sake of peace."

LOSS GROWS AS 19 DAY STORM IN CALIFORNIA ENDS

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Surcease from rains and driving winds that have swept northern California for 19 days left the western seaboard relatively calm tonight, but flood damage grew as the final runoff choked valley creeks and rivers.

On the weather charts gentle winds were marked up to replace gales that had battered the coastline; instead of torrential rains, the prediction was for "partly cloudy" weather.

In the Pajaro-Watsonville sector, flood waters were receding rapidly, enabling 1,000 persons to return to the homes from which they fled. Railroads were resuming normal operations and airplane schedules were on a normal basis once more.

STALIN CALLS ON WORLD WORKERS FOR AID IN WAR

MOSCOW, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Josef Stalin, dictator of Russia and leader of the communist party, today urged that the soviet union bolster its defense program by organizing the working classes of other countries to give Russia political aid "in case of military attack."

The "final victory of socialism" will not be complete, he said, until such aid is added to Russia's efforts to strengthen its army and navy.

Stalin's declarations were made in a letter in Pravda, the communist party organ. They were written in response to a question of a young communist league agitator who asked him whether the final victory of socialism could be considered won.

Recalls Lenin's Words.

Stalin recalled Lenin's declaration that conflict between the soviet union and capitalist countries was inevitable since "the permanent existence of the soviet republic beside capitalist states is inconceivable."

Lenin asserted, "Eventually one or the other will conquer and before this end comes, a terrible crisis between the soviet republic and the bourgeois countries cannot be avoided."

Stalin's letter said, "The aid of the international proletariat appears to be a force without which the final victory of socialism in one country is not to be decided."

He did not say whether he had in mind collaboration with foreign labor parties, non-communist as well as communist, nor did he mention communism or advocate the overthrow of capitalism in other countries.

"Of course," Stalin said, "it doesn't mean that we must sit with folded arms awaiting help from the outside.

Aims to Increase Defense.

"On the contrary, the aid of the international proletariat should be joined with our work for increasing the defense capacity of our country, of strengthening the Red army and the Red navy, the mobilization of the whole country and with our struggle against armed attacks and attempts to restore bourgeois connections."

The first stage of socialism's victory in Russia has been won, Stalin wrote, "by liquidation of the bourgeois." He said the exiled Leon Trotzky and others who advocated international revolution had been shown to be wrong.

He added, however, that the second problem, that of foreign relations and guarantees against military invasion and restoration of capitalism, had not been solved.

Woos Workers Abroad.

Since Russia is surrounded by capitalistic countries, some of which are hostile, he wrote, "we say honestly and openly that the victory of socialism in our country is not yet complete.

"It is necessary to increase and strengthen the relations of the working class of the soviet union with the working class of bourgeois countries," he continued.

"It is necessary to organize political aid by the working class of bourgeois countries for the working class of our country in case of military attack on our country, as well as to organize aid by the working class of our country for the working class of bourgeois countries."

"More than Half my Pupils are over 40," says JOE CARROLL Skating Coach

Joe Carroll Coach of Figure-Skating Champions

Older People Excel in this Sport Requiring Perfect Control

JOE CARROLL has been teaching people the art of figure skating for 25 years. Now well past 40, he has more pupils than ever before.

"More than half my students are over 40," he says. "Older people as a rule learn more quickly than the younger ones—they apply themselves more seriously and seem to have a greater sense of rhythm and better co-ordination.

"Many of the best figure skaters are over 40. In fact, it is not unusual for a man or woman to take up skating after 40 and become really expert in a short time.

"I teach people over 60 who still have the vitality of youth; their skating form puts my younger pupils to shame. I myself feel that I improve with each year of my life."

Learning AFTER 40 Is Often Easier

Mr. Carroll's experience is not unusual. Mentally, older people are better equipped to cope with new problems than are the younger ones. Physically, they are often more skillful—provided, of course, they have kept their health and energy.

PAST 40—They're Going Strong So Can YOU

Found Way to End Family Tension

Dear Life Begins:

Before I was married, I was a school teacher, and I felt this training should have made it easy for me to handle my own children.

But a few years ago, when I began to have nervous spells and my stomach would get upset, I found that the more jumpy I got, the less influence I had over my daughters. I realized something would have to be done about me.

Ten days after I took a friend's suggestion and started eating Fleischmann's Yeast, I saw a difference in myself. Tension disappeared and the children became calm and obedient again.

Fleischmann's Yeast still helps me keep fit. I eat it every day.

Turns Out Prize Short Story

D. Macon Williams Feeling really fit

Dear Life Begins:

Shortly after my 40th birthday three years ago, I had real fears about carrying on with my work—free-lance publicity and radio writing.

I'd been working 16 to 18 hours a day. The outcome was a week in bed and a call from the doctor. He told me my food was not being properly digested and assimilated—and he advised Fleischmann's Yeast.

I ate 3 cakes a day. In three weeks, I had the first stomach comfort in months. In three months' time, I was working just as hard as before, and getting twice as much done. And that included turning out a prize winner in a short-story contest!—D. MACON WILLIAMS

THE STOMACH IS ONE OF THE FIRST PARTS OF THE BODY TO GROW OLD

The digestive juices often begin to be scantier and weaker after 40.

By helping these juices to have a stronger, fuller flow, Fleischmann's Yeast tones up digestion. It has a special, stimulating effect—due to its millions of tiny, live yeast plants. This fresh food also gives you 4 important vitamins—the Nerve Vitamin, the Cold-Resistance Vitamin, the Bone Vitamin and the Vitality Vitamin.

You'll soon learn to like the fresh, malty flavor of Fleischmann's Yeast. Eat 3 cakes regularly every day—plain or in a little water. To help the gastric juices to flow more quickly and be ready to digest your food, eat one cake ½ hour before each meal.

60,000 JAPANESE POUR INTO BREAK IN CHINESE LINE

Speedily Moving Column Perils Kaifeng.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 (Tuesday).—(AP)—For the second time in two days United States marines today turned back an armed Japanese patrol attempting to enter the American defended sector of the Shanghai international settlement along Bubbling Well road. The patrols were said to have been searching Chinese civilians.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 [Tuesday].—The Japanese today thrust 60,000 soldiers through a breach in the battered Chinese front in northern Honan province and directed a major offensive at Kaifeng, the province capital.

The column was the most successful of five which had been pressing down from the north toward the Lunghai railroad. Four hundred thousand Chinese troops are defending the railway corridor which is about 170 miles wide and 300 miles long. On the southern side of the corridor three other Japanese columns are fighting northward from Hwaiyuan, Pengpu, and Linhwaikwan.

Within 20 Miles of Capital.

The Japanese Honan column made fast progress after shattering a Chinese army of 15,000 on Sunday and today was within twenty miles of Kaifeng. Kaifeng is a city of 200,000 population and is a principal point on the Lunghai railroad. Should the Japanese capture the city, it would be a major stroke in bottling up the Chinese forces within the corridor.

The Chinese defenders of Kaifeng withdrew to the south bank of the Yellow river, blowing up river bridges. The Japanese will have to cross the river under fire. Also, between the river and Kaifeng are ten miles of successive levees—built to restrain the flood waters of the Yellow river which is known as "China's Sorrow." These embankments will serve admirably as parapets for the Chinese defenders.

Chicagoan Among Missionaries.

Within and near Kaifeng are several American missions and a number of American missionaries. One of the missionaries at the Catholic Providence mission is Sister Theodata, a daughter of Mrs. J. C. Haggerty of 1322 Albion street, Chicago. There is also a Canadian Episcopal mission at Kaifeng. No direct word has been received of the missionaries at Kaifeng.

Hundreds of tanks and planes aided the advance of the Japanese column. Mud and snow presented difficulties for the soldiers. The offensive was developing into the greatest battle of the war in China because it threatened to cut off the escape of the Chinese troops.

Of the Japanese columns moving up from the south, the one which started from Pengpu had reached the south bank of the Kwei river opposite Kuchen. This represented an advance of twenty-five miles from Pengpu, but here again the Chinese had blasted the bridges.

Refugees Move Westward.

Streams of destitute war refugees, numbering tens of thousands, are pouring into central Honan and western Anhwei provinces from the areas threatened by the Japanese offensive, A. R. Kepler, executive secretary of the Church of Christ in China, said today. He returned on Sunday from a trip to Chengchow and Kaifeng to perfect an organization for the care of wounded soldiers and their transit from the fronts to hospitals.

Chinese Reds Harass Japanese.

PEKING, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A Chinese communist army victory near Paoting was reported today in unconfirmed dispatches from the railway city ninety miles south of Peking. The reports said communist irregular troops had captured two towns, Tinchsien and Wangtu, a short distance below Paoting on the rail line to Hankow.

Domei [Japanese] news agency dispatches, however, declared 8,000 Chinese Reds were defeated in a major battle yesterday eight miles northwest of Paoting.

Mother Reaches Spain to Plead for Wounded Son

GIBRALTAR, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Mrs. Harriet Bayne Castle of Oxen Hill, Md., arrived today on her way to ask Rebel General Francisco Franco to allow her wounded Legionnaire son to return home from Spain. She said her son, Guy, who is 22 years old, is now in a Seville hospital. He was wounded while fighting with Franco's legions on the Teruel front.

Dies After Being Shot Fleeing in Stolen Auto

Shot by a policeman from whom he fled in a stolen car last Tuesday, Raymond P. Schaffrath, 23 years old, 6344 Aberdeen street, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital. The young man, who had served two terms for auto tampering and larceny, was shot by Detective John A. Carey at 31st street and Parnell avenue.

Ortons in Court

Philo Orton, who accuses wife of misconduct with "Mr. X."

During most of yesterday the Ortons, Philo A. and Marie M., who accuse each other of adultery on divers occasions, matching unnamed Mr. X's with Misses R and S, were closeted in chambers of Judge Philip J. Finnegan without proving their charges in open court.

Loud voices issued from the closed door, and, at one time, laughter. At noon, when attorneys and principals emerged, Attorney Daniel A. Covelli, counsel for the silver-haired Mr. Orton, president of the Orton Crane and Shovel company, said: "We are ready to go to trial at once. We're not negotiating, they are." Late in the afternoon they said they would confer again this morning. Mrs. Orton, 61 years old, who lives at 5204 Greenwood avenue, was in court with a sister-in-law, Mrs. Philip J. Marqua. She brought a bill for separate maintenance, charging desertion, and asking $700 monthly instead of $100 he now gives her.

Her husband, 64 years old, who lives in the Stevens hotel, filed a cross-bill, charging adultery. They were married in 1898 and have three grown sons, one of whom, Philo Jr., was in court.

ONLY SURVIVOR IN NAVY RECALLS SINKING OF MAINE

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Forty years after the sinking of the battleship Maine, the only survivor still in naval service today asserted "all that can be said now is that there was a breach of protection to a United States vessel in a friendly port."

White-haired Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, sitting in his office overlooking the Philadelphia navy yard of which he is commandant, recalled the disaster as the most unpleasant experience of his 46 years of service.

The admiral, now 62 years old, was a junior deck officer on the ill-fated ship. It had been riding quietly at anchor in Havana harbor for three weeks when suddenly, on the evening of Feb. 15, 1898, a terrific explosion ripped the vessel apart. Fire swept the wreckage. Then the Maine sank. Two hundred sixty-six men perished—and a battle cry of "remember the Maine" echoed through the war that followed.

RED POLICE SEIZE WOMAN CLERK OF AMERICAN FIRM

MOSCOW, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Nadeja Radunskaya, woman translator for the American International News service, was arrested in a night raid on her apartment by secret political police, it was learned today. The woman secretary to Franz Vacek, a Czechoslovakian newspaper correspondent, also was reported arrested.

The arrest of Mme. Radunskaya was the second of Russian employés of American offices in three months. Last November Mme. Tatiana Sofiano, secretary of the Moscow office of the Russian-American chamber of commerce, was arrested.

The removal of Gen. Yakoff I. Alksnis as chief of the soviet air force was confirmed today by the government newspaper Izvestia. His arrest was rumored last December when his name was removed from the ballot in the first election under soviet Russia's new constitution. Izvestia gave the name of the new air force chief as Gen. Loktionov.

FRANCO TO BUILD FASCIST STATE IF HE WINS WAR

Monarchy Is Planned for Spain by Rebels.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BURGOS, Spain, Feb. 14.—A monarchist state on a corporative basis appears to be the eventual form which the government of Spain will take if Francisco Franco, leader of the rebels, is victorious in the civil war. Indications of such a plan have been given here this week by the generalissimo and members of his newly appointed cabinet of eleven members.

Cabinet ministers said their main problem is to put Spain on what they call a National-syndicalist basis. This means organizing the state on the basis of corporations, doubtless much like those of Italy and Portugal, to "harmonize the interests of capital and labor in the larger interest of the state."

Plans Labor Charter.

One of the first acts of Franco's new cabinet and government will be to issue a labor charter. It will be remembered that the régime of Premier Mussolini of Italy also issued a labor charter as one of its early acts. The elaboration of the labor charter has been confined to a committee of four members of the new cabinet: Minister of Interior Serrano Suner, Minister of Agriculture Fernandez Cuesta, Minister of Syndical Organization Gonzalez Bueno, and Minister of Justice Count Rodezno.

The first three of these are Falangists [Fascists] and the last is a Requete [Carlist monarchist].

Franco's new cabinet now has about taken over completely the functions of the old technical junta which ran nationalist [rebel] Spain's administrative affairs for the first eighteen months of the war. At this time he has about two-thirds of Spain's area under his control.

The change to the new cabinet was made at the same moment when the Barcelona government was summoning the cortes [republican parliament] at Montserrat monastery.

Franco's decree establishing the cabinet said that the question of whether the monarchy is to be restored is left open until later. However, the membership of the new cabinet leaves little doubt that a monarchy will be the eventual form of government in the event of a victory for Franco.

There may be some differences as to what a restored monarchy should be. The Falangists want the monarch to be a mere figurehead like King Victor Emmanuel of Italy. The Requetes would like to see the return of the old régime. Franco himself said recently, "In case the return of the monarchy is found desirable, the new monarchial system will be entirely different from that overthrown in 1931."

Four Ministers Are Generals.

An analysis of Franco's new cabinet, which assembles here in the city of The Cid, Spain's heroic figure of the middle ages, shows that four out of its eleven members are generals: Count Francisco Gomez Jordana, foreign affairs; Fidel Davila, defense; Martinez Anido, public security, and Franco. These men hold the most important posts.

Taken from another angle, the cabinet has four Requetes: Jordana, Count Rodezno, Davila, and Sainz Rodriguez [education], and four Falangists: Cuesta, Anido, Bueno, and Señor Boeuf. The other 3 members, Suner, Andres Amado [finance], and Juan Antonio Suances [commerce], have Falangist rather than Requete leanings.

Thus in the new cabinet there are seven members out of eleven who favor the Fascist form of corporative state with an innocuous monarchy.

It is also perhaps of significance that five cabinet members were friends of Calvo Sotelo whose slaying by Madrid police early in July, 1936, was the spark that set off the civil war. Minister Suner, a brother-in-law of Gen. Franco, and Minister Cuesta both helped young José Antonio Primo de Rivera, a son of the former dictator, found the Falangist organization.

Boss of Andalusia Out.

Some colorful personalities passed out of the picture with the formation of the cabinet. Among them was Gen. Gonzalo Quiepo de Llano, the picturesque boss of Andalusia [southern Spain], whose nightly flamboyant language over the radio now is missed.

Quiepo is supposed to have been offered a cabinet post, but preferred to keep his job as commander of the southern army and boss of Seville. He denied that he had refused a cabinet post and that his discontinuance of the radio talks meant he was at outs with the Burgos cabinet. He explained that he stopped talking because "military men should not concern themselves with international affairs now that a cabinet has been formed."

Diplomatic Chief Steps Out.

Jose Antonio de Sangroniz also steps out of the new cabinet. He was formerly chief of Franco's diplomatic cabinet which amounted to foreign minister. He will have merely a secondary post as introducer of foreign ambassadors.

There have been many reports that the various ministries would be distributed in the three cities of Valladolid, Burgos, and San Sebastian. Salamanca, Franco's military headquarters, may be abandoned as a seat. Burgos is the most practicable as a capital, but it is too small for all ministries. Franco is likely to remain there, sending the foreign and education ministries to San Sebastian. This would enable diplomats to live near the French border. The ministry of interior may be located at Valladolid.

The two main groups in Nationalist Spain—the Rèquetes and Falangists—were merged last spring by Franco into one united party, but they still appear to maintain their distinct aims.

Requetes Total 800,000.

The Requetes, who are the old Carlists, organized in 1830 for the support of the pretender Don Carlos, number about 800,000. They wear a bright red beret cap and a khaki shirt. The Falangists were organized some years ago by young Primo de Rivera. They number about 3,000,000. They wear navy blue uniforms with a crimson tassel on a forage cap.

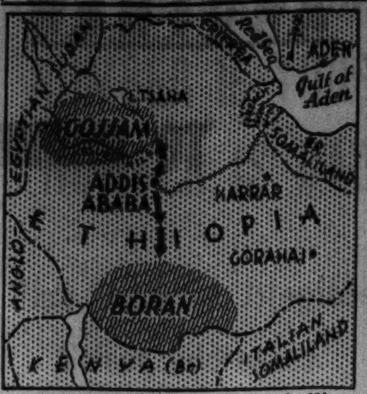
The two groups have been fused apparently only on paper, for they still keep their separate flags and hymns and uniforms. They are united in a common hatred of parliamentary government. One of Franco's problems, however, is to keep the two groups reconciled on other matters on which they hold opposing views.

The Requetes' group represents the big landlords, aristocrats, dignitaries of the church and others who would like to see Spain revert to its traditional status. They advocate, in fact, a return to "traditionalism."

The Falangists want power for themselves and not for the old families. They are for a centralized government on corporative lines, the separation of church and state, and land reform.

Gen. Franco in a recent interview said he intended to reorganize Spain on totalitarian lines.

Italy Battles Revolt



Shaded areas locate rebellious Ethiopian provinces against which Italy yesterday sent punitive expeditions (indicated by arrows).

LONDON, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Reuters [British] news agency dispatches from Aden said today that a large number of troops had been sent from Addis Ababa to crush a serious revolt against Italian rule which broke out in various sections of Ethiopia. The outbreaks were reported in Gojjam province, northwest of the capital, and Boran, south Ethiopia. Most of the troops sent to restore order were native, Reuters said.

HOME BUILDER IS CHARGED WITH CONFIDENCE GAME

Emile M. DuVall, who operated as the DuVall Engineering company, and whose last address, according to Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers, was 16 West Delaware place, was reported named in three true bills yesterday by the grand jury as the opertor of a confidence game.

Three men testified that DuVall promised to build homes for them at a cost of $4,000 each; that he took deposits and applications for government loans, but never built the houses.

MIGHT TELL A LITTLE 'UNOFFICIALLY' ABOUT NAVY, TOKIO HINTS

TOKIO, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Japanese foreign office spokesman hinted today that if Japan were approached "unofficially" she might provide other powers with naval construction information.

Japan Saturday flatly refused to tell the United States, Great Britain, and France her naval building plans, but insisted she had "no intention" of maintaining a fleet that would menace other nations.

It was possible, the foreign office spokesman said, that the powers concerned "might have better success with Japan unofficially." He asserted his statement was merely an expression of personal opinion. In answer to a question he said he was not proposing a "gentleman's agreement" on naval building.

SPANISH REBELS MASSING MILLION MEN TO END WAR

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish frontier], Feb. 14.—(AP)—A Spanish rebel dispatch said today that Gen. Francisco Franco was massing approximately 1,000,000 men for a drive to end the Spanish civil war in six months. Government sources interpreted the announcement as merely an attempt to bolster the morale of rebel troops.

As a direct reply, government troops northwest of Teruel launched a series of counter attacks, halting Franco's drive on the eastern side of the Alfambra valley.

Explaining the rebel staf's plans for throwing 1,000,000 men into a spring offensive, Salamanca dispatches said the present army numbered 815,000 veterans and was being reinforced by 65,000 conscripts between the ages of 20 and 22, in addition to an unlimited number of Moors being recruited in North Africa.

TRIES TO END LIFE WITH POISON.

Despondent over ill health, John Prochoska, 63 years old, 2420 Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, took poison yesterday in an attempt to end his life. His mouth and throat were seriously burned.

AUSTRIA TO JOIN HITLER'S TALK WITH MUSSOLINI

Union of Middle European States Sought.

VIENNA, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A high government source tonight said Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg would follow up his Saturday conference with Adolf Hitler by joining Hitler's April meeting with Premier Benito Mussolini in Rome. The German fuehrer plans a spring visit to Italy, returning Mussolini's visit in Berlin last year.

The same source said readjustment of Austro-German relations was only one object of Hitler's recent talk with the Austrian chancellor.

Twofold Coöperation Planned.

The broader purpose of formation of a new association of middle European states for promotion of regional economic and political coöperation was ascribed to the meeting which aroused the attention of all Europe.

Such an association was said to be conceived as independent of the Rome protocols, which strengthened trade relations of Austria, Hungary, and Italy, and also as free of the Rome-Berlin axis of close political coöperation.

Meanwhile, President Wilhelm Miklas was reported withholding approval of agreements reached by Schuschnigg and Hitler at the fuehrer's retreat at Berchtesgaden, in the Bavarian Alps. His objection was said to be based on Hitler's suggestion that a nationalist or Nazi be made Austria's minister of interior in charge of police.

Conference Is Explained.

In a radio explanation of the Berchtesgaden conference a Fatherland Front official, Fritz Bock, who was introduced as a spokesman for Schuschnigg, said the chancellor gave assurance that Austria remained independent and that the Fatherland Front was still Austria's only legal political party.

His statement would refute reports one of Schuschnigg's concessions to Germany had been that Nazis would be tolerated in Austria on somewhat the same basis as the monarchists operate.

Promises to Answer Questions.

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The path to a complete understanding between Germany and Austria and the Anglo-German settlement that depends on it still is strewn with potential stumbling blocks.

While the conference Saturday between Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg served to clear the stormy atmosphere between them, it marked only the beginning and by no means the end of negotiations.

In fact, Schuschnigg took away with him several questions, the nature of which were not disclosed, which he promised to answer after meeting the Austrian cabinet.

Seek to Widen Pact.

The discussion by the two chancellors of means to end the friction caused by Nazi ambitions in Austria centered on ways of strengthening and widening the provisions of the accord of July 11, 1936.

Article one of that agreement contains the German government's unequivocal recognition of the full sovereignty of Austria. Article two pledges both governments not to interfere directly or indirectly in the internal affairs of the other.

In that connection Austrian National Socialism specifically was catalogued as an Austrian internal affair.

Such a clarification of Germany's position with regard to Austria was understood to have been made a preliminary requirement by Britain to a general settlement with Germany that might include return of colonies.

BANDIT POSES AS ESCAPED INSANE KILLER IN HOLDUP

A gunman who posed as Paul Harrison, escaped killer maniac, chased Miss Wanda Dziewitz, 21 years old, 963 Milwaukee avenue, from a parked car at Augusta boulevard and Milwaukee avenue early today and took her place beside William Pyrz, 31, of 924 Noble street.

As they drove away she ran to the Racine avenue station, and reported to Desk Sergt. Ed O'Hara that Pyrz had been kidnaped by Harrison. A dozen squads were sent into the district. An hour later the robber, after taking $98 from Pyrz, got out of his car at Chicago avenue and Paulina street.

Less than a minute later and a block away Policemen Thomas McNulty and Walter Norfray, of the accident prevention bureau, seized John Harbut, 28 years old, who was immediately identified by Pyrz. Harbut carried a gun, and had $98 on him. He denied the robbery.

A report from a train crew that a man resembling Harrison was on an Illinois Central freight train took several police squads to the road's tracks at Congress street early today. They seized two men, Harold D. Petty, 19, of Memphis, and his cousin, Davis Maddox, of 13328 Baltimore avenue, who had ridden on the freight from Memphis. Petty was the one mistaken for Harrison.

DUTCH PROTEST NAZI SLURS ON JULIANA'S BABY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—Holland's minister to Berlin today protested to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop against derogatory remarks concerning Crown Princess Juliana's new baby. The remarks were said to have been made last week by the assistant minister of propaganda, Alfred Ingemar Berndt, in the course of a meeting with press representatives from all countries. Angered by queries about the real nature of the recent German crisis, Berndt compared doubt of the Nazi government's statements to doubt of the paternity of Holland's baby princess.

LITHUANIA IS 20 YEARS OLD; FOES OF REGIME FREED

Ex-Premier and Germans Given Amnesty.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Feb. 14.—In connection with the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Lithuanian state President Anthony Smetona today amnestied his former friend, Prof. Augustine Waldemaras, who had served four years of a twelve year sentence for organizing an unsuccessful putsch in 1934.

Waldemaras, who occupied the post of premier on several occasions, organized the 1926 putsch when he called upon Smetona to become president.

Smetona also granted amnesty to a number of Memel Germans, including two leaders, Baron von de Ropp and Dr. Ernst Neumann. Of eighty-four Memel citizens who had been sentenced to terms as high as twelve years for plotting to separate the Memel territory from Lithuania only six remain in prison. They are charged with murder. Twelve peasants sentenced after the peasant revolt of 1935 also have been freed.

Kaunas, the capital, and other Lithuanian towns were beflagged and illuminated for today's celebrations. Army garrisons participated in parades.

Vilna Lost to Poland.

Ministers and other high officials emphasized in their speeches that Lithuania's national existence has been handicapped with the loss of almost one-third of her territory, including the "capital city" of Vilna, which has been in the possession of Poland since 1920.

The unofficial state of war existing between Lithuania and Poland was blamed upon the Warsaw government by speakers who declared that Lithuanians never will surrender their claim to Vilna.

Reports of further repressions against Lithuanians residing in the Vilna corridor are causing bitter comment in both the official and unofficial press here, which accuses the Polish government of attempting to assimilate its Lithuanian minority.

Governor Closes Societies.

According to the admissions of Polish newspapers, the governor of the Vilna province has closed down the Lithuanian Agricultural society, charging its administration with working too close to the Lithuanian frontier, and also the Lithuanian Sport association for the alleged spreading of anti-Polish propaganda among youths in the Vilna district.

Twelve local Lithuanian libraries subsidized by American and Lithuanian organizations have also been closed, and the librarians arrested on propaganda charges.

SLAIN RECTOR'S WIDOW TELLS TRAGIC STORY

Unable to Name Any Foe of Her Husband.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Simons Island, Ga., Feb. 14.—[Special.] — Mrs. Charles H. Lee, widow of the mysteriously slain rector of the famous Christ Episcopal church of this historic little island in the Atlantic, for the first time since her husband was shot to death a week ago Saturday night discussed in detail today the circumstances surrounding this amazing tragedy.

Sitting in the living room of her home on this island, where one window pane still bears the marks left by the murderer, two small bullet holes less than an inch apart in the glass, Mrs. Lee described all that happened on the night of Feb. 5 when she and her husband were alone in the house. She previously had made only a brief statement to the coroner.

Writing Sunday Sermon.

"We had reserved Saturday evening as always for the writing of my husband's sermon," said the gray haired woman of distinguished Virginia parentage who remains calm, poised, and sweetly courteous in the trouble. She is the daughter of John Esten Cooke, historian and biographer.

"About 8:30 that evening we sat in the living room. He said he had finished his work and was reading a book that just had been sent to him, 'Experimental Logic of Jesus,' by John W. Nelson. He had taken a text from St. Paul, 'Whatsoever ye do in word or deed do all in the name of the Lord, Jesus.' Suddenly he said that he had a new idea for his sermon and he got out his writing materials and went to work. I sat at the desk writing a letter, just opposite the window in which you see those holes. He had moved the davenport to the center of the room under the tall reading lamp and was working there.

"I was careful never to interrupt him when he was working, but he stopped once to explain a little of it to me. He read from the church catechism the question, 'Dost thou therefore in the name of this child renounce the devil and all his works?' We must take the place, he said, of the Lord Jesus in our own lives. It was as simple as that."

Heard Sharp Noise.

"He read a little in his Bible and went on with his work. A sharp noise interrupted us late in the evening. I thought at once of a shot, and wondered if the Negroes in their dance hall down the road near the beach were having more trouble. A Negro girl, Josephine, friend of our maid, had been killed there a few years ago. Then I thought that the sound came from the woods that come close to the side of the house.

"My husband was slightly deaf. He arose and went to the door and said it must have been an automobile blowout. He saw no car and went back to his work which absorbed him. My own hearing is good, but I thought no more of the matter. Automobiles often get in trouble near us and people come in for help.

"It was about 11:30, I think, when I prepared to go upstairs. My husband had a hard day ahead of him in traveling to a mission church Sunday and I asked him if he would not retire. He said he would soon and I went to the rear bedroom upstairs.

Sees Car Moving Away.

"Some minutes later I heard another sound like the first and thought it was strange that two automobiles had trouble here the same night. I rushed to the side window and looked toward the road, where I saw a car moving slowly toward the river road. It was rather dark, but I could see the headlights. I heard nothing downstairs and when I called out and heard no answer I went downstairs and found my husband had fallen forward in his chair and was bleeding. Then I called the doctor, but he was dead.

"It now seems strange that we did not hear that first bullet pass through the window and enter the wall over there, or that we did not observe the broken glass. I cannot explain it. It was not so strange that he did not hear it because of his absorption and his deafness.

"When I went to the upstairs window I looked directly down on the spot where they say the man stood that fired the shots. He must have run into the woods at once.

"My husband had strong convictions. He was much worried over conditions in the world. But he was not a sensationalist, and he was brave. You know the Lees come down directly from the revolution when it took courage to say that these colonies must be free and independent. He was a second cousin of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

"Must Have Made Enemies."

"He met many people and must have made a strong enemy or enemies somewhere. His work against evil was done in quiet, between man and man, as the Bible commands. Many times I have seen him give a sign and I have left him alone with some man to wrestle with a personal problem. I think that many persons did not like what he stood for, but I do not know of any single enemy that he had.

"I know that he observed the requirements of the confessional and he would never dream of telling anything even to me if he thought it was not to be known. In Macon where we lived for 18 years he lived the same sort of life of outspoken courage, but I do not know what particular fear or enemy he aroused to do this thing. It seems impossible that it could have happened in such a peaceful place."

Await Test of Bullet.

Coroner J. D. Baldwin who has charge of the investigation into the murder announced today that he had received a letter from J. Edgar Hoover, head of the bureau of investigation, saying the bullet taken from the Lee home which passed through the rector's head was being examined and would be reported upon soon as to what kind of a gun it came from. There seems to be no other open clews. The coroner also is awaiting a letter from a fortune teller in Savannah who has promised to give him some new ideas on the solution of this crime.

"It takes a powerful lot of thinking," said the coroner. The inquest would be reopened the latter part of the week, he said. So far this has been a fishing expedition with no results. There are about a thousand permanent residents on the island and they all know each other's business and character. The strange factors come with the northern renters and the guests at the sea side resorts.

It was on this island that the timbers were cut from the giant live oaks that went into the frigate Constitution. Among the points of interest is a monument on an old plantation near Fort Frederica which was built by Robert S. Abbot, publisher of the Chicago Defender, in memory of his father, Thomas, and his aunts, Celia and Mary, former slaves on the lands where Sea Island cotton first was grown in this country.

CITY TO GET YOUR NUMBER IF YOUR NUMBER IS BAD

Plan Drive on Illegible Street Addresses.

If the numbers on the front of your house are difficult to read you had better get out in front and touch them up right away. If you don't you may be paying a five dollar fine sometime in the next few weeks.

Howard Brodman, head of the city map department, announced yesterday that he has thirty inspectors, all Works Progress administration workers, walking the streets of Chicago looking for faulty or inconspicuous street numbers on buildings.

Promises Action Soon.

"Within the next few weeks we're going to start serving notices on owners of property poorly numbered or not numbered. Those without numbers will probably be the first to pay five dollar fines provided for by city ordinance," Broadman said.

"There are 387,426 buildings in the city and approximately 61,000 of those are not properly numbered. Sixteen thousand haven't any numbers," he estimated.

He advised householders who put up new numbers to use either illuminated or reflector numbers, usually made of glass.

"In the old days, when all houses had transoms over the front door, numbers were painted on them and were illuminated by front hall lights," he said. "Now, too many numbers are placed on brick walls and cannot be read at night.

Plans Numbers in Back.

"Now that the city has completed its street renaming program and new street signs are installed, property owners ought to coöperate to bring the numbering system completely up to date."

Broadman asserted that as soon as all house numbers are correct and in good order he's going to start a campaign to have numbers placed on the rear fences and back doors of apartment buildings. "It'll be a break for the delivery boys," he said.

PATRICK T. ROCHE STARTS A PRIVATE DETECTIVE AGENCY

Patrick T. Roche, former ace federal government investigator and later chief investigator for the state's attorney's office during the régime of John Swanson, has opened a private detective agency, it was announced yesterday. He will be associated at 160 North La Salle street, with Samuel F. Lederer, who in the rôle of amateur detective helped Roche solve many important crimes of the prohibition era.

Roche has spent practically all his working life in the crime detection field. He was a Chicago policeman for many years, working out of the office of State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne. The federal government took him from the police department in 1921 and, working with Clarence E. Converse as special agent for the internal revenue department, he made a nation-wide reputation for breaking up dope and liquor syndicates. In 1929 Roche was appointed as chief investigator for the state's attorney, an appointment which he held for four years.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Charles Guy Fulke Greville, the seventh earl of Warwick, who took time out from attempts to carve himself a Hollywood career, today won a conditional divorce [decree nisi] from the countess of Warwick.

The countess is the former Rose Bingham, daughter of the late David Cecil Bingham of the Coldstream Guards. She did not contest the suit, which accused her of adultery with Roger Bailey in Los Angeles in 1936.

The couple were married in 1933, and a son was born to them in May, 1934. It was from that time on, according to the earl, that his wife seemed to lose interest in him. He said his wife deserted him three months after their son's birth, and that they were together after that time only for public appearance on "official" occasions. The earl was granted custody of the child, David. He plans to return to Hollywood soon to complete a motion picture contract.

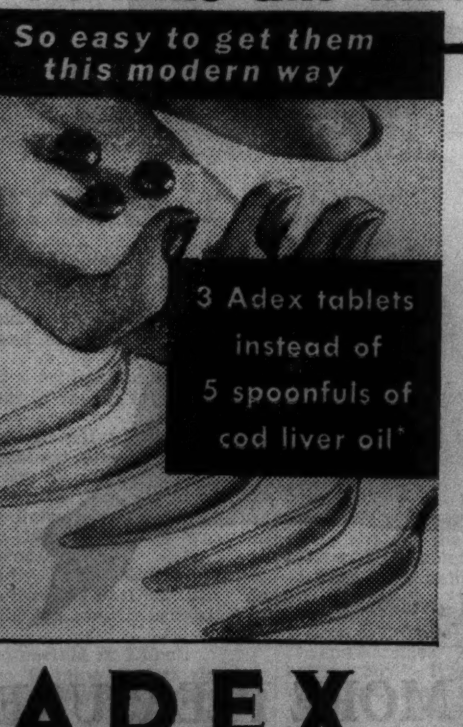
Why deny yourself the cod liver oil vitamins this winter?

So easy to get them this modern way



IN PAST winters you may have felt the need for cod liver oil vitamins to build good general resistance, and wished you could get them in a pleasant form.

This winter, they're available. With Adex! These tablets give you precisely the same vitamins as cod liver oil. But conveniently . . . pleasantly . . . in a form you'll like to take!

Only three Adex tablets a day are equal to five teaspoonfuls of cod liver oil* in Vitamin A, the factor which contributes specifically to good general resistance. You'll also obtain extra "sunshine" Vitamin D—as much in three Adex tablets as in five teaspoonfuls of the oil.

No wonder so many people are taking this modern form of the vitamins!

And with Adex, you have the satisfaction of knowing the full vitamin content is there—no danger of the tablets losing their strength before they are used. Exclusive Squibb methods make it possible to guarantee the vitamin content.

You can depend as much on results with Adex as with cod liver oil or halibut liver oil.

Get Adex today, and take it regularly all winter. Have it on the breakfast table every morning as a reminder. Adex is now available at any drug store.

*3 Adex tablets equal 5 teaspoonfuls of U. S. P. XI minimum standard cod liver oil in Vitamins A and D, or 3 teaspoonfuls of Squibb's.

PEOPLE WHO PAUSED

No. 4. Beyond Commerce

By CALEB

PERSONS who have been long in the public eye come to have a penetrating and incisive judgment of crowds. They sense whether an audience is friendly and sympathetic—or antagonistic. They can tell whether a crowd is warm or cold; whether it has a heart or is aloof.

They possess a sensitivity of soul, you might say, which discovers and responds to the inarticulate, underlying characteristics of others.

One of our beloved friends who came here often, paused in 1934 to write in a bold but slightly trembling hand, "God bless Marshall Field's people, who made and make them (Marshall Field's) great and fine!" Signed "'Mother' Ernestine Schumann-Heink."

Fifi D'Orsay paused at the Guest Book and wrote in a rapid, impetuous hand, "Dieu vous garde!"

May Robson—who, we are told, is as much loved by the people she frequently contacts as was Madame Schumann-Heink loved by the world—paused and wrote with characteristic terseness, perhaps out of a sensitivity similar to that of the artists already named, "Shop here! You can't go wrong!"

An artist of still another type was Lilyan Tashman, who, when she paused and wrote in her bold calligraphy across a page of our Guest Book, said, "I always look forward to shopping in Marshall Field's."

Peter Bilhorn, the late Chicago composer and evangelist, drew several bars of music, under which he wrote, "There comes to my heart one sweet strain."

A newspaper woman wrote, "Outstanding feature — humanity — may God reward you is the prayer of Mary Graham Andrew."

The wife of the Archbishop of York was not moved to any comment, but inscribed herself simply and willingly "Frances Temple, Bishopthorpe, York."

Probably we like our Guest Book for the same reason that an individual looks back through the names of guests inscribed in a family guest book. It causes us to feel that our hospitality is real.

Many of the things we do are intended to transcend the ordinary conception of commerce. When we read the words and signatures of friends in our Guest Book, who have paused to betoken their esteem, we are sure that those efforts have been fruitful.

SENATE PASSES FARM BILL; GOES TO WHITE HOUSE

Crop Dictatorship Set Up by Measure.

stitutional, Senator Bailey contended.

Throughout debate on the conference report, which contains 50 pages of closely printed matter, the measure was denounced as incomprehensible and it was frequently asserted that not a single senator understood it. Senate wags have been saying that the farmers will have to send their sons to law school in order to train them to become farmers.

SUMMARY OF BILL

The farm bill establishes a system of compulsory production control for the basic commodities of wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, and rice. Production control would be accomplished by compulsory marketing quotas, decreed by the secretary of agriculture upon approval, with respect to any commodity, by two-thirds of the producing farmers participating in a referendum.

In addition to the compulsory marketing quotas to be invoked in surplus years, production control will also be attained to a large extent by acreage allotments. These allotments are not compulsory but as they form the basis for computing marketing quotas and only coöperators may receive benefits, as a practical matter most farmers will observe the acreage allotments. Both marketing and acreage quotas will be allotted by the secretary of agriculture by states, counties, and individual farms.

How Allotments Are Made.

Acreage allotments would be set up as follows:

The secretary of agriculture, taking into account any carryover, would estimate the acreage needed to produce normal requirements for the year in a given product, plus an arbitrary amount for "ever normal granary" [subsequently explained] reserve. This acreage would be prorated to states, counties, and individual growers on the basis of their annual yields and past production.

The marketing quotas would be invoked, upon approval by two-thirds of the producing farmers, whenever the total supply, including the carryover and the estimated production for the next marketing year, reached 2 billion, 795 million bushels in the case of corn, 945 million bushels in the case of wheat, and 19½ million bales in the case of cotton.

A marketing quota is the amount each grower may sell. The total market quota is determined as described subsequently and prorated to state, county, and individual in proportion to the normal yield of acreage allotments.

Wheat Acreage Set.

In the case of wheat, the national acreage allotment for 1938 is fixed by the law at 62½ million acres. For subsequent years, the secretary is to fix an acreage allotment which will, in his opinion, make available a supply for the marketing year equal to a normal year's domestic consumption and exports plus 30 per cent.

The amount of the marketing quota "shall be equal to a normal year's domestic consumption and exports plus 30 per centum thereof, less the sum of [1] the estimated carryover of wheat as of the beginning of the marketing year . . . and [2] the estimated amount of wheat which will be used on farms as seed or for live stock during the marketing year."

Acreage and marketing quotas for corn are limited to the so-called commercial area, comprising Iowa, virtually all of Indiana and Illinois, and portions of Nebraska, South Dakota, Kansas, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, and Kentucky.

Corn Acreage Allotment.

The bill provides for an acreage allotment in the commercial corn area which will produce an amount in such area, together with corn produced in other parts of the country, equal to a normal year's domestic consumption and exports plus 10 per cent.

Farmers who produced, on their allotted acreage, more than their allotted marketing quota for the year would be permitted to sell it only upon payments of penalties—15 cents a bushel for wheat, 15 cents a bushel for corn, and 2 cents a pound for cotton.

Commodities produced in excess of the marketing quotas could not be fed to live stock for market, or for the marketing of live stock products, nor could they be given away, exchanged, or bartered. The excess would have to be retained on the farm, or stored in warehouses, and in the case of corn specific storage requirements are set forth in the bill. In effect they provide for the storage under seal of an amount of corn equal to the normal yield of that part of a farmer's corn acreage in excess of the marketing percentage of the farmer's corn acreage allotment.

The bill provides for loans on surplus commodities on a schedule based on the volume of supply and the price with respect to parity. Parity is defined as a price that will give the farmer a purchasing power, in terms of the things he has to buy, equivalent to the average purchasing power of the things he had to sell during the base period of 1909-'14.

Directed to Make Loans.

The Commodity Credit corporation is directed to make loans on wheat whenever the price is below 52 per cent of parity or when the crop estimate is in excess of a normal year's domestic consumption and exports. The amount loaned per bushel or other unit is to be not less than 52 nor more than 75 per cent of the parity price.

Loans on corn are to be made whenever the crop estimate is in excess of a normal year's domestic consumption and exports or the price is below 75 per cent of parity. The rates of loans per bushel are graduated from 75 per cent of the parity price down to 52 per cent of the parity price, according to the volume of supply.

Loans on Cotton.

Loans on cotton are to be made when the price is below 52 per cent of the parity price or when the crop estimate is in excess of a normal year's domestic consumption and exports. The rates are to be not less than 52 per cent nor more than 75 per cent of the parity price.

In the case of all these commodities, the loan rates are for farmers who comply with the secretary's orders. "Noncoöperators" would receive a loan of only 60 per cent of the rate for "coöperators."

A further coercive provision, intended to assure compliance with the secretary's program, is that no loan at all shall be made with respect to any commodity for which the producing farmers, in a referendum, reject a marketing quota.

Limit on Payments.

The bill continues the system of benefit payments of the existing soil conservation and domestic allotment act, subsidies being granted on the basis of acreage diverted from soil-depleting to soil conserving crops. The soil conservation act, however, is amended to provide a graduated scale of payments on a basis of a complicated schedule of rewards and penalties for soil depleting and soil building crops and practices. No pay to any individual producer can exceed $10,000. Under the old AAA they exceeded a million dollars in some cases.

In addition to soil conservation payments, the bill provides for parity subsidies "if and when appropriations are made therefor." This provision is not taken seriously in congress, since only $500,000,000 has been appropriated for 1938 and that is the cost of the soil conservation payments.

Crop Insurance for Wheat.

A new title to the bill, added by the senate and accepted by the conference committee, establishes a system of crop insurance for wheat only, to become effective with the 1939 crop. It creates a federal crop insurance corporation, with a capital stock of $100,000,000 to be subscribed by the government, but not more than $20,000,000 may be appropriated during the fiscal year 1939.

The corporation is empowered to insure wheat against losses due to unavoidable causes, such as drouth, floods, hail, wind, winter-kill, lightning, tornadoes, insect infestation, plant disease, etc. The insurance is to cover not less than 50 nor more than 75 per cent of the recorded or appraised average yield on the farm for a representative period.

BOY, 16, FORCES BANDIT TO GIVE UP TAVERN LOOT

A lackadaisical bandit who didn't have his heart in his work, held up a tavern at 4344 Broadway yesterday and took $9 from Tony Vogel, 3444 North Paulina street, the bartender.

Vogel began to yell for the police the minute the bandit's back was turned.

A boy of 16 heard the cries and saw the bandit, gun in hand, getting into a cab. The lad took the bad man by the arm and led him unresisting back to the tavern, where he gave back the $9 and waited for the police. His gun wasn't loaded. The boy is Shepard Kerman, 837 Cullom avenue [Junior terrace], who goes to Senn High school. The bandit is Otto Loth, 36 years old, 1012 North La Salle street.

NOBODY KNOWS TYPES OF WORK WPAERS CAN DO

Nearly All on Rolls Put to Common Labor.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

WPA officials confessed yesterday that they do not know what kind of work the 75,000 persons on WPA rolls in Chicago are capable of doing. Nearly all of those on the WPA pay roll are now doing common labor.

How many bricklayers would be available from the rolls of WPA and the Chicago Relief administration if building construction could be started? Are other specialized craftsmen available in the event that old or new businesses demand them? No one seems to know.

How WPA System Works.

WPA is notified by the CRA that a reliefer is certified—eligible—for WPA work. A copy of the certification also goes to the Illinois State Employment service [ISES], which is supposed to determine the work classification into which the reliefer falls. The ISES is supposed to send this information to WPA.

"We do not have an occupational classification of those on the WPA pay roll," said Paul Kerschbaum, WPA state statistician. "Most of the work we have available is common labor and our principal concern is whether or not a man can fill that kind of a job."

Kerschbaum telephoned Malcolm Smith, area statistical officer for Chicago, who said no tabulation of the previous work histories of those on WPA is contemplated.

"No, we don't know what the people on WPA used to do," said Carl Morgan, executive assistant to the Chicago director of WPA. "ISES sends us work classifications on them, but we have never tabulated these. Our principal concern is in putting people to work and we don't have many specialized jobs.

"No Record of Assignments."

"Carpenters, painters, and so on are filed as such in the lists of those who have not yet been assigned to jobs, but we don't know how many of them are now at work on projects. When we don't have a job that meets a man's skill, we put him to work at common labor."

Officials of the CRA said that they never have attempted to keep a tabulation of workers on WPA as these cases are closed by the CRA when the men and women are put to work on projects. The CRA is doing statistical work on a survey of the employables on its own rolls last October, but the value of the study is considered doubtful because of the lapse of time since the survey was made.

"We have cards for most of those employed by WPA on file here, but it would be necessary to go through 75,000 cards to get a tabulation of previous work records," Thompson said. "We haven't got a large enough staf to do that."

Rules Changed in Emergency.

As far as could be determined the record system among the three agencies—CRA, WPA, and ISES—has almost completely disappeared. Under the present emergency conditions more than 15,000 men have been certified directly to WPA by CRA for labor work.

Provision for making sure that these men are registered with the ISES has been overlooked, investigation showed, in the hurry to get the men on these projects. ISES officials said they would have been unable to handle all of them if they had been sent to the employment service.

CARY T. GRAYSON DIES; FRIEND OF 3 PRESIDENTS

Served Theodore and F. D. Roosevelt.

well, and he became a counselor to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In the following eleven years, until President Wilson's death, Grayson and the President became almost inseparable. Grayson accompanied Mr. Wilson to Paris for the peace conference in 1919. The admiral's decisions had national effect during the days in 1919 and 1920 when the President lay gravely ill. After Wilson's term ended in 1921 President Harding made sure that Grayson would not be transferred from Washington so Wilson might continue to have his services.

Goes on World Cruise.

Grayson remained with Mr. Wilson until the war President died in 1924. A year later Grayson retired from the navy. He then was a rear admiral, the rank to which Mr. Wilson promoted him on Aug. 29, 1916, from the rank of lieutenant commander.

Admiral Grayson went on the world cruise of an American fleet which President Theodore Roosevelt ordered in 1905 and 1906 to show off the nation's sea power. Grayson was stationed on the U. S. S. Maryland, then the navy's largest ship. He was surgeon of the presidential yacht Mayflower during the administration of both Theodore Roosevelt and Taft.

Admiral Grayson's love for blooded horseflesh found ample outlet in later years. After retirement he had an estate in the blue grass section of northern Virginia, bred thoroughbreds there and sent many of them to the races. My Own carried his colors to victory in the Saratoga cup race of 1923. Another notable winner in his stable was Sarazen, a horse which eventually established a winning list of twenty-seven races worth $225,000. Grayson patronized the hunt club meets of northern Virginia and Maryland and was a director of the annual national capitol horse show for several years.

Admiral Grayson was born in Culpepper county, Va., on Oct. 11, 1878, the son of a country doctor. He was orphaned in boyhood. He attended William and Mary college and the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.

He married Alice Gertrude Gordon of Washington on May 24, 1916. They had three children.

DISBARS TINKOFF FROM FEDERAL DISTRICT COURT

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ordered the disbarment of Paysoff Tinkoff, attorney and income tax expert, from the United States District court as the result of Tinkoff's conviction in an income tax evasion case. Tinkoff previously has been disbarred from practice in the Illinois Supreme court and in the federal Circuit Court of Appeals. He was convicted of aiding William J. Newman in the evasion of tax payments of approximately a million dollars. Judge Barnes heard the case.

SURVEY BACKS UP RELIEF RACKET CHARGE IN STATE

$1,000,000 Is Lost Each Month, Says Courtney.

Records of recent downstate investigations by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission were cited yesterday by Thomas E. Courtney of De Kalb, a member of the commission, in support of his charge that relief is a racket costing the taxpayers of Illinois an unnecessary $1,000,000 a month.

Investigation by the IERC showed that 37.7 per cent, or 1,148 of 3,047 cases investigated, were recommended for closing. The surveys covered nine townships and Alexander county, which has a commission form of government.

Data on Inquiry Given.

The table below gives the data on each investigation:

Township and county—	Cases on rolls.	Rec. for closing.	% rec. for closing.
Charleston, Coles	380	226	59.5
Odin, Marion	121	58	47.9
Georgetown, Vermilion	149	30	20.1
Oakwood, Vermilion	77	11	14.3
Rosefield, Peoria	21	13	61.9
Benton, Franklin	310	116	37.4
Winfield, Du Page	56	8	14.3
Murphysboro, Jackson	426	153	35.9
Springfield, Sangamon	267	104	38.9
———, Alexander	1,240	429	34.6

"This percentage may be high when applied to the whole state," Courtney said, "but even if it is cut in half—down to 20 per cent—it would still be a million dollars when applied to the state's monthly relief needs of $5,500,000."

Administration Waste Charged.

Representative Calvin D. Johnson of Belleville, a member of the state legislative committee investigating relief, has estimated that inefficiency and waste in administration cost at least $500,000 a month. Courtney joined Johnson in saying that a strong centralized method of control cver the administration of relief is the way to end this waste.

"There is no antagonism toward the legislature on the part of the IERC from what I have seen," Courtney said. "It seems to me that the legislature and the commission can pool their knowledge and experience to work out a good system."

Bandits Take a 300 Pound Safe from Parking Station

Bandits yesterday held up an auto parking station at 216 West Randolph street and carried away a 300 pound safe containing three days' receipts totaling several hundred dollars. They also took $15 from the cash register after putting Guy Barrington, 2145 Barry avenue, the attendant, and his brother, Ward, into the basement.

POLICE RAIDERS FIND ANGEL WITH A DEVILISH IDEA

Gold Mine Investor Is Out $1,200.

Marie Vukasovich.

Police listed among the have-nots last night Mrs. Marie Vukasovich, Mrs. Mary E. Doherty, Roy Wright, and certain unidentified others. First of all, they said, Mrs. Vukasovich does not have a $200,000 legacy nor a gold mine in Leadville, Colo. Mrs. Doherty does not have $150 Mrs. Vukasovich owes for back rent and sundries, and Wright, greatest sufferer of all, does not have $1,200 he invested in Mrs. Vukasovich's mine. The gold mine was a very pretty proposition. In fact, it was named the Little Angel gold mine. Mrs. Doherty, owner of a rooming house at 3632 North Claremont avenue, and Wright, a war veteran, who rooms there, heard all about it last summer. Mrs. Vukasovich, a fellow roomer, was the informant.

A Two to One Investment.

The mine, related Mrs. Vukasovich, was found accidentally by hunters, and it was so filled with gold and such pure gold that it was a two to one proposition. That is, two dollars back for every one invested. She was expecting a $200,000 legacy to open the mine, but needed ready cash now. Wright, over a period of several months, gave her $1,200. Mrs. Doherty, although skeptical, permitted Mrs. Vukasovich's rent to accumulate.

In keeping with the name of the mine, Mrs. Vukasovich gave investors tiny plaster angels and said the little angel name was in her honor because she was a former war nurse and so called by soldiers. She didn't give stock to investors, but promised them jobs. For instance, she promised a job as camp cook to a hot dog stand owner who gave her $15.

Mrs. Vukasovich disappeared from the Doherty house on Sept. 1, but a few days ago called Mrs. Doherty, said she had moved to 2229 East 70th street, and would like to use Mrs. Doherty's name for a new telephone. As a former phone company supervisor, Mrs. Doherty suspected trickery and called police.

Sent to Prison in 1921.

Detectives James Frawley, William Lawler, and Robert Ryan accordingly arrested Mrs. Vukasovich and found in no time that she didn't have Wright's $1,200, a $200,000 legacy, or—so they think—a gold mine. But they found something else. Back in 1921 Mrs. Vukasovich was known as "Mary the Penwoman," and was sent to prison for confidence game. They found that she had written $25,000 worth of bum checks.

ADMITS ROADSIDE SLAYING TO SEAL LIPS ON SWINDLE

Killer Says Peoria Victim Knew Too Much.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—(AP)—The investigation of the pistol slaying of a salesman on a road near Canton last Saturday night led state and Peoria authorities today to the trail of an alleged ring of swindlers.

Frank Figueira, acting state superintendent of criminal identification, quoted Ray Blackford, held in jail at Lewistown, as saying he killed Harold D. Cleary, a Peoria plumbing salesman, because he knew too much about the $9,000 swindling of a Peoria man.

Blackford, who is 26 years old and operated a Peoria shooting gallery, was quoted as saying the head of the gang was John Diegeman, proprietor of the Ringside tavern near Havana.

Denies Knowing Death Motive.

Diegeman was arrested and is being held in jail here. Figueira said Diegeman insisted he does not know why Cleary was shot, but confessed participation in a $3,200 diamond swindle of a Benld man last July. He denied knowledge of the Peoria swindling case mentioned by Blackford.

Fulton county and Peoria officials earlier quoted Blackford as admitting he killed Cleary while on an automobile ride Saturday night.

Harold Politie of Peoria, a hitchhiker who also was riding in the automobile and who reported the slaying, was said to have escaped being slain only because another car came along at the time.

Admits Aiding in Swindle.

Figueira, Supt. Leo Kamins of the Peoria police, and Lieut. Bert Molohan of the state highway police said Blackford confessed participation in the $9,000 swindle of Joseph Bertonelli at Peoria about ten days ago.

Figueira did not identify the victim of the Benld swindle, which he said involved the delivery of fake diamonds after legitimate sale had been made.

Diegeman said both Cleary and Blackford were very drunk together at his tavern Saturday night.

"Cleary asked Blackford to drive his car for him and both left," Diegeman said. "After several hours Blackford came back alone and shot pool with another man."

Blackford was arraigned in justice court at Lewistown today, Waived examination, and was held to the grand jury on a murder charge.

"This United Mainliner has a cruising range twice as long as its longest non-stop flight"

"THIS GIANT MAINLINER HAS A CRUISING RANGE OF 1500 MILES! When we take it up with a full load—21 passengers and their baggage—we can carry enough reserve fuel to stay in the air for at least twice as many hours as we'll need to."

"IT CAN MAKE ITS LONGEST SCHEDULED FLIGHT AND RETURN WITHOUT LANDING. Chicago to New York is our longest non-stop trip . . . 712 miles. Under unusual conditions we could go and come back again without refueling. Of course that does not happen—because we never take off unless alternate airports are open at the end of the route."

"SPEED WITHOUT HURRY—ONLY HALF THE AVAILABLE HORSEPOWER IS USED. The Mainliner's twin engines each develop 1100 h.p. But our schedules are planned to use only 50% of that power. We loaf along at 180 miles an hour, with plenty of reserve. Actually, if necessary, the plane can climb two miles high with only one engine in use."

"OUR NEW HIGHER FLIGHT ALTITUDES INCREASE YOUR COMFORT. All United pilots have rigid orders now to fly at least ½ mile above the highest terrain on our course. There's usually smoother air up there, for one thing. And of course it's safer. A barograph, like the one shown here, goes along on every United flight—automatically recording my altitudes over the entire course."

"UNITED PAYS ME FOR MY JUDGMENT IN NOT FLYING, TOO. United Air Lines recently guaranteed me a minimum salary of $650 a month. Therefore I have no financial reasons for starting or completing a flight when weather is doubtful.

● FLYING UNITED is a luxurious and time-saving experience. Take your next trip between New York, Cleveland, Chicago, Denver and all Pacific Coast cities from Los Angeles-San Francisco to Seattle in a de luxe Skylounge or Mainliner Sleeper Plane!"

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

WHAT MAKES MONEY EASY.

A man who recently sought to place his money with a Chicago bank on a certificate of deposit was told that the return would be 1/32d of 1 per cent. The paper of firms of unquestioned credit is selling at ¾ of 1 per cent.

Low rates of interest for short term obligations is one of the characteristics of the present national administration. The results from the government point of view are reflected in the payments for interest. In the year which ended June 30, 1933, the treasury paid 603 million dollars for the money it owed. The government debt at the end of that year amounted to 19 billion dollars. At the end of the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1937, the government owed 36 billion dollars, but paid out only 866 million dollars in interest.

The low rate of interest results from large spending by the government in excess of income. When a government spends only as much as it takes in as taxes, it adds nothing to the bank deposits. When a government spends less than it collects as taxes, and uses the balance to retire debt, it reduces bank deposits. But when the government spends more than it takes in as taxes, it adds to the volume of bank deposits.

See how this has worked since 1933. Between June 30, 1933, and June 30, 1937, the government spent 16 billion dollars more than was collected as taxes. In the same period of time, deposits in all banks taken together rose by 15 billion dollars. The increased bank deposits of the last four years came in large part from government spending, and only in small part from saving.

With the biggest source of banking funds, increasing bank deposits tremendously by the simple process of printing bonds, selling them to the banks in return for credits, and then spending the proceeds, it was natural that those who had to accumulate funds by the hard process of saving were not going to get much for their forbearance.

Savings bank depositors have suffered severely. The rate paid on savings bank deposits in Chicago, which previously had been 3 per cent, was reduced to 2 per cent on July 1, 1934. Six months later, there was a further cut to 1½ per cent. Savings deposits declined severely starting in 1930, but have since regained all but about 1/6 of predepression proportions. However, Chicago savings depositors last year received as interest only 8 million dollars. In the years immediately preceding the depression, they were paid 20 million dollars per year. The savings bank depositors of the country as a whole have made great progress in rebuilding the depression losses, but they are getting as interest 400 million dollars a year less than they received in 1927 or 1928, if the interest reduction has been generally applied.

Four hundred million dollars per year is the loss of the savings depositors and it is a fair estimate of the reduced cost of borrowed money to the government. Thus, the easy money policy of the government has resulted in redistributing income. It has diverted income from the 44 million thrifty Americans who over the years have saved their money, and into the treasury where it is used to pay for useless public works and for benefits to those who stand around at WPA projects.

Thus, the thrifty and self-supporting members of society are contributing to the maintenance of the loafers not only through taxation but also by the income which is subtly abstracted through artificially low rates of interest.

ZION GOES CAPITALIST.

A revolutionary change in the terms of land tenure in Zion, Ill., was announced recently. Private ownership which at first was forbidden is now encouraged. The change was made because of a desire for [economic] revival. A thousand pieces of property which formerly were held under lease and could be transferred to another tenant only with the permission of Overseer Voliva are now owned in fee by the former tenants. Another 2,100 lots have been thrown open for sale.

The experience in Zion follows the familiar pattern. There have been hundreds, and perhaps even thousands, of similar communities in this country. Almost all of them have been little theocracies, led by a prophet. Almost all of them have been communistic in economic organization, with private ownership of land and tools forbidden.

Many of these communities, like Brook Farm and Oneida, have attracted persons of more than ordinary intellectual capacity. The experience of almost all the communities is that they flourish as long as the prophet and his original followers are active. The succeeding generations, less obsessed with religious or reformist zeal, can make a more objective comparison of the merits of life under communism and under a free economy. Once that comparison is made, the retreat from communism cannot long be postponed.

In this country any one who fancies communism as a way of life is free today and always has been free to assemble men and women of like mind in a communist society. They can own farms and operate factories in common. They can set up any sort of economic organization which the members desire. It cannot be argued that such communities cannot succeed as islands in the midst of a capitalist sea because they have succeeded, some of them brilliantly, for a generation or two until the zeal which led to their founding evaporated.

Prof. Carver says that communism never can survive in competition with free enterprise. Where communism survives, he says, it is because of compulsion. The hundreds of communist experiments which have been undertaken in this country bear out his thesis. Perhaps the most striking single contrast between Russia and America is that in America any one who so desires may live as a communist, but in Russia it is punishable by death to so much as advocate the private ownership of a single factory. If it weren't for compulsion communism would long since have been abandoned in Russia. It has been kept alive only by virtue of prisons, exile, and firing squads.

A STITCH IN TIME.

It has been repeatedly said that the only surefire method of improving safety conditions on our streets is through the application of the three e's—engineering, enforcement, and education. Engineering is marking time until those in power wake up to the fact that no city can lay claim to modernity without elevated highways. As for enforcement, the police are keeping the trafic courts busy through the apprehension of drunken drivers, careless drivers, and those who make a practice of running red lights. But what of education?

There are many petty offenses that result more from ignorance and indifference to the rights of the other fellow than from wilful negligence. Included in this category is the driver who insists on straddling the center line, the one who habitually makes left hand turns from the right hand lane or vice versa, and the thoughtless character who improperly parks his car either away from the curb, diagonally, or in such other manner as will threaten the moving lanes of trafic.

What thoughtful motorist has driven the length of one of our boulevards without heartily wishing that he had the authority to hale some erratic or careless driver to the curb to remonstrate with him regarding some infraction of good conduct? If policemen cruise through trafic they must observe these same discourtesies. Why can they not warn these offenders before they cause accidents, and if necessary take their numbers with penalties for second offenses? The experienced motorist knows that trivial law evasions lead to bad driving and eventually to accidents.

MR. IGOE ENTERS THE RACE.

Michael L. Igoe's decision to seek the Democratic nomination for the senatorship is supported by a long and creditable record in public office and a repeatedly demonstrated voting strength. Educated in the Chicago parochial schools, in the De La Salle institute and Chicago and Georgetown universities, Mr. Igoe has made his career in public life and has won the respect of citizens by his ability, integrity and force of character.

As an aspirant to the United States senatorship he brings sixteen years of experience in the Illinois assembly and a brief term as congressman-at-large, before he resigned to become district attorney, as evidence of his qualities as a legislator. In the assembly his service was marked by courage and initiative. He was a formidable critic and opponent of the malodorous Small-Thompson régime and a sponsor of important legislation, notably the Illinois waterway act and measures for the betterment and protection of the public service. No scandal has touched him.

The Democratic party leadership has shown commendable sense of responsibility in putting forth two men of the quality of Mr. Lucas and Mr. Igoe for the high office of United States senator.

THE SPRINT RACERS.

The Millrose sports carnival recently held in Madison Square Garden brought another great sprint runner to the top of the track records. Ben Johnson of Columbia did three heats in the 60 yard straightaway, the first in 6:2, which has been the record, the second in 6:1, and the final at 6 seconds flat, the fastest time ever made indoors at that distance. Other great sprint runners have tried to beat 6:2 and no one had succeeded. They include Jesse Owens, Eddie Tolan, Percy Williams, Ralph Metcalfe, Eulace Peacock, and Loren Murchison. Johnson, known as "Little Ben," is a colored boy. In recent years, in fact ever since colored boys began going to college in larger numbers, the short distance running has been dominated by them.

When Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette had his supremacy successfully challenged it was by Jesse Owens of Ohio State, who rose to the heights of individual performance in the Berlin Olympic games. The serious although not successful challenger of Owens was Eulace Peacock, the colored boy star of Temple university. And now comes Ben Johnson. Their specialty is in the short distance, for which their muscles, wind, timing, and rhythm seem perfectly attuned and coördinated.

The succession of colored boys who succeed one another as holders of the sprint records indicates more than would be found in any law of averages. It is an anatomical and physiological study.

THE HUMAN ELEMENT.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

Science has done much to perfect the modern airplane and eliminate mechanical causes for accident, but there is need for a similar attack on "pilot error" which is deemed responsible for more than half the crashes of recent years. The pilots themselves are well qualified for their exacting work and department of commerce regulations limit a man's flying time to 90 hours a month. Yet the errors continue.

Capt. Harry G. Armstrong, M. D., director of a physiological research laboratory maintained by the United States army at Wright field, Dayton, O., tells 400 of the nation's leading aeronautical authorities in convention in New York that plane designers and operators can relieve the pressure responsible for human error.

"In the large aircraft," he says, "there is more to do in the cockpit than can reasonably be expected of anybody, without the possibility of error, especially under adverse conditions." The solution to this is enlargement of the crews.

Capt. Armstrong finds that a great cause of pilot fatigue is the oxygen want that develops in the human body even at present flying levels. This is not sufficient to affect passengers, but it does impair the efficiency of pilots. The situation will become more serious if airlines carry out their plan to seek greater speed at higher altitudes. This problem can be solved by incorporating special oxygen equipment in the new planes at the sacrifice of some pay load.

It is significant that none of the experts in the audience disputed Capt. Armstrong's findings. In the absence of rebuttal, the federal bureau of air commerce and the airlines are in duty bound to consider these scientific observations on the "human element" in air disaster.

This Week's Bridge Story.

It was at a bridge game in Park Ridge where four friends combine bridge, gossip, and domestic chatter successfully as a rule, according to Gale Gordon, one of the four. A venturesome bidder carried her bidding to four spades, with only monosyllabic passes from her partner. After the opening lead had been laid on the table, she looked expectantly across the table and inquired: "Have you any help, partner?"

"Just by the day," was the dejected reply.

DIALOG.

As Buddy Rogers was getting out of a cab at the Hotel Sherman the other day the driver commented, "Say, you look something like Buddy Rogers. You ought to try the movies."

"Listen, I'd rather you'd say I looked like Mickey Mouse than that guy Rogers," retorted Buddy.

"Well, I dunno. My wife likes him," said the driver.

"So does mine," said Rogers.

WINTER.

She most always is a slattern,
In her everlasting gray;
But will sometimes change the pattern
To a flashing, spotless day.

Might be snow that she is wearing,
In sheer gown of perfect fit—
And will wear till we quit caring,
When she soils and ruins it.

She's capricious and quite fussy,
As to virtue, I don't care;
Now, just why I stand this hussy—
Well, I own a weakness there.

Give her credit for this other,
And a most important thing:
This old hellion is the mother
Of a lovely girl, named Spring.

Photographs on an Actress' Table.

A handsome autographed photograph of Dowager Queen Mary, sent to Helen Hayes by the queen mother because of her Queen Victoria presentation, is among the pictures in Miss Hayes' sitting room at the Ambassador hotel. Only once before has Queen Mary sent her photograph to an actress—and that was to Marie Tempest, according to one authority on the matter. . . . Beside the queen mother's picture is one of Miss Hayes' little daughter, Mary MacArthur, in the dress she wore when, on her 7th birthday, she was permitted to go on the stage in the last act of "Victoria Regina" as a birthday present. Her mother had made her stage debut when she was 7. Another photograph was added to the group yesterday—one of Vernon Castle dancing with Irene Castle—a present from Irene Castle McLaughlin. Miss Hayes says she fell in love with Vernon Castle when she was 9 years old and wept when he introduced his fiancée, then Miss Foote.

BACTERIA AND DISEASE—CAUSE AND EFFECT.

We can scarcely realize that our present day understanding of disease is of comparatively recent origin. There are many now living who recall the period when bacteria were unheard of. At the time of the struggle between the north and south [1861-'65], we did not know the cause of a single contagious malady. All that we have learned about the source of typhoid fever, cholera, diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, etc.—their cause and prevention—has come since that time. The development of the compound microscope is barely one hundred years old. This invention permitted laboratory workers to see objects smaller than those visible with the ordinary lens. For many decades, however, what was observed was neither recognized nor evaluated.

The beginning of our knowledge of communicable sickness came from studies on the yeast plant and its rôle in producing alcohol. In other words, the investigation of fermentation brought the first hints concerning the nature of infection.

It was the research of Louis Pasteur, from 1857 to 1863, on the troubles of beer and wine, which proved conclusively that abnormal sour and bitter tastes were produced by micro-organisms and not by the yeast plant itself. He found that at times these microscopic living cells would contaminate the "working" liquid and produce noxious by-products which we now call toxins.

The first real demonstration of germ disease was Pasteur's investigation of prebrine. Silkworms were threatened with destruction. Starting with the theory that some microbe was at the basis of the malady, he proved that a particular type of germ, which he could grow in a special broth, was the cause. Here was the verification, then, that not only the bitter flavors of beer and wine but the affliction that killed the silkworms were due to tiny plants, called bacteria.

As long as an apple has its skin intact this protective covering effectually prevents germs from spoiling the fruit. But peel it and expose the pulp to the air and within a short time it will turn brown from the effects of oxygen and bacteria. Squeeze it and allow the juice [cider] to become contaminated with organisms from the atmosphere, and it will ferment readily.

The human epidermis may be compared to the smooth, firm coating of the apple. It, too, is a defense against contact with oxygen and germs. Remove a patch half an inch square and expose the tissues beneath to dirt and dust. The area will become bacteria laden quickly. These organisms will multiply, and the result will be fermentation, or—as we now call it—infection. Let something happen in the intestinal tract which impairs the normal safeguarding function of the mucous membrane, and microbes, which are always present, will then invade the uncovered cells and grow.

Just about sixty years ago, Robert Koch, the discoverer of the tubercle bacillus, studied the condition known as anthrax, which was common among cattle and sheep, occasionally attacking human beings. By means of his microscope he was able to observe tiny rodlike affairs in the blood of dead animals. He was able to transfer these to test tubes containing bouillon, where he found they would reproduce in great profusion. When a small number were introduced into the blood of healthy animals a typical anthrax ensued. Here was even more complete proof. Germs recovered after death had been grown outside the body and, through their injection, had caused the same disease.

There are, of course, good bacteria as well as bad. Were it not for the powerful destroying tendencies of the good ones, plus the agency of oxygen, the wastes of the world would soon engulf civilization. These forms attack organic [vegetable and animal] matter and reconvert it into its elemental substances.

But the end is not yet, as many afflictions remain enigmas, including infantile paralysis, encephalitis, measles, and others. All of which means that we must establish no small amount of respect for these infinitesimal plants which affect health so profoundly.

REST, PROPER FOOD.

Mrs. M. R. writes: My brother is 34 years old and has been told he has tubercular spots on his lungs, although they are not active. He takes cold easily and such attacks leave him quite weak. Is this serious? Would you advise a high climate?

REPLY.

Preventive treatment for tuberculosis consists of rest and good nutrition. A warm, dry climate would help him to avoid frequent colds, but close attention to the rules of health, even in your latitude, will rebuild health. Effort should stop just short of fatigue. Frequent rest periods are advisable.

BETTER SEE PHYSICIAN.

E. B. writes: Lately when I awake in the morning my mouth is very dry and I have pain through my whole body, especially my stomach. As soon as I am on my feet the pain disappears.

What can be wrong?

REPLY.

In the first place you are probably a mouth breather. Practice keeping the mouth closed during sleep. The most common cause of the discomfort you describe is low grade arthritis. Bony changes have probably occurred in the spine. A careful checkup by your physician is advised.

HAVE BLOOD TESTED.

J. N. Y. writes: I am 19 and have not menstruated for 8 months. I feel tired and cranky all the time, and my legs ache. My doctor says I have not enough blood. Will I develop consumption if I do not soon return to normal? What is wrong with me and what can I do?

REPLY.

Anemia is more likely than tuberculosis. Have a blood examination made. Your physician can then prescribe the proper remedy.

AVOID EXCESS OF SALT.

J. A. S. writes: My family is very fond of smoked fish. We use a lot of finnan haddie, salt mackerel, etc. In my own case I have been having some digestive symptoms. Could it be the fish diet?

REPLY.

Possibly—even probably. The savory character of such dishes makes them appetizing, but too much salt is a bad thing for every one.

CIRCULATION AFFECTED.

A. R. writes: What causes swollen veins in the feet and insteps? There is pain extending to the knees, and soreness when standing.

REPLY.

Some interference with the return flow of blood to the heart. An elastic stocking will help. If the veins become grossly tortuous and dilated [varicosed] the injection treatment may be applied.

ABOUT WISDOM TEETH.

T. A. writes: Do wisdom teeth always cause pain when breaking through?

REPLY.

Frequently, but not always.

BERLIN.—The four year plan for German self-sufficiency is being included in the curriculum of German schools by order of Bernhard Rust, national minister of education. Economic problems arising from the plan are to be dealt with in the mathematical lessons of the upper grades of the elementary schools as well as in high schools.

Germany's self-sufficiency problems, taught to schoolboys and girls from twelve years and up, are divided into two main groups, the first dealing with foodstuffs, the other with raw materials.

Here are some of the questions the teachers are ordered to put before their pupils:

The first question is intended to drive home Germany's lack of space as compared to other countries. "For each hundred people Germany has 108 acres of arable land at her disposal. Italy has 140 acres, Poland 195 acres, Australia 550 acres, soviet Russia 780 acres and the Argentine Republic 3,700 acres. What do these figures convey to you? Sketch the areas in correct proportion to each other."

Question number two is designed to show that in her recent history Germany made repeated efforts to overcome her lack of space by peaceful means. "Frederick the Great reclaimed 150,000 acres of land from the Oder swamps from 1746 to 1756. In the years 1919 to 1932 approximately 90,000 acres of land were reclaimed. In the first two years of Hitler's rule 31,000 acres were reclaimed. Compare these achievements."

Another question is designed to draw attention to the Nazi "combat waste" campaign. "One pair of mice breeds on the average 300 young ones a year. A mouse eats yearly 6.6 pounds of grain. How much does a mouse family eat? How many loaves of bread does this represent? How long could you live on this bread?"

To further support the German self-sufficiency plans slate boards will be provided in the youngest classes throughout Germany starting next Easter. The slates will replace the copy books whose paper quality has deteriorated greatly in recent years. Whereas a decree issued in September, 1934, prescribed that only good paper free of wood should be used for copy books and that the paper should weigh 98 grams per square meter, this weight was reduced to 95 grams in 1936, and in November, 1937, to only 70 grams.

It is emphasized that only slate from German quarries will be used. While admitting that German slate is harder and therefore less suitable for school purposes than the foreign slate imported heretofore, the Koelnische Zeitung points out "that its use is imperative as long as Germany lacks raw materials. In addition, the ailing slate industry in Thuringia and Upper Franconia will benefit by the measure. To fulfill the necessary economic requirements it is necessary to put up with small disadvantages."

LIMITATION PERIOD.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am in possession of a note which was issued by my uncle to a friend. My uncle is dead now and he willed the note to me and this note was made on May 4, 1931, in Detroit, Mich. It was due May 4, 1932. This note is not paid and the party moved in the same year to Los Angeles, Cal., and is still living there. This is an ordinary note. I live in Chicago.

1. I would like to know if the note is still good.

2. If the note is good can I file a suit against them in California to collect the money?

3. In which state shall I get judgment against them? T. M.

1. The California limitation period on a note is four years. The Michigan period is six years. The Michigan statute would not run during absence of the debtor from that state. In general the creditor's right of action would be barred if the statute has run either in the state in which the contract was made or in the state in which the suit was brought. Your facts do not cover the latter point.

2 and 3. We suggest that you try forwarding the instrument to a California attorney for collection on a contingent fee.

AGREEMENT TO PAY.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"A" made a partial payment on a loan to me. To save him unnecessary expense [1] I said his son could get a memorandum of agreement and fill in in typewritten form the necessary items and have same signed by himself and wife for the rest of the loan due to me. Since then I have been told this paper would not be considered legal.

2. It is said it should have been notarized, and [3] that I should, in their presence, have written across the previous paper I had "paid on principal $1,000" and have that paper in my possession. Please advise proper procedure in such a matter. L. K.

1. It is not clear whether you mean that this was substituted for the papers which you previously held. Neither do you state the nature of the original papers.

2. If the original loan was secured by a mortgage and the mortgage was released then a new mortgage should have been executed, acknowledged before a notary, and recorded covering the balance.

3. This would be the ordinary procedure in case of a part payment. In view of your evident inexperience both in the handling of the transaction and in explaining the facts, we advise you to have a personal interview with an attorney.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Pass Christian, Miss., Feb. 9.—I call to your attention for possible future discussion the inaugural speech of Gen. William Harrison, our ninth President. His political creed was a strict limitation of the executive and a preservation of the rights of the states.

He stated: "The love of power to which office holders are prone, is one of the most vicious dangers that can threaten the republic and should be avoided by short terms in office so that the officer might never forget that he was the agent and not the principal of the country." LESSONS IN ITALIAN AND GEOGRAPHY.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—In today's SUNDAY TRIBUNE, on the editorial page, there appear in the lower right corner reproductions of six drawings from the Guerin Meschino of Milan, under the general caption: Day in the Life of President Roosevelt. Under these are translations of the legends under the various drawings. In the sixth and last picture the President is supposed to be saying: "I am for demoderation." Fortunately, that picture carries the original Italian, which should be translated: "I am for demo-dictatorship"—something that makes sense, which is not true of "demoderation."

Also in today's paper, Tallinn, Estonia, is said to be the new name for Riga. Riga is in Latvia, and its name has not been changed. The town now known as Tallinn was called Reval and not Riga. I hope that Mr. Mason Warner's power of observation is superior to his geographic information. I likewise hope that the legends under the first five pictures on the editorial page were translated more accurately than that under the sixth. N. KLEITMAN.

TALE OF A PATCH.

Maywood, Ill., Feb. 9.—One day, about sixty years ago, the village half-wit, a harmless woman of middle age, knocked at my mother's door. When admitted, she asked for scissors and needle and thread so she could patch her apron. Half frightened, I kept close to my mother, but watched the woman cut a large piece from one side of her apron, lay it over a small hole on the other side and make a neat patch of it.

Only 4, I was old enough to be aware of the absurdity of her act, and giggled as I watched her. How little did we think that a time would come when we should see our august, respected government in Washington making a serious use of that same principle as a fundamental method of conducting its business! GUM BALL MACHINES.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—There have been candy chances and gum ball machines for the past fifty years or more. I think this petty gambling is trivial compared to the various radio programs and newspaper contests that offer cash prizes as inducements to the public to buy their products. MRS. L. VOELKNER.

GO BAREFOOT AND SAVE TIME.

Brookfield, Ill., Feb. 10.—I would like to sell a bushel of corn in order to buy some socks. To whom do I apply for permission? Ma Perkins or Harry Bridges, Henry Wallace or Earl Browder, Jim Farley or John L. Lewis, F. D. R., or Stalin? HARRY WILSON.

THE CONFERENCE ON PAROLE.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—As chairman of the panel discussion on parole on Feb. 3, referred to in your first page story on Feb. 4, I desire to call to your attention three omissions in your account of the meeting.

First, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan did criticize parole when poorly administered, but said, "Understand me, I am for parole," and highly recommended the present administration of parole supervision under Mr. T. P. Sullivan. Second, the figures of the Chicago crime commission, quoted by Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin at the meeting, showed that the big decrease in crime in Chicago took place in the years 1935 and 1936, before THE TRIBUNE began its campaign against parole and before the parole board cut down on the number of men granted paroles. The decrease in crimes in the years of 1934 to 1936 was as follows: In murders, from 337 to 195, or 42 per cent; in burglaries, from 20,619 to 12,789, or 38 per cent; and in robberies, from 13,436 to 5,524, or 58 per cent. Every one taking part in the discussion, including Chief Sullivan, expressed belief in the principle of parole.

Third, your account entirely omitted the excellent summing up of the discussion by Col. Chamberlin in which he proposed a unification of probation, incarceration, parole and after-care under a board of prison administration to be composed of qualified men appointed for staggered terms of fifteen years. It is very much to be regretted that by reason of inadequate reporting so mistaken an impression has been given your readers of the views of a group of practical men in the field, including, I repeat, Chief of Detectives Sullivan.

PRAISE FOR THE POLICE.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—We want to publicly thank the police department of the city of Chicago, particularly Sergt. Brennan, Officers Muhlrein, Fogarty, Heinz and Connally, working out of the 5th district station; and the state's attorney's office, particularly Assistant Attorneys Clorofine and Jean, for the splendid work they all did in the apprehending and bringing to justice of the heartless murderer of Nicholas Miller.

After twenty-two months, long after most of the family and friends of the victim had given up hope, these men by their diligent and faithful effort found this man and convicted him.

The jury, too, is deserving of a measure of credit for having the courage to impose the maximum penalty for this horrible crime. EDWARD MILLER.

HYPHENATED AMERICANS.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Shortly before the war, I believe it was, a determined effort was made to rid the city and the country of the hyphenated American. It was pointed out that we are Americans and not a combination of American with something else. The effort to put over this idea was quite successful, and for some time the hyphen was seldom seen. Now it is back, and apparently has gained strength. To me it does not matter where a man was born, but when he runs for office he should run as an American. For my own part I refuse to vote for a man who is up for election as the representative of some group with a European name. He can't be a very good American. J. D. B.

DOCTORS OFFER A PLAN TO BALK STATE MEDICINE

Dentists Hear Attack on Federal Control.

A plan to create a national council of medicine as a means of forestalling government control of the profession was proposed last night at the annual congress on medical education and licensure in the Palmer house. Another Chicago meeting, held at the same time, heard a vigorous criticism of proposals to federalize health activities.

At the annual congress, Dr. Willard C. Rappleye, dean of the Columbia university medical faculty, made the proposal for a national council which would act as a clearing house for public and private administration of medicine. He urged that all universities, medical schools, hospitals, practicing physicians, state medical licensing boards, public health agencies, medical societies and their specialist examining boards join in creating the national council.

Agency to Assist Government.

"There are indications," said Dr. Rappleye, "that the government may be urged or expected to increase financial support of medical care, teaching, and research. It is important that the profession create in advance an agency for assisting in any such possibility and for making suggestions how such activities can best be developed."

The congress is sponsored by the American Medical association, whose house of delegates last June at the A. M. A. convention in Atlantic City rejected the New York Medical society's proposal that federal funds be sought for medical schools, hospitals, and physicians. Senator James Hamilton Lewis at that time delivered an invitation to the A. M. A. to formulate plans to give adequate care to the indigent or submit to federal regulation.

Attacks Proposals by Lewis.

At the midwinter meeting of the Chicago Dental society, which opened yesterday in Stevens hotel, Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill of Indiana used Senator Lewis' June speech as the basis for declaring:

"The results of practicing medicine at public expense by political bureaus, even among the very poor, is nothing to brag about. . . . The drive for state medicine finds its chief motive power in the desire to shift the economic burden involved from the shirker to the worker, the shiftless to the thrifty, the unfortunate to the fortunate. . . . Government today, by taxes, takes 20 per cent of the average income. How much more is it to take?"

Congressman Pettengill deplored the Illinois senator's speech and resolution for compulsory medical care a month later in the senate as tending toward "universal serfdom to the state."

"If the government can fix the wage of the doctor," he said, "it can fix the wage of the manual worker or the compensation of the farmer. That is something for union labor and the farmer to think about."

Congressman Pettengill said that state medicine had its rightful place in sanitation, epidemic control, and in caring for the poor, the crippled, and insane.

He declared the United States has made greater medical advances under private practice than have countries where medicine is administered by the state.

CAR, BUS, TAXI SERVICE HALTED IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Minneapolis was without public conveyance service tonight. The last street car was pulled into the barns before 6 p. m. Buses on city and Minneapolis-St. Paul lines had ceased running hours earlier.

The result, particularly in Minneapolis where taxicabs were off the streets because of a strike started Friday, was the stranding of thousands of persons downtown. It also caused a mass movement of private automobiles that caused the worst trafic jam in the city's history.

City officials, union and street railway officials sought a common ground for ending the tieup that began this morning. A company order placing the Minnehaha-Fort Snelling line on a full-time one-man basis led to the strike.

ASK 271 MILLION FOR U. S. FIGHT ON SYPHILIS PLAGUE

Health Experts Bluntly Trace Plague's Ravages

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—A federal fund of 271 million dollars to fight America's No. 1 plague—syphilis—was demanded today at a senate subcommittee hearing.

Using blunt language, a score of health experts mobilized by Surgeon General Thomas Parran described the ravages of the venereal scourge. The 271 millions, they said, is only a fraction of the cost to be averted by stamping out syphilis.

The subcommittee has before it a bill sponsored by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], appropriating the fund to be spent over a period of thirteen years under the public health service. Hope for its passage and executive approval soared high after Dr. Parran, during a recess, conferred for a half hour with President Roosevelt. White House approval of at least part of the expenditure was believed certain.

40,000 Killed Annually.

Pleading for a national eradication program, Senator La Follette declared that 40,000 victims of syphilis die annually and 60,000 babies are born with the disease each year.

"The battle against this scourge, to be won, must be fought in forty-eight states on forty-eight fronts," he said. "Syphilis germs do not respect state lines. It obviously is a job for the federal government."

Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen of Chicago, where 95 per cent of 1,000,000 persons polled agreed to voluntary blood tests, startled the senators with his story. Less than one-third of 25,000 found infected were under treatment and less than one-fourth were treated in time for a fairly sure cure, he said.

"We've tried evolution of this syphilis problem long enough," he declared. "It's time for a revolution."

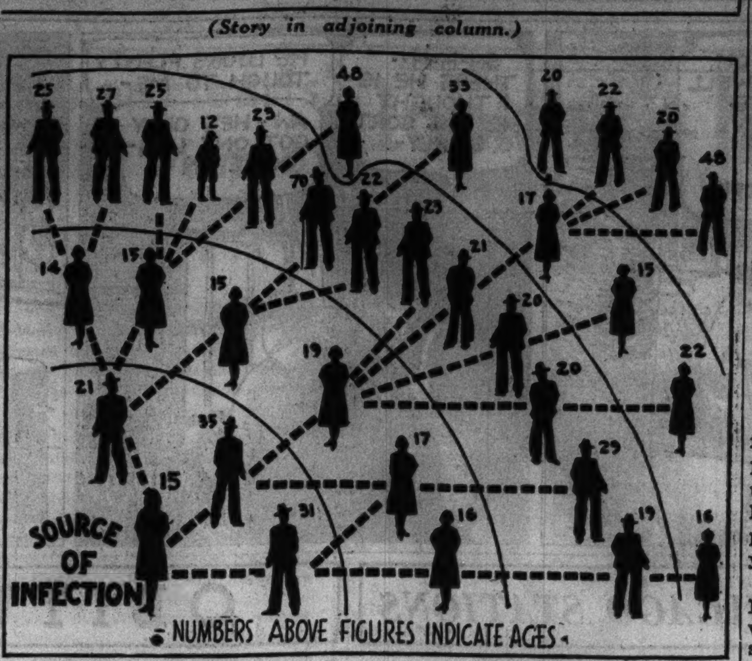
Senator Royal S. Copeland, chairman, described as "the most amazing thing I ever have seen" a chart produced by Bundesen showing how a 15 year old girl gave syphilis to three men, who gave it to six women, who gave it to thirteen men, who gave it to six women, who gave it to four men [a total of 32]. Among the women, eight were under 17 years of age. Among the men fourteen were under 25.

"These are only the infections we have traced from this single case," Bundesen explained. "Next year there may be thirty-two more.

"Let's be truthful. Nice people do get syphilis. And I say the difference between those who do and those who don't is misfortune, and nothing else. The syphilis carrier is a potential murderer, and I say he must be stopped whether he likes it or not."

How Venereal Disease Was Spread to 32 Persons

(Story in adjoining column.)



This chart traces the record of the spread of syphilis from the source of infection, a girl 15 years old, to 32 other persons. The girl gave the disease to three men, who gave it to six women, who gave it to thirteen men, who gave it to six women, who gave it to four men.

SCHOOLS EXPAND HEALTH COURSES FOR EVERY GRADE

Program for Elementary Classes Outlined.

Physical education in Chicago's elementary schools soon will include a program of courses for each grade to emphasize the importance of health, Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, announced yesterday.

A similar program was started last February in the high schools. The work prepared for the elementary schools has been correlated with that in the high schools to provide pupils with a complete course in health subjects, Dr. Johnson explained.

"Educators realized that pupils were deriving few lasting benefits from twice-a-week visits to the gymnasium for exercises and supervised play," he said. "The modern trend is for instruction in health and a discussion with the pupils of the reasons for desiring mental and physical soundness."

25 Jobs to Be Created.

At first the new health instruction will be added to the curriculum of about 50 of the 349 elementary schools in the city, creating 25 additional jobs for physical education teachers. The 25 new teachers and two supervisors to assist August H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education for Chicago schools, will be appointed att he next meeting of the board of education.

School officials will watch the progress of the work and the pupils' reaction to it, Mr. Pritzlaff said. There will be changes and alterations from time to time designed to improve its effectiveness. Teachers, principals, and medical authorities will be encouraged to make suggestions. Later the work will be extended to all other schools.

Heretofore each physical education teacher in the elementary grades has divided his time between two schools, but under the new plan each will have a full time job at a single school. There will be no additional gymnasium work.

How New System Works.

The children have been receiving irregular instruction, but the new program will offer them systematized instruction similar to that in other courses. In the primary grades, regular teachers will provide training in personal cleanliness and give instruction in health habits. In the intermediate grades the pupils will have various causes of disease and ill health explained to them, and will be told what they can do to guard against them. In the seventh and eighth grades they will take their instruction from the physical education teacher, Mr. Pritzlaff explained, getting more detailed information and preparation for the work to follow in high school.

Introducing
AMERICA'S LEADING MUMMY
"The Man Who Killed Lincoln"

STEP RIGHT UP, folks, and meet the mummy who tours under this banner: $1000 REWARD TO ANYONE WHO CAN PROVE THAT THIS IS NOT JOHN WILKES BOOTH. He has been bought and sold, leased, held under bond, kidnaped and seized for debt. He's been chased out of towns for "not having a license," and threatened with hanging by indignant G. A. R. veterans. You'll find the story of his strange career in your Post today.

"John Wilkes Booth" on Tour
by ALVA JOHNSTON

With a childhood like Marc de Melli's
COULD ANY MAN BE HAPPY?

INTENSITY—and something feverish—seemed to come into a room with Marc de Melli. Perhaps it was seeing the War as a child that had set him worlds apart; made him now merciless as the devil, now gentle as a saint. Two people understood Marc. One was Dina, who loved him. And one was Van, her fiancé, who hated him. Inevitably, there had to come a showdown.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

VOICE OF CARUSO GIVEN NEW LIFE BY RE-RECORDING

Modern Process Corrects Sound Distortion.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

A magnificent voice from the loudspeaker the other evening halted a placid crossword lexicon session. Who could it be? It was Caruso. And his voice was much more alive and real than we had ever heard him via the old style pre-electrical recordings. [We were hearing that recorded Music as You Desire It series over WENR at 11 p. m.]

The progress that has been made in re-recording music in recent years has been phenomenal. Issuance of a patent the other day to Wesley Wilson, Chicago inventor-manufacturer, on a new way to correct sound distortion in records, radio, and pictures, gives further hope to the dream that one day the voices of Caruso and other immortals may be restored with complete fidelity. The new Wilson method of controled reverse distortion, it is promised, can remake old imperfect recordings so that underemphasized tones may be increased, and vice versa, bringing life-like reality.

RCA-Victor, which airs the WENR recorded series, has gone a long way on this road. A few years ago it set about to modernize the Caruso records. One of the technical experts associated with the project, Fred Elsasser, now attached to the local RCA-Victor staf, yesterday told how it was done.

The old style Caruso recordings didn't have the overall range—the high tones and lows were missing. On them Caruso was accompanied by a small six piece orchestra performing in quarters with bad acoustical properties. In modernizing Caruso a new twenty-two piece orchestra, Rosario Bourdon conducting, was synchronized with the old to cover up the deficiencies in those portions of the records where the tenor sings. In the instrumental interludes the new orchestra was substituted altogether for the old.

The distortions and deficiencies in the recording of Caruso's voice were corrected through a device known as the compensator. Any register—middle, high, or low—may be given a good lift through the compensator. If a passage sounds pinched it can be filled out; if too big, it can be thinned out. The results as evidenced in the dozen or more new Caruso records are astonishing. They almost make you believe that Caruso was as good as your friends, who heard him in his prime, say he was.

W-G-N, which has lacked A-1 comedians since the days of Correll and Gosden, East and Dumke, and Clara Lu 'n' Em, it seems to this department, has a promising new trio in Henry [Elmer Swendsen] Hoople, Jack [Gobbleanapple] Spencer and and Charlie [Scrambled talk] Wilson. They were in top form doing an adaptation of "Conquest" with Katherine Avery as Garbo on the "On a Sunday Afternoon" show, which under the guidance of Harold Stokes, Eddie Simmons, and Tom Foy, is really jelling.

What the show still needs is a little polishing on the musical backdrop. Orchestra and choral group don't always seem to be in complete accord. Sometimes the music has a slightly buzzy or blurred effect. A little more precision, a little more incisiveness, a little more rehearsal is what seems to be needed.

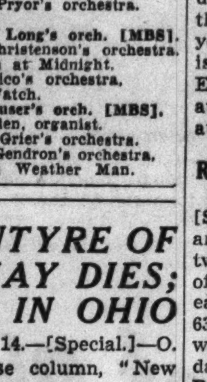
New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—O. O. McIntyre, whose column, "New York Day by Day," was syndicated to 508 newspapers in the United States and in Canada and Mexico, died of heart disease today in his Park avenue apartment. He would have been 54 years old next Friday, his thirtieth wedding anniversary.



O. O. McIntyre.

He became ill last Friday, but, because he did not believe in doctors, no doctor was called. When he died only his wife, the former Maybelle Hope Small, was with him. Mr. McIntyre wrote his last column in bed on Saturday after having breakfast on a tray.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon in Gallipolis, O., the little town on the Ohio River where he grew up and to which he referred sentimentally in many a column, although he had not visited it for years. He will be buried in Mound Hill cemetery.

Gallery Tea to Open Show by Mrs. Hutchins

BY JUDITH CASS.

CARDS will be out in about a week for what is certain to be a successful tea party. It will be given on March 4 in the Quest galleries in Tower court to open an exhibition of new pen and ink drawings and sculpture by Maude Phelps Hutchins, the talented wife of President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago.

Every one who is invited to a tea at Dell Quest's always goes if he [yes, there usually are as many men as women at Mr. Quest's parties] can, for they always open interesting exhibits. The new one will be of especial interest to all who know the artist and to those who don't, too.

Included in the sculpture will be three new heads, one of Eugenie Leontovich that Mrs. Hutchins is working on now; one of Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, whose white curls and pretty blue eyes make her a charming subject for portraits, and one of Mrs. Inez Stark, who has been asked to sit for so many artists that she would be as busy as a successful professional model if she agreed to pose for all of them.

The drawings are of a variety of subjects—the artist's family [Mr. Hutchins, 11 year old Franja, and 2½ year old Joanna Blessing], buildings in California, Adam and Eve in color, and ships.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's the "drying out" process that ages every skin, so the secret of skin beauty is lubrication. Every preparation used on the dry skin should be chosen for its lubricating value as well as its efficiency. Even the cleansing cream should be more than a cleanser, it should enrich and preserve as it cleanses.

Heaven knows, we see lots of cosmetic preparations. Creams and perfumes and lotions and gadgets by the hundreds pass into and out of our hands in the course of the years; we've seen lots of successes and a flock of flops—and the more we see of the whole show the more we appreciate sanity and honesty in beauty and in beauty preparations.

We love to see a fine—really fine—preparation stand up wonderfully under the peculiar tests of time and women's whims. There is, for example, one cream that has survived for a couple of decades—a cream as good as gold, so much of a standby we take it for granted and don't sing its praises. It's just one of those things you expect people to know about.

We thought of it rather a lot last week, when we happened to spy it in its new coat—one of the handsomest cream containers we've ever seen. By handsome we don't mean expensively elaborate. It's like the cream, and typical of the taste and honesty of the woman who makes it—simple but perfect. The jar is pink plascon, the palest, pearliest pink imaginable, and, of course, it's light as half a feather.

The cream is labeled a cleanser, but it's really more than that. It does its cleansing job superlatively well, but it also preserves and enriches the skin's own natural oil. It's not liquefying; it's rich, but not too heavy, and it's one of the best of friends for the woman with dry skin. Your skin feels lubricated after you use it, faintly moist and very soft and somehow rather well fed! It's been around for years, this cream, but it doesn't deserve to be ignored just because its name is familiar. Try it, by all means, if a truly good cleansing cream is what you've been looking for.

Fabric Gloves Add Sparkle to Spring Outfits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New fabric gloves are brief and jaunty, ending at the wrist, boasting clever details and colored stitching.

Snowy white numbers for navy or black street outfits are as crisp as white cuffs and collars or any of the other sharp white accents that make these first suits and spring ensembles so fresh. In a new collection of such gloves you'll also find some honey beige beauties and some swanky deep navy blues. What's especially new about them is the embroidered dots that resemble old fashioned French knots.

The dots are all over the backs and fingers, in contrast color, brown on the beige and white on the blue, redeeming the otherwise practical or puritanical aspect of the gloves. Fabrics are smooth and suedelike, good thick stuff that washes beautifully and wears virtually forever.

In the same shop are the newest thin lisle hosiery in two flattering shades, both for street or tweed wear. There are two patterns, a lacey mesh and a drop stitch rib. They are smart sportswear hosiery, gone almost dress parade, they're so thin or sheer.

The colors are exceptionally good, a soft caramel beige and a much warmer tone to go with copper colored clothes. Whether you wear strictly walking footgear or the new kidskin street pumps with perforation, these are the best of the lisle finds in weeks.

If you want other smart shades, a lovely blue or green they can be ordered and are well worth the money and the waiting. They are good shades to blend with smart town or country tweeds in green or blue or the lighter tones of beige. Don't sniff at lisle hosiery as being too thick and unflattering till you see these supersmoothies, just unpacked.

Good Morning!

Like a cool and quiet hand on the throbbing brow of photoplaydom comes the gently depicted American folk film "Of Human Hearts."

A novel, "Benefits Forgot," by Honore Morrow, bought by Director Clarence Brown in 1920 is the original of the screen play.

Most of the action occurs in a small Ohio town in the middle '80s, though several telling episodes take place in Baltimore, in Washington and on the civil war battlefront. . . . The principal characters are a minister, the Rev. Wilkins; his wife, Mary, and their son, Jason.

A man who sees his duty and does it is the preacher. That duty might be preaching a sermon, throwing noisy disturbers out of meeting house, instructing sly parishioners who would sell him a spavined horse as to the Bible meaning of the word "I was a stranger and ye took me in," swallowing a frog that an old woman's pride in her mush might not be laid low, or giving Wilkins Jr. a licking. Whatever the job, the Rev. Wilkins sees it through inflexibly. . . .

He disciplines the boy once too often. . . . Young Jason leaves home; works his way through medical school—with help from the folks—and his mother alone after his father dies. . . . Mrs. Wilkins parts with her treasures one by one that Jason may have money for his needs—her beloved mahogany hatbox, her silver teapot and finally the family horse, Pilgrim. . . .

Jason graduates and goes to war as a surgeon—too occupied with his own affairs to even write to his mother . . . UNTIL—

Abraham Lincoln, never too busy to give his attention to humble personal appeals, receives a letter from Mrs. Wilkins asking if the President can tell her where her son's grave is. . . . A brilliant young surgeon is summoned to the White House and given first praise, then hell. . . . This episode is claimed to have been based on actual occurrence. . . .

There is a fine savor of intelligence about the production. . . . The cast is splendidly adapted to scenario requirements. Jason as a boy, for instance, is portrayed by a youngster who looks just as James Stewart [Jason grown] could have looked. [Reared in Chicago, this smart little fellow, Gene Reynolds, so I'm told.]

Walter Huston knew exactly what to do as the Rev. Mr. Wilkins, and gosh did it seem good to see him again! Beulah Bondi is perfect as Mary. Charles Coburn plays arrestingly the town's clever, kindly, drunken doctor. . . . John Carradine as Lincoln gives you one of those deep down lump-in-the-throat thrills. . . . James Stewart is okey as Jason, though somehow he just doesn't seem to quite fit the boots of the smart young surgeon. That Newfoundland puppyishness sort of spoils the illusion.

But, heavens! For me to quibble over a little thing like that! Forget it!

Go and see "Of Human Hearts" and enjoy it as I did. For it's the sort of picture whose appeal will never stale so long as human hearts beat in human bodies.

See you soon.

Fill Arts Club for Reception to Musicians

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The slim, pretty prima donnas of the Salzburg Opera Guild and Serge Prokofieff, the brilliant Russian pianist who is to give a concert in Mandal hall at the University of Chicago tonight, were the attractions that drew an enormous crowd to the Arts club yesterday at tea time.

The crowd in the large dining room, where tea was served and where the guests of honor were, grew so large that trying to carry a cup of tea or coffee to a table became a perilous undertaking, as Mrs. John Storrs discovered. Some one jarred her elbow and upset a cup of coffee that she was carrying. The coffee spilled all down the front of her stunning black gown, spoiled the afternoon as well as the gown, no doubt, for her.

"They don't look like opera singers," said some one as she glanced at the vivacious, pretty young women who are members of the Opera Guild. Nor did they look like old-time opera singers who were "fair, fat, and forty," but that type went out of style several years ago and our own American opera stars today are lovely and slim, just as the Salzburg ones are.

Marisa Merlo, who had planned to become a nun but whose great love for music and the theater caused her to change her ambition and to become an opera singer, was there, and so was Ester Von Ilosvay, who sings the part of the maid in "Matrimonial Market" and the second neighbor in "Angelique."

Several others of the Guild were there, too, but not all of them, for rehersals kept some from attending the party. Prokofieff's wife was not there, either, for at the last moment she was detained in New York and was unable to come to hear him play tonight under the auspices of the Renaissance society. Many of those who were at the reception at the Arts club went last night to the Auditorium theater to a benefit performance of the Guild for the Eli Bates Settlement house, and tonight numbers of the same people will go south to Mandel hall to hear Prokofieff in a program of his own compositions.

A few of those at the reception were Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bernays and their eldest son, Bob, who was celebrating his birthday yesterday; Mrs. Louis Boysen, Mrs. A. F. Callahan, Miss Joanna Fortune, the Herbert Hydes, the Chauncey McCormicks, Mrs. George A. Poole, Mrs. Cecil Barnes, and the Gabriel Slaughters.

Guild Pleases with Rossini; Choir Recital

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Two events of the first importance competed with each other last evening for the attention of the music-minded section of the city's population. It turned out that here were enough patrons to go around, so both the Salzburg Opera guild at the Auditorium and the St. Olaf Lutheran choir at Orchestra hall drew large audiences.

"The Matrimonial Market," the guild's offering on the second evening of its one week engagement, is a comic one acter composed by Gioacchino Rossini ["The Barber of Seville," "William Tell] at the age of 18 and produced in Venice in 1810. Last night's performance, the first in Chicago, proved that the little opera is remarkable for many things, not the least of which is the fact that one of its principal characters, who is supposed to be an American, sports the name of Slook. An eastern wit surmised that his first name must be Giocomo.

The bubbling tunes and fast moving comedy of "The Matrimonial Market" are held together by a charming story about a designing father who thought he could best solve the problem of his debts by marrying his daughter to his creditor. But the creditor will have none of it when he discovers that the daughter loves an impecunious fellow of the town. Instead, he makes over the promissory note to the impecunious one, an argument which finally moves the crafty father to consent to bless his daughter's cashless marriage.

After only two evenings' experience one can still be amazed at the smoothness of the Salzburg guild's performances. Music and stage routines move confidently along from curtain to curtain.

"The Matrimonial Market" boasts an antique charm which is heightened by retaining the old practice of accompanying recitatives with piano only. Changes in scenery are handled in an engagingly naïve manner, with alterations made right before the spectators' eyes. The comedy is sometimes of the most delicate and skilful sort.

The singers have the feel of the Auditorium now and realize that they do not have to shout. More important than any of the stage forces in the general character of the performance is Alberto Erede, the guild's conductor.

F. Melius Christiansen, the venerable director of the St. Olaf choir,

GUNHAMMERED GOLD

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1938: By Frederick Dilley Glidden.]

SYNOPSIS.

Abe McCandless, who framed Poco St. Vrain and made him an outlaw, owns a gold mine on a mountain peak. Two insurance agents, sent to meet at the mine and bring down the gold, are murdered by two different bands of outlaws. Two-Way Hornbeck, leader of one band, persuades Poco to pose as one of the agents and get the gold. At the mountain camp Poco finds Espey Cardowan, killer gunman, posing as the other agent. They dare not give each other away to Shayne, the mine manager, and his lovely daughter, Kate. Cardowan crowds Poco off the cliff and takes the gold. He joins forces with Two-Way. Posing as prospectors they are given an army escort to Rincon. Meanwhile Kate helps rescue Poco. He confesses his identity and promises to recover the gold to save her father from blame. In Rincon Poco is arrested by Sherif Hogan on McCandless' order. Poco saves the life of a stranger, Van, whom Hogan tries to hire to kill Poco. Van helps Poco capture Two-Way and Cardowan and put them in jail. Poco brings McCandless to the jail. By tricking them and McCandless Poco gets them to tell him they put the gold on a stagecoach. Poco rides off after the coach.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

A JAIL BREAK.

Van opened the door and went in, picking up the lantern just inside the door.

Two-Way smiled disarmingly. "You aim to keep us in here long?"

"I'm leaving."

"Let us out."

Van shook his head. "St. Vrain said you'd keep till morning. I reckon you will."

Two-Way regarded Van with meditative eyes. Then he said, "You're waiting here in Rincon for somebody, aren't you?"

Van said, "I told you I was."

"You want me to tell you who they are?" Two-Way drawled.

"You can always try. But don't take all night."

"Herb Skelton and Jake Finger. Right?"

Van set the lantern on the floor and stared.

Two-Way said, "They were guarding a shipment of gold down from McCandless' mine, weren't they?"

Van nodded mutely, looking from one to the other.

Two-Way drawled, "Well, it's gone, pardner. There's no gold and there's no Herb Skelton and no Jake Finger."

"I don't believe it," Van said slowly.

Two-Way turned to Cardowan. "Hand it over, Tehanner."

Cardowan handed over the credentials of the dead agent, and Two-Way watched Van read them. "That," Two-Way announced, "was found in Poco St. Vrain's war bag down at the feed stable when we drifted in this afternoon." His voice lost its drawl suddenly and he said sharply, "Do you want that gold, fella?"

"I'm s'posed to see it gets to Phoenix. I want it bad enough to hold a job and feed a family is all," Van said slowly.

"I can take you to it," Two-Way said flatly.

"What do you get out of this?" Van asked slowly.

Two-Way smiled narrowly. "Just the chance to see Poco St. Vrain cut to doll-rags, is all. That's all I want."

Van said, "Yeah?" cynically and started for the door again.

"You wake the town, fella, and tell them and you'll play merry hell getting that dust to Phoenix. If you took a posse out, they'd kill you for it as soon as they knew it. Besides, you don't know where it is. Better talk sense."

Van paused, his back to them, then turned around slowly. He recalled the reason Poco gave for wanting to kill these two men, and suddenly he understood how he had been taken in, how Poco had lied to win him over to his side, how what he really wanted was to get these two men out of the way so that he could take the gold. He was riding for it now. Van looked at the pair of them, and he knew they were scum, hardcases, but he was also a man who believed in himself. He could prod them at the point of a gun as far as across the street to McCandless, who would get men. The time for secrecy was past.

He said, "Wait a minute," and started for the office to get the key.

When he was gone, Two-Way said gloomily, "This is a long shot."

Cardowan said nothing, only reached out for the lantern standing in the corridor, and dragged it to him. Unscrewing the cap of the fuel tank, he raised it to his lips and poured a slug of kerosene into his mouth. Two-Way, watching him, said, "Play it crazy."

When Van came back with the key in one hand, a drawn Colt in the other, Cardowan sat hunched over on the cot, holding his hand. When the door swung open, Two-Way had to shake Cardowan by the shoulder to get his attention.

Van said, "What's the matter with him?"

Two-Way said with feigned bitterness, "Some more of Poco St. Vrain's work. Torture."

Van said curiously, "Let's see."

Cardowan rose and stumbled out through the cell door. Then he raised his hand, raw and bleeding where Two-Way had bitten him, and held it up for Van to look at.

Van let his gaze fall to the hand, and in that moment Cardowan squirted the kerosene from his mouth square in Van's eyes, dodging aside as he did so. The blast of the gun was immediate, but Van had closed his eyes against the raw smart of the kerosene and in that second Cardowan batted both his arms down to his side. It was Two-Way's rocketing swing that caught Van on the jut of his chin, and he melted to the floor.

They made quick work of trussing Van, and gagging him before they dumped him in the cell they had just vacated.

Out in the office, Two-Way said, "I'm through being a sucker, Tehanner. I'd rather have a quarter of that gold than none of it, sabe?"

"So would I."

"Good. Then I'm going over to McCandless and spill the story—for one quarter of that dust."

"He'll kill you," Cardowan drawled.

"Not when he hears this yarn. I'll make him think I've been waiting years to do him the favor. Does he know you?"

"He knows my name. Everybody does, but not my face," Cardowan answered arrogantly.

"Then I'll tell him it was you and Poco that took it. You keep your mouth shut, Tehanner, and we'll pull through this with a poke full of dust."

They went out, after extinguishing the light. Crossing to the hotel, Two-Way in the lead, they entered the dim-lit lobby. The clerk behind the desk was the same one who had sold them the stage tickets—but he was asleep in his swivel chair, feet on the counter.

Two-Way tip-toed over to the register, saw the number of McCandless' room and headed for the stair, Cardowan behind him.

Half way up, a figure appeared at the head of the stairs, a woman, and started to descend. As soon as she was out of sight, Cardowan grabbed Two-Way's elbow with a grip of iron.

"That's Shayne's daughter!" Cardowan said huskily. "The mine manager. She knows my face. Hell, we can't do it!"

For a long moment, they stared at each other, Two-Way swearing bitterly under his breath. Then he said hoarsely, "She's got to be kept out of the way until I get McCandless out of town!"

"What if she's told McCandless already?"

"Would he be asleep here if she had? Now go on. I'll go up to his room and spill it. You see she's out of the way."

Cardowan descended the stairs softly, while Two-Way hurried on up. Kate was talking to the clerk, and her voice was pleading.

"But don't you see I have to see him! It's terribly important!"

"Miss, I tell you again he was shot today. He's lost blood, and he's weak. Ain't his life more important than your news?"

The Housewife

The gadget we're talking about today isn't new, but it's one of the most useful any cook could have. It's the comb-like, metal utensil that is known as a "cake-breaker." And if you've ever struggled to slice a fluffy, delicious cake and watched it almost ruined under a knife, you know how valuable this gadget is, for it enables you to serve each piece neatly and free from crumbs, leaving the most delicate frosting or filling intact.

Fresh or warm cake that you'd hesitate to tackle with a knife presents no difficulties to the clever cake-breaker. It cuts thin as well as generous slices without any trouble, too. And it's inexpensive!

Wise Parents Consider Child as Individual

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The grocery store has been standing there for forty years, they tell me. It's a good grocery store. There isn't a thing you can ask for that they don't carry, or won't get for you.

The father, foreign born, has grown old in the store. The many children, spanning many years, have come into the store as they were old enough; the grownup ones working full time, the younger ones helping after school. They all in turn took it as a matter of course.

"What are you going to do when you grow up, Gino?" you'll ask, or "Rosa?"

"O, I'm going to help Papa in the store." They all took it as a matter of course except one.

And he caused them a lot of anxiety. "What are you going to do when you're through high school, Tony?"

"I want to get an outside job. I'm not going in the store," he would answer with a little rebellious look in that lower lip, as if he'd already met with opposition. And he had. They worried and talked and puzzled over his differentness. He wanted to start in as office boy in a law firm.

To make the story of four or five years as short as possible, he resisted and started his office job. But when they found they would have to engage a clerk for the store outside the family they wore him down. Now he's faithful in the family store, with a quiet, resigned look on his face.

All this apropos the subject of yesterday of understanding your child as an individual all through his life, but particularly when it comes to helping him choose his life work. Perhaps you've all been lawyers in your family and your son wants to be an automobile mechanic. He's happy only when working on a car. Don't let foolish ideas about the dignity of a white collar job blur your vision and push your round peg of a son into a square hole.

And, in reverse, if your family has always worked at a trade or done other manual jobs, or been contractors or farmers, don't resist a son's desire for a different sort of work whether it be art, or teaching, or medicine, or one of the other professions.

To be sure, a thing like this needs careful consideration. But start by being open minded and taking into consideration your child as an individual—his bent, his tastes, his talent. And remember that a man doesn't need to be rich to be truly successful.

"Understanding the Adolescent" is a booklet helpful to parents and teachers. It will be sent out on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Sauces, dressings, and relishes aren't used with any thought of individual flavor or food value in mind. Rather they are used to develop or enhance flavor in the food with which they are served. A cupboard shelf supplied with bottles and jars of the preparations listed here is a guarantee against uninteresting dinner table preparations.

Always select a brand distributed by a reliable company if you would be sure of the best in bottled sauces and relishes. Keep them in a cool, dry place away from the light, and keep them covered.

COMMERCIALLY PREPARED SAUCES, SALAD DRESSINGS, AND RELISHES.

CATSUP OR KETCHUP: Tomato catsup is the most popular condiment used in this country. It is made from ripe tomatoes, spices, sugar, and vinegar. The best brands contain no added color. Catsup is used as a meat sauce and as an ingredient in fish and vegetable sauces. Mushroom catsup and walnut catsup are made similarly and used in many of the same ways.

CHILI SAUCE: As a table relish and as a seasoning for salad dressings and sauces chili is most popular. Chopped tomatoes, chopped peppers, salt, sugar, spices, and vinegar are the chief ingredients. Onion or garlic may be added.

CHUTNEY: This is a hot pickle originally made in India and may be of the sweet or sour type. Tomato chutney, apple chutney, cucumber chutney, and similar preparations are made with spices, chilis, and an acid such as lemon juice or tamarind pulp. Chutneys are served with stews and curried dishes.

FRENCH DRESSINGS vary a good deal in composition, but all of them have a base of oil, lemon juice, or vinegar, and various spices. Paprika usually is added to give color, and onion juice may or may not be present. Genuine French dressings are thin, will separate, and must be shaken vigorously to recombine the ingredients before use.

HORSERADISH: Only grated horseradish root and vinegar are used in bottled horseradish. It loses strength rapidly, so should be kept tightly covered and purchased in small quantities. Horseradish is used alone with meats, or is combined with salad dressing, cream sauce, or whipped cream.

MAYONNAISE: Mayonnaise is an emulsion of edible vegetable oil, egg, vinegar or lemon juice, and seasonings. It contains at least 50 per cent oil. Commercially made mayonnaise and mayonnaise type dressings are becoming increasingly popular, as they are relatively inexpensive and many brands are better products than possibly could be prepared at home.

MUSTARD: Prepared mustards are composed of ground mustard seed or mustard flour, salt, vinegar, and sugar, with or without other seasonings. Turmeric often is added to give a yellow color. Mustard is used as a meat sauce and as an ingredient in meat, fish, and vegetable sauces.

SALAD DRESSINGS: Dressings not of the French or mayonnaise type usually are classed as cooked salad dressings. They are smooth, thick preparations, less oily than mayonnaise. Like other dressings, they are perishable and should be kept in a cool, dry place.

SOY SAUCE is a brown sauce made from soy beans and roasted wheat. It is used chiefly with the popular Chinese dishes, chop suey and chow mein.

TABASCO SAUCE is a very hot, red colored seasoning made from ripe hot peppers and vinegar. It is used in minute quantities to flavor meat and fish sauces, soups, salad dressings.

WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE: This is a pungent, dark, thin sauce varying in composition with manufacturers. Soy sauce, vinegar, tamarind pulp, onion juice, lime juice, garlic, chili peppers, and spices are usual ingredients. [Tamarind pulp is obtained from the fruit of a tropical tree and contains several acids and salts useful as flavoring.] Worcestershire sauce is used with meats, gravies, and soups.

Maybe "my salad days" does refer to one's green and untried youth, but every day is salad day for the modern housewife and hostess. Many new salad recipes will be found in the booklet, "Adventures in Salads," on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune Tower and 1 South Dearborn street, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade.

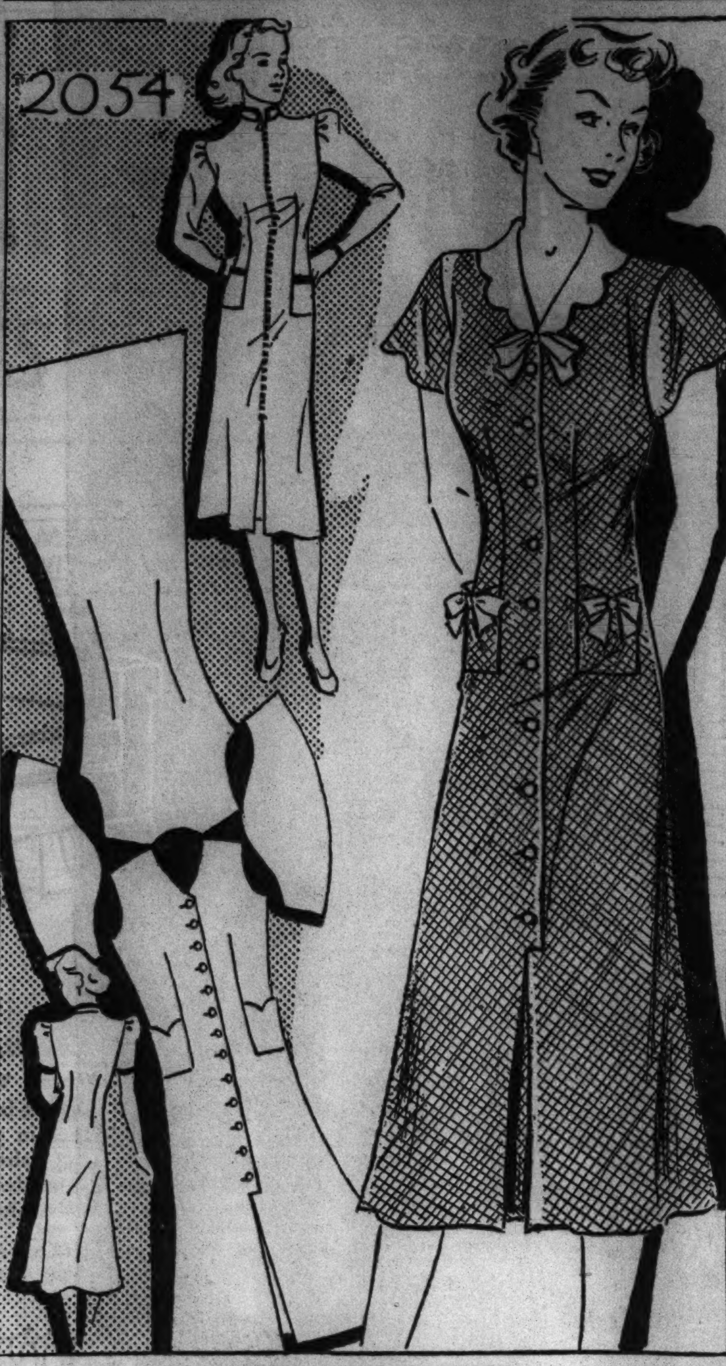
A Versatile Spring Pattern



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Versatility is the watchword of this simple pattern. It may serve to create a frock for the home, a simple dress for all your daytime occasions, or a summer model for sports. Check over your clothes collection carefully and we are sure you will find that this pattern is indispensable.

It closes down the front, with either a slide fastener or buttons. The model is beltless, needing nothing to define the waistline, since the cut is so perfect. The neckline may be V and trimmed with a pretty scalloped collar, or it may be cut high, mandarin fashion. Pockets adorn the skirt, or may be omitted, depending upon your preference in the matter. The sleeves may be puffed square at the shoulders, be long or short, or they may be left full and plain.

Any type of crêpe will make up beautifully for spring street wear. For home use make the garment of any sturdy tubbable material, and for southern wear or your next summer's wardrobe linens and smart cottons will be perfect.

Style No. 2054 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Declares Shortage of Nurses Is Peril to America's Defense

A shortage of capable nurses threatens America's national defenses, Robert E. Neff, president of the American Hospital association and administrator of the State University of Iowa hospitals, told members of the Central Council for Nursing Education at their annual luncheon yesterday at the Palmer house.

"We shall have to make up now for the curtailment of nurses that was encouraged during the depression," Mr. Neff said. "We have too few good nurses for general purposes, and there is need of specialized nurses."

Nursing should be made more attractive to educated young women by improving working conditions, he suggested. "Twenty hour duty is considered primitage today, and 12 hour duty is fast becoming so," he declared.

Honor Judge Fisher Monday After 25 Years on Bench

Judge Harry M. Fisher, who has completed twenty-five years on the bench, will be honored Monday evening at a dinner in the Hotel Sherman given by the Decalogue Society of Illinois, an association of Jewish lawyers. Judge Fisher was elected to the Municipal court in 1912, reelected in 1918, and three years later elevated to the Circuit court, where he has served ever since.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Bachelor's Puzzle" is one of those thoroughly masculine quilt patterns which exemplify striking simplicity in line and color. Tan and brown, blue and white, brick and white, or a combination of print, solid color, and white are a few of the many color arrangements possible for a man's room. The finished pieced block measures twelve inches square, and these blocks are set together to form an all-over design. A three inch border and a half inch bias binding finish the coverlet, which measures 90 by 90 inches.

and Jean Schloesing are among those who are making plans to attend the luncheon.

M. David will lecture on "Casanova, Adventurer," Saturday morning in the library of the alliance. Mrs. Ralph James, chairman of the music committee of the alliance, will not be here for the weekly causerie Thursday afternoon because she is going to Florida. Instead of a musical program, Mrs. A. B. Miller will speak on "The Life of Foreigners in the Far East." Mrs. Edward A. Leight and Mrs. Ignatius Fitzpatrick will pour.

M. David will speak at a meeting of Le Cercle Francais at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. David and Mrs. Sperling will pour. Mrs. Dwight L. Smith will give the members' half of the program.

Cliff Dwellers Will Hold Beer Party.

When the Cliff Dwellers, the dignified gentlemen who make up the membership of the club in Orchestra Hall building, decide to play, they do it in a delightfully light and carefree manner. Their next party will be on Saturday evening, Feb. 26, at 9 o'clock, when "A Grand 'Gay XC's' Ball" will be given. "The night will resound with catchy music, rendered by Freddie Stock's Silver Cornet band, playing latest Sousa marches, waltzes, and two-steps," the invitations announce.

The announcements go on to promise, "A high class bar—suds on the house and free lunch with each stein from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. At 10 p. m. a mammoth torchlight procession of the C. D. Marching club in full regalia. . . . Carter Harrison again leads the grand march." The members and guests are asked to come in "Gay '90s" costumes.

The Chicago Drama league will meet next Sunday for 7 o'clock supper at the Casino. At 8 o'clock John Mason Brown, dramatic critic of New York, will speak on "Broadway in Review."

The Italy America society will meet in gallery 52 of the Art institute next Monday at 3 o'clock. Dr. Ulrich A. Middledorf, professor of art at the University of Chicago, will discuss the drawing and prints, and Mrs. Warner Williams the paintings of the two Tiepolos, Gianbatista and Giandomenico, in the current loan exhibition.

The special tennis members of the Skokie Country club, as well as other members, have been invited to supper next Monday night to see motion pictures taken at Forest Hills last fall.

Eighty minutes of skiing pictures, taken in the Austrian Tyrol, will be shown at 8 o'clock tomorrow night at the Winnetka Community house.

does not annoy his singers by making them try to imitate orchestral instruments nor by striving to turn the performance of a piece of music into a succession of more or less startling tone colorings. Instead, the voices sound like voices and the music moves unaffectedly along.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

In warfare, and in bridge, few errors can be more costly than that of under rating the enemy. Self-confidence is, of course, an admirable and valuable trait, but we never must carry this to the excess of feeling that we have a corner on brains, and that an opponent is just a clay pigeon. The declarer, in the following hand, learned a lesson he will not soon forget.

North, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 no trump	Double
2 clubs	2 spades	3 no trump	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's first bid, obviously enough, was rather "fancy," but for all of that, I do not criticize it. With a powerful club suit and two outside aces, the unorthodox no trump bid might have worked out well if it had found a scattered distribution of strength throughout the other three hands. It was not South's opening bid that was catastrophic, it was his final pass. Even after West's vulnerable take-out double, North's weakness bid over the double, and East's free spade bid, South thought he would have an excellent chance to run six club tricks and at least his two aces. This was a reasonable hypothesis and, since diamonds had not been bid adversely, I think South's three no trump was a good bid. When West doubled, however, the picture underwent an abrupt and complete change. South apparently did not think so, because he stuck to his guns, still feeling that he would be able to run his six club tricks. Actually, this hope was an insult to West for which South later paid dearly. West was no dub, and South should have known it. He would not have doubled without a stopper in the suit upon which South obviously was counting for the bulk of his tricks. Thus, while South a moment later cursed his luck in finding the only two missing clubs in West's hand, loudly pointing out that a one-and-one break would have given him nine cold tricks, he really had little ground for complaint. He had deliberately gambled against logic and, not unnaturally, lost. The carnage was frightful.

West opened the heart king. Declarer won and banged the club ace. When the king failed to drop he should have taken his two spade tricks, but since this would mean a five trick penalty, he decided to clear the club suit and hope that the opponents would not get around to diamonds. West won with the club king and rattled off six heart tricks, East discarding all of his spades, thus loudly calling for a diamond shift. West, after he was through with hearts, laid down the diamond ace and a small diamond and declarer found himself down seven, for a 1,300 penalty. He had played for "top," but came out with a nice fat zero on the board.

Four clubs would have gone down only two tricks, and even five would have been an excellent non-vulnerable sacrifice against the opponents' cold vulnerable game.

Boy's Mother Kind Who Tries to Pick Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The girl has been going around with the sick woman's son long enough to assume that the companionship is due for a matrimonial run. So the girl believes, and not without support from the gentleman. But mother has been no sweet, sympathetic influence. She hasn't missed an opportunity, to date, to get in her barbed shots. She has gone out of her way to convince the son that he could do better, producing on occasions in her home, and in the family car on Sunday outings, one or another girl with, to mother, more social prestige and money.

The son reports back to his girl that it makes him laugh to watch his mother's maneuvers, as he is convinced that if he married a gold mine she still would find the girl inadequate as a marriage partner for her son. She's that kind of mamma.

All else failing, the young woman who hopes to be the son's bride reports that mamma has gone on "-sick-down strike." A nervous breakdown it is called, one that called for sanitarium care, where mamma is at present. Son suggested to his sweetheart that it might not be a bad idea for her to send his mother some flowers now that she is sick. He even offered to pay for them. And he reported what his mother's favorite flowers were. Under the forbidding circumstances the girl thinks the flowers from her would merely be the proverbial salt in the wound; that the mother would hate them and probably throw them out the window.

She is willing to pay for a big floral offering out of her own money if she thought it would do any good or, rather, if she thought it wouldn't do her any more harm.

The trouble with the resolve to keep one's person far removed from the disagreeable in-law is that it can't be managed. A man cannot cut off all relationship with his own mother any more than the girl could hers, so that any effort to change the older woman's attitude should be considered a fair gamble. Some one has to concede the gesture of friendliness. If the flowers fail you will only be money out, and you have pleased the son by sending them, which is the important thing, anyway.

THE STAGE

The Mercury theater, New York, production of Shakespeare's "Julius Cæsar," in modern dress without stage settings, will come to Chicago on March 7 for an engagement at the Erlanger theater. It will be a part of the Theater Guild's subscription program. This is a touring company, with Tom Powers in the rôle of Brutus instead of Orson Welles.

Ethel Barrymore, who has changed her mind about retiring, will be the star of a new play called "Whiteoaks," which is scheduled for its first acting in Montreal on Feb. 22. . . . John Barrymore and his wife, Elaine Barrie, have signed a contract to appear in a play called "My Dear Children" in New York next season. He has not acted on Broadway since his 101 performances in "Hamlet," in the season of 1922-1923.

Gymnasium Is Place to Find Beauty, Health

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

How much water has passed under the bridge since the days of the pineapple and lamb chop diet, and other questionable reducing ideas!

I heard the other day of a huge gymnasium in New York, and was amazed at the number of women there, the roster of prominent persons of stage, screen, radio, society and the business world, who are pursuing the program of keeping fit in the approved 1938 manner.

These women, whose jobs depend not only on healthfully streamlined bodies but on general efficiency and mental alertness, are no spasmodic pursuers of health. A system is established in their lives whereby this vital feature of personal care is incorporated as soundly, as regularly and as conscientiously as is the systematic attack on any other feature of their day's work.

The place is presided over by Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, former lightweight champion of the world, who passed his sixtieth birthday recently. He practices what he preaches and he substantiates our own observation that many business men and women are not interested in getting fatter or thinner, but want to stay young and healthy and do their work capably. That's why they tie up with good gymnasiums.

"All of the diets, 18 day, salts, sweet, bread, lemon juice, etc., are all right for those who have no concern about dietary effects," says O'Brien. "But I know from long years of experience that the only way to reduce and keep in condition and in perfect health is via the physical culture route. People are lazy, inclined to take things as they come. The easiest way is their way. In conditioning this is not so. You can look around in any line of business and find the successful man is the healthy man, and there is only one way to be healthy and that is through proper exercise. And the only way to lose weight is to sweat it off after working up the sweat with exercise, properly gym clothed for sweat production.

"After the exercise comes bath and shower, and if you want to feel so vigorous you can clean up a day's work in half the time, that's your system."

81 BOUTS OPEN SOUTH SIDE GOLDEN GLOVES TONIGHT

SIX NIGHTS OF BOXING CARDED IN WHITE CITY

Candidates Battle in Two Rings.

BY FRENCH LANE.

That part of Golden Gloves territory which produces more fighters annually per square mile than any other—Chicago's south side—opens its preliminary battles tonight in the White City arena.

So many south side boys are out to win their way into the Tournament of Champions in Chicago Stadium on Feb. 28, March 1 and 2, six nights of fighting at White City will be required—three this week and three next—before the team can be picked.

One fellow who is sure to have a following, regardless of whether or not he can win, is Orlando Trotter, managed by Booker Trotter, brother-in-law of the world's heavyweight champion, Joe Louis. This lad will seek honors in the light heavyweight division.

He Spars with Joe.

Now and then when he's in town Champion Joe boxes with Orlando, but so far Joe hasn't made any predictions as to his future in the prize ring. The kid must be pretty good, however, because he won the championship in the recent Illinois Athletic club tournament and during two and one-half years of boxing has won thirty-two bouts while losing only one. A lot of his victories have been by knockouts.

The fighting on the south side will begin at 7 o'clock in two rings and the program makers have arranged eighty-one bouts. The south side sectional meet will continue in White City tomorrow and Thursday nights. The survivors will return to the same arena for three more nights of fighting, including the championship round, next week.

The presence in the south side sectional tournament of several hundred boxers who will fight unattached indicates that the C. Y. O. and the Savoy Athletic club, each represented by numerous colorbearers, will not have a runaway of it by any means.

A Big Week Lies Ahead.

Opening of the south side tournament will be a forerunner of one of the biggest weeks of the year in Chicago amateur boxing circles. Tomorrow night the northwest side sectional tournament opens in Marigold Garden. It will continue for three nights with the champions coming out of the wild skirmish on Friday night.

The Chicago west side sectional tournament also will be resumed on Thursday night in the Park Casino on Madison street. Semi-final battles are down for a decision there on Thursday with the team that will represent the northwest side in the Tournament of Champions to be selected on Friday night.

North Side Starts Next Week.

Only the Golden Glovers who reside on the north side and in the north suburbs will remain inactive this week. The north side sectional meet, which is to be held in the Loyola university gymnasium, will not open until a week from tonight.

Opening of the over the counter sale of reserved seats for both the Tournament of Champions and for the Golden Gloves finals on March 11 yesterday brought a rush for seats. Sales were much heavier than in any previous year.

YANKEE HOLDOUT LIST LOSES TWO—DICKEY AND HOAG

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Yankees' holdout problem was eased today with receipt of the signed contracts of Catcher Bill Dickey, Outfielder Myril Hoag and Atley Donald, a young pitcher.

"They all get on the line sooner or later," said Manager Joe McCarthy, who was visiting headquarters. "The club has always been more than fair with its players."

Both Dickey and Hoag fired their original contracts back and were believed to have received slight boosts. Donald, who won 19 and lost 2 with Newark last season, didn't argue.

Dickey's signature assures the champions a fine catching staf. Now all they need is to come to terms with their two best pitchers, Vernon Gomez and Red Ruffing; three regular infielders, Lou Gehrig, Frank Crosetti and Red Rolfe, and two outfielders, Joe Di Maggio and Tommy Henrich.

McCarthy has a luncheon engagement tomorrow with Lou Gehrig and he may induce his star first baseman to sign at the salary offered him by Owner Ruppert, $36,000, plus a bonus of possibly $1,000.

"No one will be permitted to work out at St. Petersburg until he has signed," McCarthy said.

Crisler Visits Michigan; Staf Plans in Doubt

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Michigan's fifth football coach since 1901, Herbert O. [Fritz] Crisler, made his first appearance in that capacity today but would say nothing definite regarding assistants who will work with him during the next year.

Crisler met with athletic administrative officials and seventy-five members of the football squad.

Awaits Princeton Action.

Developments at Princeton largely will dictate Crisler's appointments. He intimated that his assistants would be chosen from coaches now at Princeton or at Michigan. His Princeton assistants included Tad Wieman, line coach and former Michigan head coach; Back Field Coach Earl Martineau, and End Coach Campbell Dickson.

Although Crisler said all three were prominently mentioned for the Princeton post vacated by him, his friends in Ann Arbor revealed his desire to have Wieman with him at Michigan.

Plans Spring Practice.

At a football squad meeting Crisler told candidates spring practice would begin March 28 or 29 with outdoor drills scheduled as soon as weather permits.

ROWE'S ARM O. K.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, Detroit Tiger pitcher, submitted to an examination today and was told that his injured arm was back in shape.

"I knew it was all right," Rowe said. "It hasn't bothered me since Christmas, and not much then. I'm going right on up to Lakeland and start working out."

Walter O. Briggs, owner of the Tigers, and Manager Mickey Cochrane watched as Dr. Cecil B. Ferguson put Rowe's arm through an intensive examination.

"It looks all right," said the osteopath some minutes later. "As far as I can see right now there shouldn't be any trouble."

Rowe's trouble started when a ligament in his right arm was sprained two seasons ago. He tried to carry on last season, but met with below average success.

Rowe came here from Lakeland, where the Tigers will report for spring training in three weeks. He will start back for the training grounds probably tomorrow, he said.

"I want to talk with the boss tonight," the tall pitcher said. "I'm confident and I'm going to back up

BADGERS DEFEAT MAROONS, 46-32; FOURTH TRIUMPH

Wisconsin squared its Big Ten conference basketball record at four victories and four defeats by marching through Chicago's Maroons, 46 to 32, in the Midway fieldhouse last night. The Badgers dominated the contest throughout, to the discomfiture of 1,500 Maroon fans who watched Chicago absorb its 33d straight Big Ten beating and its seventh this season.

Hod Powell, forward, and Manny Frey, guard, led the Badgers to victory with thirteen and eleven points, respectively. Wisconsin's defense kept all but one of the Maroons well outside the scoring zone. Morris Rossin, guard, had the biggest evening of his career, scoring six baskets while holding the high scoring Rooney to a pair of field goals.

Inaccurate shooting by both teams held the score to 8 to 3 for Wisconsin at the ten minute mark. With Powell contributing seven points, the Badgers led, 18 to 12, at half time. Lounsbury and Mullins kept Chicago in the running with five points each in the first period.

Wisconsin opened the second half on four close-in baskets in two minutes, Jones poking in two and Powell and Rooney one each. That gave the Badgers a 14 point lead, 26 to 12, which was the winning margin.

MARQUETTE LOSES, 35-33

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Capt. Joe Hagan's basket from center court with 30 seconds to play enabled Kentucky to defeat Marquette university, 35 to 33, before 4,500 tonight.

Marquette trailed early in the game, 13 to 3, but nine points in a row by Bob Deneen and a short shot by George Hesik gave it a 14 to 13 lead. The score was tied seven times thereafter, including an 18 to 18 deadlock at the half. Hagan's winning basket came after Marquette had been in front, 30 to 26, at one stage of the second half. Loyola Takes Closing Home Game, 42 to 35

Paced by Mike Novak with 14 points, Loyola university closed its home basketball season last night with a 42 to 35 victory over Illinois college in the Loyola gymnasium.

It was a listless game in which twenty-eight fouls were called. Wilbur Kautz of Loyola ran his season total to 209 points by scoring 11 points. Virgil Fletcher was high for the Jacksonville quintet with eight baskets and two free throws.

Loyola trailed for the first ten minutes, but Kautz got four field goals in 15 seconds to put Loyola ahead, 14 to 9. Meanwhile the Fletcher brothers of Illinois college were busy, Virgil accounting for four baskets while Cecil scored four times from the free throw line. Capt. Bob Brennan and Bill O'Brien got short baskets to give the Ramblers a 20 to 16 lead at the intermission. Lineups:

HAWKEYES DROP WOLVERINES TO FOURTH IN RACE

Notre Dame Routs Butler, 45-22.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Iowa dropped Michigan to fourth place in Big Ten basketball standings tonight, 38 to 30.

The Hawkeye defense, contributing to a rough and tumble game as it crowded Michigan's pivot play, had the Wolverine offense thoroughly checked beneath the backboard and Michigan could not connect on long shots.

Offensively, the Hawkeyes alternated a slow break with dashes by Ben Stephens and Joe Van Ysseldyk as Stephens paced his team and climbed in conference scoring with six field goals and three free throws. Van Ysseldyk got eight points, one more than Center Jack Drees, whose play under the backboard kept the Hawkeyes in the lead during the early part of the game.

Townsend Leads Wolverines.

Capt. John Townsend, his passing smothered by the Iowa defense, led Michigan with 15 points, but could only score four times from the field.

Iowa took the first safe margin of the game more than halfway through the first period, 14 to 9, and led at the half 16 to 11.

Michigan made its only serious bid in the second period. With the score 21 to 15, it scored seven points within two minutes to go ahead 22 to 21.

Iowa Pulls Away.

Iowa, however, came back immediately to add six points in the next two minutes and from that point was never threatened. Townsend made the score 27 to 34 with less than a minute and a half to play, but Van Ysseldyk and Stephens broke away to reëstablish the margin in the final minute.

It was Michigan's third defeat in seven games and Iowa's fourth victory in eight.

Billy Marquart Knocks Out Roger Bernard

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Canada, lightweight, knocked out the veteran Roger Bernard of Flint, Mich., in the second round of their windup bout in Marigold Gardens last night.

Of the four eight round bouts scheduled, Everett Simington and Lloyd Pine were the only boxers to go the full route, Simington winning the decision.

Larry Greb, scheduled to meet Tommy Howell, Danville lightweight, withdrew from the match early in the afternoon because of illness and Lorenzo Robinson was substituted. He was stopped by Howell in the second round. Domonic Mancini of Louisville stopped Wesley Martin in the third round of the other eight rounder.

The Simington-Pine bout was even going into the seventh round, but in that session Pine showed the effects of Simington's body punches. Simington weighed 137, Pine 132.

Batson Beats O'Brien.

It was obvious at the outset of the Marquart-Bernard bout that Bernard would not last long. The end came 34 seconds after the second round started. A left hook did the trick. Bernard at 136 was four pounds heavier than his foe.

Sonny Batson took a four round decision from Pat O'Brien in the opening bout. A near capacity crowd of 1,729 paid $1,775.33.

Nathan Mann, New Haven heavyweight who is to battle Joe Louis for the world title Feb. 23, enjoyed a day of rest today, out of a desire to avoid going stale in training.

Louis also took the day off. Both champion and challenger are to resume sparring tomorrow.

They say I'm Stiff-necked-because I won't use "new" methods of brewing
... But the Chicago public buys more of our Bottled Beer than any other
By RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster
Yes...we still BOTTLE ONLY WITH NATURAL DRAFT BEER CARBONATION
We could save money by adding Sugars or Syrups but that's not our way
I DON'T have any quarrel with modern methods—for others. But I do not think they have any place in the brewing of good beer. I still insist on the old, slow method—the way we made Meister Bräu in 1891. Even if it does cost more. And here's why.
Maybe you remember the old-time brew. And wonder why good beer is so hard to get nowadays. I think the short-cuts of near-beer days have a lot to do with it. We could save money by making the malt and hops by boiling them twice as long—that's a "new" method.
Another "new" way is to use sugars or syrups in the beer. This saves time and work. But we prefer the old way. Though greater skill is needed.
And we could save money by using a cheaper grade of hops. But that may make a raw beer.
Our old methods keep the life in the beer—keep its natural foam and sparkle. Like in draft beer. Hence Meister Bräu has the true draft beer flavor.
Please try this old-time beer made the slow, careful way that brings perfection. We promise you'll prefer it as others do. Ask for Meister Bräu in cans or bottles. That name assures you the true beer flavor.

HAWKS GET BACK IN RUNNING FOR PLAYOFF BERTH

Showing Against Leafs Revives Hopes.

The Chicago Blackhawks are back in the running for a place in the National Hocky league playoffs as a result of gaining three points out of a possible four in their two games on successive nights with the Toronto Maple Leafs, who are leading the Canadian section. It now looks as though the Blackhawks' game with the Detroit Red Wings next Sunday in the Stadium will determine which of the teams will enter the Stanley cup playoffs.

In the meantime the Hawks' chief worry is the last New York American invasion booked for the Stadium Thursday night. In four games played this season the Americans have yielded the Blackhawks only one goal.

Hawks Take Rest.

The fact that in the last two weeks the Blackhawks have traveled 4,900 miles, played eight games, used sleepers five nights, and played two games with 12 men, was the reason Manager Stewart ordered his charges to rest all day yesterday.

Sunday night was a night of stitches for both the Leafs and the Hawks. Both Cully Dahlstrom and Murph Chamberlin, the starters of the fight at the Stadium in Sunday's game required medical attention. Cully's wrist was lacerated by a stick and took a single stitch, but Chamberlin, his adversary, got the worst of the fisticuffs and had three stitches taken over the left eye. Doc Romnes' chin needed three stitches after a collision with Syl Apps. Johnny Gottselig and Jimmy Fowler each required two stitches.

March to Be Ready.

The two ailing players that Manager Stewart needs badly are Mush March and Art Wiebe and he has the assurance of the club's physician that March and perhaps Wiebe will be ready for Thursday's clash with the Americans. If Wiebe has not entirely recovered by Thursday Manager Stewart can use Virgil Johnson.

The Blackhawks will practice in the Stadium today and tomorrow.

DRILLON KEEPS LEAD

Syl Apps, Drillon's teammate, and Cecil Dillon of the New York Rangers are tied for second place with thirty-four points apiece while two members of the Canadien team, Georges Mantha and Paul Haynes, are tied for fourth place with thirty points each.

Casters Oil Up Their Gear for Tribune Meet

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishermen and casters in Chicago now are preparing outfits for THE TRIBUNE'S casting tournament which will be held during the 1938 National Boat and Sports show, Feb. 27 through March 6, on the Navy Pier. For the fourth consecutive year THE TRIBUNE will sponsor contests involving the use of rod, line, and reel.

The tournament is classified into contests for the three Chicago casting clubs, for fishermen who have no club affiliations, women, and boys and girls under 16 years. There is no entry fee and contestants do not have to pay an admission fee to the show. They may enter the show without charge by showing their casting outfits at the door.

Tribune Awards Trophies.

THE TRIBUNE will award trophies to winners of each contest. The fisherman's event is open only to anglers using regular fishing equipment. Members of casting clubs are barred in this event. Contestants will shoot at the targets with reels such as they use for casting when after bass, pike, muskies, and other game fish. Tournament reels also are prohibited.

On Monday night, Feb. 28, the Lincoln Park Casting club will take over the pool to hold its contest for members only. Tuesday night, March 1, members of the Chicago Fly Casting club will hold their competition. On the following night members of the Illinois Casting club will compete against each other. Thursday night, March 2, is the big night for the fishermen. This event usually is the biggest event of the week with the exception of the final competition, which will be staged Saturday night, March 5.

Compete in Afternoon.

The boys' and girls' competition starts at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, March 5.

William J. Butler of the Shedd aquarium, again will be in charge of all the casting contests and the exhibitions.

Gladiator Reincarnated.

[Suggested by picture in recent Sunday Tribune.]

Two thousand years ago
A gladiator, I,
Who strutted to and fro
Beneath the Roman sky.

A vestal virgin, you,
Of maidenly desires,
With nothing much to do
But poke the altar fires.

I fought in the arena
And in the balcony;
You sat beside the queen, a
Delightful sight to see.

O many a bout I'd won
With sword and snickersnee
Until you went and done
The thing you done to me.

My adversary had
His back to you that day—
A husky, hardboiled lad
Who rather liked to slay.

My trusty sword I drew
And plunged it at his heart,
Then, glancing up at you,
Your quivering lips apart,

I mumbled, stumbled, fell,
His heel upon my breast.
Alas, you know too well,
Too well you know the rest!

I knew that I was lost
When I beheld your frown
And saw your fingers crossed,
Your dainty thumb turned down.

Today once more I come
As ardently as then—
Please don't turn down your thumb
And kill me off again.

LAWSON OPTIMISTIC

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Roxie Lawson, the Detroit Tigers' leading pitcher last year, predicted today that if Lynwood Rowe successfully overcomes his arm ailment "we will go to town" this season.

"We finished second to the Yankees last year," said Lawson, who came here from his Iowa farm for a two weeks' stay, "despite injuries to Rowe and Manager Cochrane. The Yankees, on the other hand, have been riding along for several years without a serious injury.

"They may continue to get by without them and we may continue to have them, but you know yourself the law of averages should change things around pretty soon."

Lawson, who won 18 games and lost seven last season, will leave here around March 1 for the Tigers' training camp at Lakeland, Fla.

The Tiger star figured his team hit better than the Yankees, but attributed New York's league victory to better results from its pitching staf and the Tigers' injuries.

TERRY, RICKEY CONFER

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Manager Bill Terry of the New York Giants, conferred for four hours with Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Cardinals here today, in an effort to make a trade for Gus Mancuso, veteran Giant catcher.

At the conclusion of the conference, Terry refused to comment beyond saying no agreement had been reached and that negotiations had centered around Mancuso, who went to the Giants from the Cardinals in 1932.

Mancuso, learning that Terry plans to make Harry Danning the Giants first string catcher this year, has let it be known that he would not be satisfied to do relief work and has asked to be traded.

The Cardinals have no veteran catcher, but apparently are not interested in taking back their former star.

Terry left for his home in Memphis immediately after the conference, without intimating whether negotiations would be continued. Rickey said, "We discussed every player on both rosters."

Walter Eckersall Exhibit Added to Historical Group

The Chicago Historical society has added a blanket, sweater, and a miniature gold football, once the property of Walter Eckersall, to its display of famous athletic objects. Eckersall, who was recognized as one of the greatest football players of all time, used the sweater and the blanket during his athletic career at the University of Chicago.

He received the gold football in recognition of his achievements as Maroon quarter back after he had been placed on Walter Camp's all-American teams of 1903, 1904, and 1905. Eckersall, a member of THE TRIBUNE'S sports staf for many years, died in 1930.

The football which was used in the Chicago-Michigan game of 1905 is to be placed on display soon in the historical society's building in Lincoln park.

Canadian Ice Stars Arrive for Carnival

Among the first arrivals for the seventh ice carnival in the Chicago Arena Thursday night were Miss Louise Bertram and Stewart Reburn, from Toronto. They will open rehersals in the Arena today.

They appeared in the Arena twice last season and recently have performed in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. Both are members of the Toronto Skating club.

Caley Sisters Entered.

Other Canadians booked on the four day program are the Caley sisters, Dorothy and Hazel, also from Toronto and members of the Granite club. Chicago pairs will include Ruth English and Louis Pitts, who won the middle west pair championship in Cleveland two weeks ago, and the Mitchell girls, Sally and Joan. The famous team of Norval Baptie and Gladys Lamb, who have been skating for 20 years, also will appear.

Larger groups include the Granite club sextette of Toronto. The sextette is composed of Cecil Smith Gooderham, three times Canadian Olympic singles representative; Eleanor O'Meara, Dominion champion in 1936 and 1938; Eleanor Wilson, former Canadian junior champion; the Caley sisters; and Mrs. Gooderham's sister, Maude McDougald. Mrs. Gooderham, Mrs. McDougald, and Ruth Forrest Ross have formed a trio which will be making its debut in Chicago.

Lee Among Soloists.

Soloists include Chicago's Robin Lee, three times United States champion, who will present the free style routine he will use in the national figure skating meet in Philadelphia later this month; Nate Walley, world's professional champion; Miss O'Meara, and two of Chicago's younger skaters, Nancy Meyer and 9 year old Joan Yocum.

OWEN TO PLAY IN BLACK HORSE TROOP LINEUP

Completely recovered from a recent operation, Harry O. Owen Jr. will take his place in the Chicago Black Horse Troop lineup Saturday night against the Chicago Rangers in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

Owen will make his first start of the season in the Metropolitan Polo league. He has been named by Capt. Roy D. Keehn Jr., defense player and leader of the troop, to take the No. 2 key position on the team. Capt. Keehn also announced that Lieut. Bill Kirby will be at the No. 1 post.

With Owen back in action, the troop will start intensive practice sessions this afternoon for the game with the Rangers. Leon Mandel is the Rangers' captain.

All four of the teams in Saturday night's double-header will utilize the armory arena today for workouts. Another drill is scheduled for Thursday.

The senior division feature of the double-header will send the Chicago Ramblers, led by Herb Lorber, against Fort Sheridan. Fort Sheridan still is after its first victory. The workouts this week will determine the team's personnel and assignment of position.

COURT APPOINTS 2 TRUSTEES FOR ERIE RAILROAD

Will Direct Line Pending Its Reorganization.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Charles E. Denney, president of the Erie railroad, and John A. Hadden, Cleveland attorney, today were appointed by Federal Judge Samuel H. West to serve as trustees of the Erie under section 77 of the federal bankruptcy act.

The Erie, a 2,284 mile railroad system operating between Chicago and New York, began reorganization proceedings on Jan. 18 because of its inability to meet immediate obligations totaling about $2,000,000.

Denny, who is 58 years old, became president of the Erie in 1929 after serving two years as vice president. Previously he had been vice president and general manager of the Nickel Plate railroad.

Hadden Also Industrialist.

Hadden, 51 years old, is a member of the law firm of Andrews, Hadden & Putnam in Cleveland and is secretary and director of the Youngstown Steel Door company. He has not been particularly active in railroad work.

In making the appointments Judge West said there was no necessity for having more than two trustees. All actions of the trustees are subject to federal court approval while the Erie is in reorganization. The appointments will be sent to the interstate commerce commision for confirmation.

Attorneys for approximately fifteen different groups of Erie creditors appeared before the court and filed intervening petitions, most of which asked that rentals and other income be set aside for the benefit of various claims represented.

Hit by 1937 Recession.

After surviving the 1932 depression, which carried approximately one-third of the nation's railroad mileage into receiverships, the Erie encountered financial difficulties in the fall of 1937, when revenues dropped as a result of the business slump.

The Erie earned slightly more than its fixed charges during 1930-'36, inclusive. In the latter year it had $16,910,815 income to pay fixed charges of $14,715,801, but last year its net operating income fell to $13,614,008.

The railroad owes the Reconstruction Finance corporation alone about $16,000,000, of which $3,611,000 matures Feb. 25 and another $847,000 between then and April 28. The government agency has a secured obligation for which some collateral was deposited. How the RFC will fare depends on the reorganization plan eventually adopted, an informed source said.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]— The navy department has awarded a $1,172,919 contract for airplane engines to the Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft corporation.

Atlas Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a copy of your report on Atlas corporation.—R. J.

Answer: Atlas corporation was incorporated in Delaware on Oct. 31, 1936, as a consolidation of Atlas corporation, a predecessor corporation founded in 1923 with capital of $39,000, and the Pacific Eastern corporation, Shenandoah corporation, and Sterling Securities corporation. It is an investment company of the general management type. Net assets on Oct. 31, 1937, end of the last fiscal year, were $71,229,929, against $106,578,591 a year earlier.

Key man in the growth of Atlas corporation has been its president, Floyd Odlum. Foreseeing the 1929 stock crash, Odlum sold a large part of the Atlas portfolio before the break in prices and had $10,000,000 in cash to invest when prices were around depression lows. Among other investments, he bought control of twenty-two investment companies at bargain levels.

Atlas corporation under Odlum has not confined itself to investments in securities. It also invests a large percentage of its capital in special situations, such as reorganizations, and finances new capital issues.

The company's largest single investment as of Oct. 31, 1937, was $12,682,430 market value in debentures of Utilities Power and Light corporation, now being reorganized. Another large investment was $2,267,049 market value in debentures of Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, also being reorganized.

The Atlas portfolio as of Oct. 31, 1937, also included quoted securities aggregating $55,559,651 in market values. Of this amount, common stocks constituted 59 per cent, bonds 31 per cent, and preferred stocks 10 per cent.

The annual report showed consolidated net assets per common share of $13.36 on Oct. 31, 1937, against $18.17 on July 31, 1937, and $18.77 on Oct. 31, 1936. Net investment income for the year ended Oct. 31, 1937, was $1,917,251, or 12 cents a common share. The company lost $280,924 on sale of securities during the year. Because of the consolidation in 1936 and a change in date for ending the fiscal year, comparable figures are not available.

The company had 495,979 shares of 6 per cent cumulative $50 par preferred and 3,456,603 shares of $5 par common stock outstanding on Oct. 31, 1937. Dividends totaling 80 cents a share were paid on the common in 1937.

"EVERYTHING for INDUSTRY"—
Including A Balanced City Budget

Again in 1937

In 1937, for the third consecutive year, Jersey City balanced its budget. $31,520,417.89 in cash was realized by Jersey City from budget anticipated revenues last year. After setting up all reserves and meeting in full in cash all 1937 budget appropriations, there remained from budget operations a cash surplus of $2,028,412.76. All state and county taxes were paid when due and there were no unpaid items of any kind outstanding at the end of the budget year. This excess of income over expenditures was all the more notable because it was achieved without resorting to sales taxes, income taxes, industrial franchise taxes or nuisance taxes of any other sort.

A Desirable Location For Your Business

Ability to market the product of his own labor at a profit is the standard by which every worker and business man measures his own affairs. He prefers to live and work in a community which can likewise operate on a profitable basis, and produce a surplus at the end of the year. Jersey City complies with this exacting requirement. Its desirability as a location for large or small industrial companies is suggested by the fact that more than 5,000 different products are manufactured by its hundreds of diversified plants and factories.

Invitation to Industry

Every large city is the reflection of its advantages and not the result of an accident. Jersey City is ideally situated, from the viewpoint of labor and industrial management, for the manufacture, storage and distribution of products destined for the markets of the world. It has vast nearby markets and splendid transportation facilities by rail, highway, air and eleven miles of water frontage chiefly on the Hudson River and New York Bay. The city affords satisfactory living conditions, economical land costs, and low rate essential services.

U. S. MODIFIES POLICY ON GOLD STERILIZATION

Move Interpreted as Inflation Hint.

Secy. Morgenthau.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today made another modest gesture in the direction of inflation by announcing partial abandonment of the administration's gold sterilization program.

Under the new plan the treasury will permit $400,000,000 of gold to enter the United States in any year before "sterilizing" gold imports. Inasmuch as the plan was made retroactive to Jan. 1, the gold imported to date this year—approximately 30 million dollars' worth—will be immediately deposited in the treasury to the account of the federal reserve system. The 30 million, treasury officials said, had not been "sterilized."

Action Follows Conferences.

This move followed several days of conferences between Secretary Morgenthau and Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board. Neither Morgenthau nor Eccles would give any opinion concerning the possible effect of the new move on business credit or financial markets. One high administration official described it as "not deflationary" but, on the other hand, would not admit that it was inflationary.

Monetary experts outside the administration said that the new move was significant only to the extent that it might be regarded as a straw showing the direction of the wind. In their opinion, it indicated a willingness on the part of the administration to resort to further currency tinkering and monetary maneuvers in case such steps are found necessary to halt the downward trend of business. Only last September the treasury gave way to demands for easier credit conditions and "desterilized" 300 millions dollars' worth of gold that had previously been locked up in the so-called "inactive fund."

Effects of Action.

Today's action will have the following effects:

1. It will increase the "excess reserves" of the commercial banks belonging to the federal reserve system by about 30 million dollars. "Excess reserves" are idle, lendable funds in excess of the amounts which the commercial banks are required to carry on deposit with the federal reserve system. Such "excess reserves" on Feb. 9 amounted to 1 billion, 410 million dollars.

2. It will relieve the treasury of further borrowing on short term bills to cover any further imports of gold up to the 400 million dollar maximum specified by the treasury in any given year.

3. It will freeze at least temporarily the 1 billion 223 million dollars of gold now in the treasury's inactive gold fund. That is, the 1 billion 223 million dollars of gold already "sterilized" will continue to be "sterile."

How it Applies to Future.

4. In the future any additional gold—up to 400 million dollars a year—acquired by the treasury will be permitted to increase the "excess reserves" of the commercial member banks instead of being hoarded against the time when it may be reshipped abroad.

5. The potential lending power of the member banks will be automatically increased by about 150 million dollars.

Morgenthau's official announcement follows:

"On Dec. 22, 1936, the secretary of the treasury stated that, after conferring with the board of governors of the federal reserve system, he proposed to take appropriate action with respect to net additional acquisitions or releases of gold by the treasury department whenever it was deemed advisable and in the public interest to do so.

Reserve Board Consulted.

"In pursuance of that policy, the secretary of the treasury, after conferring with the board of governors of the federal reserve system, today announces that gold acquired by the mints and assay offices after Jan. 1, 1938, will be included in the inactive gold account only to the extent that such acquisitions in any one quarter exceed $100,000,000. No change is being made in the procedure whereby

BUTTER PRICES RISE AS FEDERAL BUYING PROGRAM IS RESUMED

Butter futures prices jumped as much as ⅞ cent a pound yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, under the influence of purchases in the cash market of about 65,700 pounds of butter by the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

In the New York market, the government agency bought an additional 21,700 pounds.

Government agents here termed the purchases, which constituted the first government buying since July, "relief buying."

Chicago traders, pointing to the decline of 10½ cents in butter prices in the last four months, expressed the belief that the government agency was attempting to raise prices by lending support to the market.

The grade bought by the government was "extras," a 92 score butter, at 29½ cents a pound, or ¼ cent higher than Saturday's spot quotation. Last year, the AAA bought 2,500,000 pounds of butter, keeping the price of "extras" at 30 cents a pound from May 15 to July 5.

Butter futures fell from the day's highs to close ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher, with February and March contracts up ⅝ cent at 28¾ cents. November butter closed at 29 cents, up ⅜.

Egg futures fell ⅛ to ¼ cent a dozen in draggy trading. A sharp increase in arrivals was a depressing factor. Eggs in the cash market were unchanged.

SMALL BUSINESS DELEGATES CALL CHICAGO PARLEY

Small business men living in Chicago and nearby cities who attended the recent conferences at Washington have been asked to attend a meeting at the Hotel Sherman on Feb. 22 by a committee which includes George F. McKiernan, head of George F. McKiernan & Co.; Donald P. Blake, general manager of Charles G. Blake & Co., and R. P. Hasty of the Sternberg Sales and Service company.

The general meeting was the result of a conference yesterday of several Chicago district men who had attended the small business sessions at the capital. It is planned to get support at the Feb. 22 meeting for the main points developed at the Washington conference. McKiernan said those attending will be asked to urge their congressmen and senators to give support to sound measures regardless of party.

MORE SHIPPERS IN TEXAS FIGHT FRUIT CONTROL

Weslaco, Tex., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Additional independent shippers appeared today before Glen J. Gifford, acting agent for Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, at the hearing here on the claim of the independent handlers of grapefruit that volume control as now in force is illegal and unfair to them.

Lester Landrum of the Baker and Landrum corporation of Mission was the principal witness. Other independent shippers have been heard during the last two days.

The independents mainly have testified that their shipments were reduced by about 80 per cent when volume control went into effect. Proponents of this method of control contend that the independents have moved more fruit than the market justifies.

Court Upholds State Right to Limit Trucks

BY HAL FOUST.

The United States Supreme court yesterday upheld the authority of states to dictate the maximum legal weight and dimensions of trucks using their highways. The opinion, reversing a decision of federal courts in South Carolina, was of national concern.

The lower tribunal, on petition of a trucking company, had ruled that the South Carolina statutory limitations of 20,000 pounds and a width of 90 inches for trucks were an unreasonable restraint on interstate commerce and an infringement of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution. Most states permit a 96 inch width and much heavier loads.

Illinois Supports Carolina.

Illinois, Kentucky, and Texas filed briefs supporting South Carolina in its appeal to the Supreme court. Jerome F. Dixon, assistant attorney general of Illinois, said that an adverse decision would have given the federal government and not the states jurisdiction in policing their roads.

"The regulatory power of congress over state roads," read a brief prepared by Mr. Dixon, "is limited to the power to regulate the business of interstate commerce. . . . State roads are the property of the respective states. . . . State regulations for the protection of state property do not regulate the business of interstate commerce."

Fought by Florida.

Florida fought the law. Carry D. Landis, Florida attorney general, said that the Supreme court decision was "a terrible blow at the citrus fruit industry."

The lower court found that 85 to 90 per cent of the trucks in interstate hauls were 96 inches wide and weighed more than 20,000 pounds when loaded. Its decision pointed out that no other state had a width limitation below 96 inches.

Justice Stone delivered the opinion. It was a 7 to 0 decision, Justices Cardozo and Reed not participating.

MOTOR CARRIER GROUPS PROTEST RATE SLASHING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Motor carrier organizations in the middle Atlantic states and the midwest today protested to the interstate commerce commission alleged rate cutting by certain operators who have filed tarifs lower than those agreed upon by the organized operators. The Middle Atlantic States Motor Carrier Conference, Inc., was one of the complainants.

The Midwestern Motor Freight Tariff Bureau, Inc., complaining of a long list of operators, charged the rates filed by the low rate group were "too low to preserve healthy and adequate common carrier motor vehicle service and if permitted to continue in effect will result in the demoralization and elimination of adequate transportation service for the shipping public via the common carrier motor vehicle lines." The complaint charged further that the low rates violated the law in being destructively competitive.

STEEL OUTPUT WILL RISE SLIGHTLY THIS WEEK TO 31 PER CENT

Operations in the steel industry this week will expand slightly, according to figures made public yesterday by the American Iron and Steel institute. The institute estimates this week's steel making rate at 31 per cent of capacity, compared with 30.7 per cent last week and 30.5 per cent two weeks ago.

The industry was operating at 29.8 per cent a month ago, just prior to reaching its highest 1938 level to date—32.7 per cent of capacity three weeks ago. This compared with a four year low of 19.2 per cent in the final week of 1937.

Output currently is the smallest for this time of year since 1933. Mills were working at 81.6 per cent of capacity a year ago and at 51.7 per cent two years ago. They were operating at 50.8 per cent in the corresponding week of 1935 and at 39.9 per cent in the corresponding 1934 week.

Steel production in the Chicago district this week is estimated at 23⅓ per cent of capacity by Dow-Jones & Co. This is 0.1 of 1 cent less than last week and 1.6 per cent less than a month ago.

ANOTHER FIRM PLANS TO BUILD ALL-STEEL HOMES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Research engineers are ready to move the all steel, prefabricated home from the laboratory to the family lot. Announcement that Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation had arranged for the construction of steel houses near its new Irvin works coincided with the disclosure that the Blaw-Knox company will put up its first steel home this week.

Carnegie-Illinois granted an option on 175 acres near its $60,000,000 plant at Clairton, Pa., to a Philadelphia contracting company. With the advice of steel company engineers, from 300 to 500 homes will be erected. At least fifty will be all steel.

Culminating experiments of many months, Blaw-Knox has assembled a low cost, all steel house at its plant and will erect it for inspection by prospective purchasers, real estate operators, and contractors. Although neither company set a price on the homes, both asserted they would be in the range of the low and medium wage earners.

GOODYEAR TIRE PROFIT IN 1937 SHARPLY LOWER

Dividend Payment Is Cut in Half.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber company yesterday reported a sharp drop in earnings for 1937 and announced a halving of its common dividend rate for the first quarter of 1938. Two pharmaceutical manufacturers, Parke, Davis and company and Sharp and Dohme, Inc., also reported lower profits for last year.

Net profit of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company in 1937 was $7,257,287 or $1.94 a common share, after inventory writedown of $10,342,743. This compared with profit in 1936 of $10,831,032 or $3.68 a common share, based on present capitalization. Before the inventory adjustment, profit last year amounted to $17,600,030 or $6.97 a common share. Inventories at the end of 1937 totaled $73,987,017 against $75,693,446 a year earlier.

Declare 25 Cent Dividend.

Goodyear directors declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable March 15 to holders of record Feb. 25. In 1937 the company paid four quarterly dividends of 50 cents each and an extra of 50 cents.

Parke, Davis and company and subsidiaries showed a net profit for 1937 of $9,068,304 or $1.85 a share against 1936 profit of $9,213,124 or $1.88 a share. Comparison with the company's nine months' report indicated that net income in the December quarter was $2,291,658, compared with $2,437,793 in the preceding quarter and $2,464,280 in the December quarter of 1936. Inventories at the end of 1937 were valued at $8,656,375 against $7,752,060 on Dec. 31, 1936.

Sharp & Dohme Report.

Net profit of Sharp & Dohme, Inc., last year was $999,168 or 25 cents a common share, compared with $1,123,959 or 41 cents a share in 1936. Comparison with the company's nine months' report showed that net income in the December quarter declined to $126,814, compared with $170,679 in the September quarter and $315,552 in the December, 1936, quarter.

Youngstown Steel Door company reported net profit for 1937 of $2,209,500 or $3.32 a share on 665,290 common shares, compared with profit in

Central Bank Receiver Tells Woes of Lender, Borrowers

Charles H. Albers.

A cross section of the involved process that a bank goes through in collecting past due debts and the financial pains suffered by borrowers liable for the debts is shown in the quarterly liquidating statement of the Central Republic Trust company approved yesterday by Judge John Prystalski in the Circuit court.

The report, for the period from Nov. 1, 1937, to Jan. 29, was filed by Charles H. Albers, receiver for the trust company, which is the liquidating shell of the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company, formerly headed by Gen. Charles G. Dawes.

No Report on RFC Loan.

No announcement was made yesterday of how much had been paid during the quarter on the Reconstruction Finance corporation loan which originally amounted to $90,000,000. On Aug. 1, 1937, it was announced that $50,238,000 had been repaid, and all receipts from liquidation since that time have gone to the RFC.

Yesterday's report disclosed that the liquidator made settlements with debtors for as little as 6 cents on the dollar rather than undertake expense of further litigation which might bring nothing. It also showed the effort of some borrowers to pay their debts at considerable sacrifice.

One settlement reported was the sale of claims of $303,979 for $20,000, which is to be paid within 180 days. The claims were notes of the Dowdle Brothers company, and John J. and R. R. Dowdle, whose underground construction firm collapsed in the depression.

The settlement was made, Albers reported, because it was the best offer after years of negotiations, and also because the Dowdle brothers assert that they have a counter claim against the Central Republic in connection with the sale to the Dowdles by the old Central Republic bank of $125,000 bonds of the Central Brick company. Albers termed this counter claim "very involved," but said that legal opinion indicated it might be held valid if taken into court.

A. R. Floreen, vice president of the City National Bank and Trust company, cleared his liability under a note for $141,675 of the Southwest Bank syndicate, of which he was a member, by a settlement in cash and securities equivalent to about $50,000, the report showed.

The receiver pointed out that other members of the syndicate were still liable for the balance, but said that the settlement with Floreen was made to "avoid litigation," and because "the offer represented a sincere effort to liquidate his obligation to the best of his ability."

Olivet Institute Released.

A first mortgage claim of $67,823 against the Olivet institute, a welfare organization, was released for $35,000 cash. Albert said that "we understand that the $35,000 will be raised in the form of donations made by certain people in Chicago who are interested in the admirable work which the Olivet institute is doing."

E. S. Ashbrook, president of the North American Life Insurance company, settled for $6,500 notes of $11,000 due March 16, 1934.

A $2,000 note of Leroy A. Kling due Jan. 20, 1932, was settled in full for $200. This, it was said, was in view of the fact that "Kling's chances to regain solvency except through compromise settlements or bankruptcy are improbable." His assets were indicated at $166,544 against liabilities of $349,352.

Surrenders Collateral.

David O. True, who was formerly with the securities firm of True, Webber Co., and is now living in Miami, Fla., with "practically no assets," a case of arthritis, and an income of $100 a month from an annuity, settled $4,000 of notes for $500 cash and the surrender of collateral—2,604 shares of True, Webber & Co. common stock, which, it was estimated, would bring about 50 cents a share at public sale.

John C. Bone, now in "ill health" in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., settled notes of $19,384.50 for $500 in cash and title to a 60 foot lot in Wheaton, Ill. Bone, now 64 years old, recently was retired by the Illinois Bell Telephone company on a pension of $200 a month.

OVER 37 MILLION EMPLOYES SEEK SOCIAL SECURITY

Application for social security account numbers by employés under the federal social security act, which went into effect Jan. 1, 1937, totaled 37,349,905 as of Jan. 31, 1938, the board announced yesterday. The report showed that Illinois ranked third among the states with a total on Jan. 31 of 2,691,594.

Following are the ten states in which more than a million applications had been filed by Jan. 31:

New York	5,171,301
Pennsylvania	3,275,759
Illinois	2,691,594
California	2,367,965
Ohio	2,225,965

SOFT COAL RATE STANDS, INSISTS DEFIANT BOARD

Opens Court Fight to Fix Prices.

ATTACK PRICE INJUNCTION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—The bituminous coal commission started a legal battle late today to maintain the minimum prices for soft coal it fixed last Dec. 16. The commission asked the federal Court of Appeals to vacate an order suspending prices affecting the city government of Cleveland. Chairman Hosford said similar action would be taken in an effort to restore the minimum prices for railroad fuel, which were suspended by the same court.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today conferred with Charles F. Hosford Jr., chairman of the national bituminous coal commission, and the immediate result was a militant statement from the commission denying any intention of suspending the minimum price schedule for soft coal which have aroused widespread protest as exorbitant and discriminatory.

Because three federal court orders already have been entered setting aside such schedules, and a large number of petitions against the schedules are pending, there had been conjecture that the commission might suspend all minimum prices pending a final court settlement of the issues involved. It was pointed out that otherwise injustices might accrue to consumers unprotected by legal injunctions.

In this dilemma, Chairman Hosford hurried to the White House. Emerging, he returned to his office and called a meeting of the coal commission. He was authorized to issue a statement, wrathful in tone, which, he said, was intended to correct unsupported conjectures.

Regulations "Still in Effect."

"At the outset," said Hosford, "let me make it clear beyond a shadow of doubt that:

"1. The commission has not suspended its orders establishing market-

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—Stocks closed at irregularly higher levels today after the list had given a drab performance. Of 625 issues traded, 325 closed higher, 153 lower and 145 unchanged. Changes were mostly of a fractional nature.

Volume continued at a low ebb, a total of 400,870 shares changing hands. It was evident, according to brokers, that traders preferred the sidelines pending clarification of legislative activities in Washington and the international situation, particularly events in central Europe.

Stocks registered their best prices at the outset, when the action of pivotal shares suggested a strong market, several starting a point or so above Friday's final quotations. The demand dwindled almost as soon as it started, however, and prices slipped to around previous closing levels, churning about until the final hour, when mild buying again puffed prices.

Steels, motors and metals were prominent in the industrial stocks. U. S. Steel common and Bethlehem scored among the best gains of the day, the former rising 1⅛ and the latter 1 point. Republic, Youngstown, and Crucible gained fractions.

Chrysler and General Motors, both up fractions, closed near their best levels of the day. Fractional gains were the rule in the coppers.

Railroad shares were moderately active in the late upturn.

Arrangements were made today for the sale of a New York Stock exchange membership at $65,000, up $6,000 from the previous sale.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Secondary rails showed furthered improvement today in the bond market, with numerous issues in this group showing gains of a point or more.

Baltimore and Ohio Refunding 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Nickel Plate 5½s, and New York Central 5s were up around a point or more. Smaller gains were made by B. & O. convertible 4½s, Rock Island 4s, Southern railway 4s, and Southern Pacific 4½s. Great Northern 4s and 4½s were down a shade.

Industrials were mixed. Utility liens were unchanged to slightly lower.

United States governments for the most part were higher, gains running as high as 10-32s, while losses were held 2-32s. Among the foreign governments, Japanese issues were under new pressure with losses of more than a point. The action of the Cuban senate in authorizing redemption of the public works issue was reflected in a rise of 6¼ points in the Cuban 5½s.

Sales were $6,339,600, face value, compared with $6,340,125 last Friday.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks again dragged irregularly within a narrow range yesterday in a dull trading session involving only 13,000 shares. Of the 79 issues traded, 22 advanced, 19 declined, and 38 were unchanged.

The Tribune average of 20 stocks closed at 9.55, up 0.05 from the preceding close. Volume leaders, like the list as a whole, were irregular. Northwest Bancorporation advanced ⅛ to 7¼ on sales of 1,000 shares. Commonwealth Edison was unchanged at 23⅜, with 800 shares traded, and Middle West moved up ⅛ to 5⅛, Cord Corporation dropped ⅛ to 1½, and Armour was unchanged at 5¾.

Bank Stocks.

The quiet market in Chicago bank stocks continued through yesterday, with little change in price quotations. The largest change was in First National bank stock, which declined $3 a share to $197 bid, $201 asked. One dealer quoted the stock as low as $196 bid. Continental Illinois shares eased 50 cents to $66.50 bid, $68.50 asked.

GRAIN MARKETS MOVE NARROWLY IN QUIET TRADE

Price changes in grain futures yesterday were largely confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel. Wheat showed a firm undertone, but corn was slightly easier. Speculative interest was at a minimum.

Continued drouth and reports of dust storms in parts of Kansas and Nebraska had some effect on the wheat market. The dry areas failed to receive any moisture over the holidays, which largely offset the weakness in Liverpool and lack of foreign demand. Liverpool wheat futures closed 1 cent a bushel lower.

Inflation reports were regarded by grain traders as being too indefinite to have any effect of consequence on the market, and routine news was largely ignored. A decrease of 4,310,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat brought the total down to 64,999,000 bushels, or about 66,000,000 bushels under the peak accumulation of last September. A year ago stocks were 43,482,000 bushels.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Weakness prevailed in the markets for most live stock yesterday despite light Monday receipts. Cattle prices were hit rather hard, dropping mostly 15 to 25 cents after a draggy, uncertain opening.

Demand for beef at the current low level of prices has not developed as satisfactorily as packers had hoped, and buyers were anxious to cheapen their live costs as much as possible.

The trade for hogs opened steady, but weakened later. The average for the session showed 5 cents decline at $8.15. Lambs sold steady, and old sheep stronger.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

THRIFTY ROBBED BY U. S. POLICY, MAGILL HOLDS

Assails Handling of Social Security Fund.

The policies of the Washington administration are depriving Americans of the right to practice thrift and are robbing Americans of their future as represented by their stake in the social security fund, Dr. Hugh S. Magill, president of the American Federation of Investors, Inc., yesterday told the City club at the Hotel Sherman.

Dr. Magill explained that the average American who would be thrifty to provide for his old age or for a rainy day does not now have a place to put his funds because of the administration's attitude toward business. Not only do the administration's policies deprive the citizens of making direct investments, but they also threaten between 60,000,000 and 65,000,000 insurance policies as a result of attacks on business, Dr. Magill asserted.

Lashes Spending Practice.

Discussing the government's use of funds collected for social security to meet its current expenses, Dr. Magill said that if any insurance company were to follow a similar practice it would be put out of business.

"I wish we could make our social security secure," Dr. Magill said. "The government should not rob our workers. So long as it continues to spend at such a dizzy pace we know that those who put their money into social security will not get it back.

"The government takes 1 billion dollars out of the social security fund and puts in its place a lot of I. O. U's. And the government boasts of spending this money. The people had better wake up for their own sake and for the sake of those who will starve if these policies are allowed to continue."

Little Fellow Owns Big Business.

Dr. Magill declared that any step taken by the administration which affects business affects every citizen. In 110 leading corporations, he said, there are 4,149,666 stockholders, and of these stockholders 3,572,000 own 100 shares or less. Big business, he said, really is business owned by millions of American citizens who are exercising their ancient right of putting the fruits of their toil into property from which they expect a return.

Dr. Magill said that the organization which he heads has received many letters from individuals, among them elderly women dependent upon estates left by their husbands. These letters tell how their investments have gone down or have vanished, and in many instances this may be attributed to the administration's attacks on business, Dr. Magill declared.

BALLOTINGHEAVY AS CURB ELECTS NEW GOVERNORS

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—In the heaviest voting by members in the history of the New York Curb exchange, a new board of thirteen governors was chosen today at the annual election. One of the upsets was the selection of an "independent," Henry Parish II., a present governor, who was filling out an unexpired term and was not picked by the nominating committee.

Parish polled a surprising number of votes, and was third highest among the governors. J. Chester Cuppia, a regular selection by the nominating committee, was defeated as a result of being low man among the fourteen candidates.

The balloting was a prelude to the conceded reëlection of Fred C. Moffet as president which will take place at the reorganization meeting of the new governors Wednesday. It is at this meeting that the first step is expected to be taken which eventually will result in reorganization of the Curb exchange.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Crop Planner Supreme

February 14, 1938.

WEATHER has had more to do with the up and down swings in the production of corn, wheat, oats, cotton, and other main crops than all the efforts made during the last few years to adjust crop acreage to suit demand, expert analyses show.

Computations on several crops made by Nat C. Murray, Chicago statistician, to compare the effects of weather and other causes on production in different years discloses that the small crop of corn picked in 1934 was due chiefly to the drouth, the hottest and driest year on record.

Some of the reduction was the result of acres being taken out of production under the federal government's acreage adjustment plan. That year the corn crop of slightly less than 1½ billion bushels was about 39 per cent lower than the previous year's crop. The acreage was only slightly less than 13 per cent under the previous year's acreage, while the yield per acre was 30 per cent short of that for 1933. Production was seriously cut by adverse weather conditions.

Biggest Factor in 1935.

In 1935 when there was a good crop of corn—58 per cent more than was produced the previous year—the yield per acre was 52 per cent more and the acreage was only 4 per cent more than in 1934. Again weather, not the increase in acreage, obviously was the biggest factor in producing a good crop—an average of 24 bushels per acre, or a total of 2,303,000,000 bushels. It was slightly above the average for the last ten years.

Another drouth hit the corn belt in 1936. Again production fell to about 1½ billion bushels, or 37 per cent under the previous year's harvest. The average yield per acre was 31 per cent less than the year before, but the acreage was only 3 per cent lower than in 1935.

Then came the bumper crop of more than 2,644,000,000 bushels of corn last year when weather played the most important roll, while the shift in acreage was insignificant. The acreage was increased only eight-tenths of 1 per cent, the yield per acre was 74 per cent greater than the previous year, and the production was nearly 75 per cent more than the 1936 corn crop.

Same Story for Cotton.

The computations also show that in the southern states in 1933, when as a result of government action there was the greatest reduction in cotton acreage on record—18 per cent less than the previous year—the total production was four-tenths of 1 per cent more than in 1932. The acreage reduction was offset by favorable weather which boosted the yield per acre 23 per cent above the year before. The weather was a bigger influence than all the governmental effort to reduce production of cotton.

Stories similar to those found in corn and cotton could be shown for oats, wheat, and other crops.

BUSINESS LOANS BY BANKS SHOW $8,000,000 GAIN

Holdings of Federal Obligations Rise.

Loans made by the member banks of the federal reserve system to commerce, industry, and agriculture, showed a net increase of 8 million dollars in the week ended Feb. 9, rising to a total of 4 billion 402 million dollars, the federal reserve board said yesterday in its weekly report on member bank conditions in 101 leading cities.

There was a decrease in the week ended Feb. 9 under the week ended Feb. 2 of 4 millions in loans made to these three groups on securities, but such loans otherwise secured and unsecured increased 12 millions, making the net change 8 millions.

Recent Downtrend Sharp.

For many weeks up to Feb. 2, the federal reserve board reported sharp declines in loans made to commerce, industry, and agriculture. Such loans are rated as a good barometer of business conditions because when business declines it has no need for loans, whereas when it is active it needs loans to finance its operations and consequently the total of loans rises.

Bank holdings of United States government obligations showed a net increase of 42 millions, of which 37 millions was in direct government obligations and 5 millions was in obligations fully guaranteed by the government. In the week ended Feb. 2 there was a net decline of 9 millions.

Patman Proposes Chain Store Tax of $50 to $1,000

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Representative Patman [D., Tex.] today proposed excise taxes of $50 to $1,000 on chain stores. He said 150 congressmen favored it. The bill would exempt the first nine stores in a chain. The number from ten to fifteen would pay $50 a year, and the top rate of $1,000 would apply to all stores in excess of 500.

U. S. MODIFIES POLICY ON GOLD STERILIZATION

Move Believed to Point Toward Inflation.

A high fiscal official who was present when Morgenthau made the announcement said relief from borrowing for gold sterilization operations, will enable the treasury to avoid increasing the public debt for this purpose. The federal debt reached a new all-time high of $37,576,727,712 Feb. 11.

Applauded by Inflationists.

Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], inflationist leader, applauded the action.

"This is the first step in the right direction," he said. "But it does not go far enough. It just applies to new gold coming in and doesn't mention the $1,223,000,000 fund of sterilized gold. It was a pretty hard pill for them to swallow, but they are trying to check the decline in commodity prices."

Another inflationist, Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.], said:

"I commend that move. I only regret they haven't done that before, and that they have not released more gold. The country is in a tailspin and something must be done. It's a monetary problem, and while this may be only a flea bite, it is a step in the right direction."

Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], said:

"A very sound and wise proposal. The whole sterilization plan is incredible—preposterous. The sooner we revise this stupendous folly the better it will be for the American people."

Stocks Rally in West.

The treasury announcement was made after the New York markets closed, but in San Francisco the news was received in time to cause a mild upturn in prices on the stock exchange.

The new policy of admitting up to 400 million dollars of gold per year before beginning "sterilization" operations is not as potential a market factor as it would have been if adopted a year or two ago. The flow of gold to the United States has been greatly reduced since the beginning of the business recession late last summer. In some recent weeks there has been a net outflow of gold from the United States.

British Idea Borrowed.

"Sterilization" of gold was an idea borrowed from the British by Secretary Morgenthau in December, 1936. It was designed to offset the inflationary effect of large imports of foreign gold. Gold imports amounting to several billions had increased the idle "excess reserves" of the banks to a point where they threatened to become the basis for a vast expansion of bank credit.

Under the "sterilization" scheme the treasury, by issuing short term obligations in amounts corresponding to the dollar value of the imported gold, continuously sponged up the "excess reserves" which would otherwise have been created.

The treasury merely borrowed money from the banks as fast as the banks received it in the form of gold imports. By placing the proceeds of the sale of these obligations in an "inactive fund"—a sort of trust arrangement—the treasury kept on hand the cash with which to retire these special bills when and if the gold was reëxported.

Purpose Called Sound.

Financial men were impressed at the time with the soundness of the idea back of the "sterilization" plan, because it kept foreign funds seeking temporary refuge in the United States from creeping into the nation's bank credit structure. They agreed with the treasury that to permit "frightened money" from Europe to become a part of the permanent structure of bank credit would be to invite disaster in the form of a sharp contraction of bank credit later on when some of the European interests might decide to take their funds back home.

After having sold the "sterilization" idea so effectively, the treasury last September surprised American financial experts by suddenly reversing itself and releasing 300 millions of "sterilized" gold. Today's move was the second step in this reversal of policy.

On Quarterly Basis.

The new program announced today was placed on a quarterly basis. From Jan. 1 to March 31, for example, all gold acquired by the treasury up to a maximum of 100 millions will be allowed to become the basis for expansion of the banks' excess reserves—that is, it will not be "sterilized."

On the other hand, if the flow of gold turns outward from the United States, the treasury will reduce its "sterilized" gold hoard by the amount of the exportation. Cash realized from such releases of gold will be made available to reduce the public debt or to reduce government borrowings which would otherwise have been necessitated by the deficit in the treasury's regular financial operations.

DOLLAR DECLINES.

The dollar declined in terms of most European currencies yesterday on selling attributed in part to rumors of action by the United States government in regard to gold. Foreign exchange markets had closed when Secretary Morgenthau announced a new policy on sterilization of imported gold.

The pound sterling closed ⅛ of a cent higher at $5.02 5-16 and the Holland guilder climbed 0.07 to 56.05 cents. The Belgian belga finished at 17 cents, up 0.01 of a cent, and the Swiss franc at 23.25, up 0.02 of a cent. An exception was the French franc, which declined 0.01¾ of a cent to 3.30 cents.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS TEXAS GAS RATE SLASH

Justices Fail to Give Unanimous Opinion.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—An order of the Texas railroad commission requiring the United Gas Public Service company to reduce its gas rate for Laredo, Tex., from 75 cents to 55 cents per 1,000 cubic feet was upheld today in a mixed decision by the Supreme court of the United States.

Chief Justice Hughes delivered the majority opinion, sustaining a decision by the Court of Civil Appeals for the third supreme judicial district of Texas, which upheld the rate reduction. The order was issued in 1933, but was made effective as of Jan. 1, 1932, and the difference in the amount was to be refunded to customers.

Justices Divided in Opinions.

Justice Reed did not participate in the decision, and Justice Black delivered a separate concurring opinion, in which he disagreed with the reasoning of the majority opinion. Justices McReynolds and Butler dissented, declaring the judgment should be reversed.

Another action of interest to business men was the refusal of the Supreme court to enjoin the sale of $12,000,000 of bonds by the Sacramento municipal utility district, sought by the Pacific Gas and Electric company, for the construction of a competing power system.

The company contended that it already served the 650 square mile district, and that it should not be required to pay a proposed tax for construction of a new system which would be in competition with it.

Utility Loses Rate Appeal.

The Consolidated Water company of Utica, N. Y., lost in the Supreme court when its appeal from a rate order by the public service commission of New York state reducing its rates $120,000 annually was dismissed.

The court also refused a review of a decision by a federal Appeals court upholding the validity of the Pipkin patent for frosting electric light globes, which is owned by the Genpursuers of health. A system is es-

TWO COMPANIES CUT DIVIDENDS; ANOTHER OMITS

Two companies reduced payments on their common stock and directors of another corporation took no action on the dividend due at this time. Several other companies maintained regular dividend rates.

The Schiff company, operator of a chain of shoe stores, will pay 25 cents on its common stock March 15. The company had paid 50 cents a quarter previously.

A dividend of 20 cents was declared by the Simonds Saw and Steel company, contrasted with 80 cents last Dec. 15, and 50 cents on Sept. 15, and $7 earlier in the year before a 10 for 1 stock splitup.

The Jaeger Machine company, which paid $2 a share, including a year-end dividend of $1.25 in November, was the corporation whose directors omitted dividend action.

COTTON

Buying of cotton by shorts, Wall Street and foreigners on the prospect the senate would pass the farm bill later in the day resulted in a sharp advance in futures yesterday. Although closing trades were slightly under the day's highs, net gains on the Chicago Board of Trade were .09 to .12 cent per pound. Other American markets were .08 to .12 cent a pound higher.

Consumption of American cotton in January, as reported by the department of commerce, was 435,000 bales, against 679,000 bales in January, 1937. For the six months ending Jan. 31, 1938, consumption was 3,085,000 bales, or 770,000 bales less than during the same period in 1936-'37.

Spot cotton closed .10 cent higher, compared with Friday, with New Orleans, 9.10 cents; New York, 8.90 cents and Galveston and Houston at 8.80 cents a pound. Prices follow:

SOFT COAL RATE STANDS, INSISTS DEFIANT BOARD

Opens Fight in Courts on Price Fixing Orders.

"2. All such regulations and minimum prices, therefore, remain in full force and effect except where a court of competent jurisdiction has intervened, and even then regulations and minimum prices are suspended only to the extent specifically directed in a court order.

"3. Confident in the knowledge that it did not act arbitrarily or capriciously in effectuating the mandates of the law, the commission has no intention of suspending the regulations and price schedules it established after many months of hard work, careful studies, and under the guidance of competent legal counsel."

Expects Petition to Be Filed.

Hosford said he was informed that a petition may be filed with the United States Circuit court here requesting suspension of all minimum prices established by the commission.

"Such a petition will be vigorously opposed by the commission," he declared. "Indeed, we will continue to oppose, through proper legal proceedings, all efforts to have our regulatory orders invalidated by the courts upon technical grounds. In the meantime every order of the commission remains in full force and effect except those which are enjoined by a court of competent jurisdiction."

The commission's attorneys will fight to the highest courts against suspension of its price schedules in the belief that it has properly administered the coal act, Hosford asserted.

Blames the Weather.

The business recession and the weather were among causes advanced by Hosford for present bad conditions in the soft coal industry.

"The public in many instances has been told that we have raised prices against the household consumer, and that solely because of our price schedules, mines have been forced to close, throwing many persons out of work," the statement continued. "Within the industry it is generally known that initial minimum prices were established at a time when their application was sure to be difficult; that producers and consumers alike built up large coal reserves immediately before prices became effective; that the generally mild winter has reduced coal consumption, and that the business recession has caused a temporary but substantial reduction in tonnage consumed by industry."

Price Raises "Inescapable."

The coal chairman said it was "inescapable" that enforcement of the coal act would produce increases in prices for industrial coal. He contended that the commission had protected the household consumer in so far as mine prices were concerned.

The city of Cleveland, which has obtained an injunction in the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, was singled out in the statement for attack.

"Cleveland, now relieved of any requirement to pay the minimum prices established by this commission, yesterday bought coal for 75 cents per ton," the statement declared.

The commissioners declared themselves "unwilling to shoulder responsibility for the bankruptcies of producers, and possible wage reductions and consequent labor disputes, which may well result from a general suspension of the minimum price schedules of the bituminous coal industry."

"If prices are suspended, the responsibility must fall upon those who obviously are opposed to government regulation of the bituminous coal industry," the statement concluded.

January Automobile Sales Show Gain Over December

Sales of new passenger cars during January in seventeen states totaled 39,981 units, an increase of 2.8 per cent over the 38,884 sales in the same states in December, R. L. Polk reported yesterday. This was a reversal of the trend of recent months, which have seen a steady decline in sales. However, the sales were 41 per cent below the 68,257 units sold in the same month of 1937.

Organized Markets.

An organized market is one in which the trading is done under formal regulations. It is similar to a corporation in that it elects directors and officers who draw up and administer the rules of the organization. It resembles a club in that new members usually are admitted by vote of directors or members and pay dues as well as an initial admission fee.

There are five general conditions needed to make a particular product suitable for the formation of an organized market for its handling. These are that the product be not quickly perishable, that its quantity may be easily stated by number, weight or measure, that it have qualities permitting it to be graded and classified exactly, that it be something in which a large number of buyers and sellers are or will be interested, and that conditions affecting it be such that price fluctuations may be frequent and comparatively large.

These conditions are found in such things as corporation securities and the basic commodities—grains, metals, and such food articles as sugar and coffee—but do not usually apply to manufactured products.

In 1908 this quaint conception of a lake front cultural center at Congress street was considered within reasonable expectancy. Congress street was to be the "Axis of Chicago" under the Burnham plan, extending to a civic center at Halsted street which never materialized. Now, with talk of making Congress street into a superhighway, it is pointed out there are other possible locations where it would not be necessary to spend $17,609,400 for right of way. (Story on page 2.)
